Upwards of eight hundred and fifty thousa dollars, in paper, of the Indiana Free Banks has been returned to the Auditor of that State, for cancellation, within the last two months. The Atlantic and Ohio Telegraph Company have declared a dividend of fifty cents per share payable on demand, at the office of the Company in Philadelphia. The people of Bucks county, Pennsylvania have been holding a public meeting about the expulsion of Capt. Downing, of the Navy, and are going to apply to the President to have him

On Wednesday morning a serious accident oc oured on the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad, caused by a wood train coming in collision with a "flyin" freight train. The accident oc cured near Clinton station-one man was killed and three or four others seriously injured-all employees of the company.

The Convention of Ohio and Indiana Railroads which met at Columbus on the 21st of September last, held an adjourned meeting in Dayton Wednesday last. Delegates from twentythree Ohio and Indiana roads were in attendance. Resolutions proposing the abolition of free passes; the dispensing of agents or runners; and a rise in freight charges equal to 20 cept that in regard to freight.

OLD FAMILIES. Most people like to be able to trace their line age back for several generations:—for a century at least. In this country, if a man can show that he is a descendant of some one who took part, on the right side, in the war of the revolution, he need go no further to establish a claim to consideration and respect; and in most instances probably it is neither safe or useful to families" in Europe and Asia.

The Bourbons of France, for instance, claim direct descent from Phillip of Macedon, the father of Alexander the Great. Some facts of history throw a strong doubt on the claim; but it may be so.

The Bagration family of Russia claim direct descent from Kings David and Solomon. As both those gentlemen had a good many children, there is some chance that the claim may be well founded, though hardly susceptible of legal proof. At any rate, the Bagration family have for several centuries back shown little of the wisdom of Solomon. The chief of the family of Bagration ascended the throne of Georgia more than thirteen hundred years ago; more than five centuries before the Norman conquest of England. It continued to be the royal and reigning family of Georgia until the year 1800, when Georgia became a part of the Russian Empire: and they are treated with great respect. The Lebanon co ... Marshal Prince Bagration greatly distinguished himself in the Bonaparte wars; was at one time commander of the Russian army, and fell at Borodino There is an old family; and it is rich, vigorone and numerous yet. The family of Colona. in Rome, claim to be lineal descendants of a distinguished Roman Senator who flourfished before the days of the Cmaars.

The Hapsburg family, the chief of whom is now Emperor of Austria, claim direct descent from the Roman Cassars. We presume it would be difficult to prove such a pedigree in an action of ejectment. The Gueiphs, to whom Queen Victoria belongs, is a very old family, and centuries ago were a troublesome and warlike race in the north of Italy. The family of Romanoff, of whom Nicholas Emperor of Russia is the representative, is very ancient. They were the rulers of Muscovy under different titles centuries ago: and few families have for so long a succession of ages displayed so much vigor and ability. To that race Russia is largely indebted for its present power, wealth and civilization.

Some of the nobility of England trace their lineage back to the "belted knights," who came over from Normandy with William the Conquer. or. Whether it is more creditable to them to trace their descent from those robber chiefs than from peasant stock, is a matter of taste about which Democrats and "the quality" would probably differ.

There are many families in Pennsylvania who could trace their decent from ancestors of high name and rank in Europe. The descendants of the Percys, the turbulent barons of Northumberland, now reside in our State. The blood of Harry Hotspur, it is said, is in their veins. There is a family residing "not a hundred miles" from Pittsburgh, who are descended from an ancient king of Scotland. But such titled ancestry is of little use in this country of equality; and confers little honor on our republican citizens. The poet Burns has expressed the
