THE CITY POST.

THURSDAY MORNING.....NOVEMBER 30.

SEVERELY BURNED.—A distressing accident, probably resulting in the death of a young and interesting son of Mr. Wm. Young, of the Sixth Ward, occurred yesterday morning. The child, who is only six years of age, was playing in a room of his father's residence, along with three or four others, at the game of Blind Man's Buff. One of the children, in a spirit of playfulness, threw himself on the floor in front of Mr. Young's child, who, stumbling along with his eyes blindfolded, tripped over the recumbent form, and was thrown into the midst of a blazing fire burning in the grate. The children, terribly frightened, had not presence of mind sufficient to pull the poor sufferer away, and it was only after their piercing shrieks brought the father of the child into the room, that assistance was afforded. The whole face and neck of the child was burned and disfigured in the most horrible manner. Fears are entertained that the injuries may result fatally. Even if the unfortunate sufferer recovers, the marks of the accident will be visible as long as life lasts. The parents of the child are plunged in the most poignant anguish on account of the affair.

THEATER.—Manager Foster has turned his attention to the re-production of the magnificent dramatic spectacles formerly so popular. Last night, the ever-drawing spectacle, dramatized from Dumas' novel of the Three Guardsmen, was placed upon the stage in beautiful style, the scenery, decorations, appointments and dresses being of the most superb description. The play was eminently successful—a continuous round of cheers, from the commencement to the close, manifesting the satisfaction of the audience with the entire performance. To-night will be produced the thrilling drama of the Roman Father, or the Fighting Brothers of Rome, with all the accessories of splendid dresses and new and beautiful scenery. Mr. Foster displays a taste never surpassed, in placing such pieces on the stage, and deserves encouragement from our theatre-goers.

PICKPOCKETS IN THE MARKET HOUSE — We hear complaints almost every market day of some one having their pockets picked in the market house. These offences are committed by a gang of pilferable scoundrels destitutes of courage enough to commit bolder thefts, who frequent the market place, and steal the pocket books of unsuspecting women. On last Saturday, a lady of our acquaintance, while in the second story of the market building, was robbed of a valuable shawl pin, and a porte-monnie containing ten dollars. The rascals work quietly and unsuspected in the crowd. The market constable has been told repeatedly of these depredations, but appears to pay no attention to the matter; we, therefore, advise all who have business there to keep a look out for themselves.

FREE LECTURE.—We hope our readers will not forget the lecture of Hon. Walter H. Lowrie, this evening, at the Second Presbyterian Church, before the Young Men's Christian Association. We have not heard what is to be the subject discussed, but feel assured it will instruct and interest all. Judge Lowrie is well known in this community as a cultivated and classical scholar; and it would be superfluous on our part to say anything in his favor. An hour spent in listening to him will not be time unprofitably passed.

A DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT.—We observe workmen are engaged paving Wood street, from between Webster and Cliff. This is an improvement long needed in that quarter of the city, and we are surprised was not commenced earlier. Several other streets, we think, are almost impassable for the want of a "bottom," and the inhabitants in the neighborhood, will rejoice greatly to hear that the Street Commissioner has taken charge of them hereafter.

THE COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS was occupied yesterday in the continuance of the trial of M'Gullough, for creating a nuisance. The testimony in the case is quite voluminous, and will occupy a couple of days longer. The Commonwealth concluded the hearing of evidence on their side at noon, yesterday.

FIRE.—A frame stable, on the Fourth street road, near Ohio Bridge, belonging to Mr. James Reed, was totally destroyed by fire last night, about ten o'clock, together with a large amount of hay and feed. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary, as the fire broke out in the building. The total loss will amount to about $1000.

FINED.—The Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad Company was fined five dollars and costs, yesterday, by Mayor Voiz, for allowing cars belonging to them to stand on Liberty street, contrary to the city ordinance. The cars were brought on from the East, and were awaiting shipment up the Monongahela.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING—A young man named William Milligan, fell into the Monongahela river, above the first dam, yesterday, and narrowly escaped drowned. He was only saved through the intrepidity of a comrade, who jumped in and rescued him, just as he was sinking for the last time.

SELECT SOIREE.—Madame Granet's first Select Soiree will be given this evening at Lafayette Hall. Every arrangement has been made to give eclat to the affair, and those who are so fortunate as to secure a ticket of invitation, may calculate on having a first rate time.

HELD TO BAIL.—George Booth, against whom suit was brought, a few days ago, in the District Court, for slander, by John Brown, was arrested, yesterday, and held to bail in the sum of $2000, the amount of damages claimed.

REMEMBER—The best place to buy good hats at fair prices is at the Banner Hat Store, 47 Wood street, opposite the new Presbyterian Church. Look out for the sign of the American Flag.

SURETY OF THE PEACE.—A man named Philip M'Keona was held to bail yesterday, by Alderman M'Masters, for threatening to shoot his sister-in-law, EllenBlock.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE AFRICA.

NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 29—The steamer Africa arrived with Liverpool dates to the 18th. There is nothing really later or important from the seat of war. A pause has ensued in the field fighting before Sebastopol. The despatches of both Russians and British say that the siege progresses with regularity, and that preparations are making for an assault. Both parties are in want of reinforcements, but the besiegers are worse off than the besieged. The Russians begin to want ammunition, and the allies are reduced, by battle and disease to 50,000, which caused much alarm in England and France, and the utmost efforts are making to send instant reinforcements. All the mail steamers are chartered.

The winter is setting in severely. There has been stormy weather on the Black Sea, and two Turkish frigates were wrecked.

The great hospital in Sebastopol, with 2,000 wounded, was burned by the fire of the allies.

There will be no mail until the Pacific sails on the 29th, the government having taken the Niagara off the Halifax route.

A large French loan is spoken of.

The Africa brings 66 passengers. The news by the Union, from Southampton, will be four days later, after which there will be a skip of a week, owing to the withdrawal of the Niagara.

The Austrian note, in reply to Prussia's note of the 30th October, arrived at Berlin on the 12th. So far as its contents have transpired, Austria gladly accepts Prussia's promise of support in the Principalities, but lays great stress on having this assistance, which is viewed as a logical and necessary consequence of the treaty of April 20th, rather than a new arrangement.

It was expected in the French camp that an assault would be made on the 5th, which would have been, had not the Russians attacked the allied positions on the 4th. The firing was slack on both sides.

Preparations are being made for an assault. Scaling ladders had been ordered up.

Four Russian ships were sunk in the harbor by the allies' fire. One of them was the Twelve Apostles.

The typhus fever had broken out at Sebastopol, from the number of unburied dead. Conflagrations were continually occurring from red hot shot, and water was getting exceedingly scarce.

The Russians are preparing for street fighting. They are posting cannon to sweep the streets, fortifying houses, &c.

The English official account of the action of the 5th did not reach London until the 16th, owing to the telegraphic interruption.

Lord Raglan says, the enemy, with an immense force, attacked yesterday in the dawn of morning the right of the English position. The battle was extremely obstinate, and not until past noon was the enemy definitely repulsed. They were forced to retreat, leaving the field covered with dead. Several hundred prisoners were taken. The number of the enemy's dead exceeded that of the allies. Those of the Russians were enormous; our losses have also been very great, and Generals Sir George Brown, Bentinck, Adams, Butler, and Torrens were wounded. The conduct of the troops in the face of an enemy so superior in numbers was excellent.

A Russian official letter says the arrival of the Grand Duke produced such enthusiasm in the ranks that the Generals thought it well to turn it to account. Consequently the garrison made two sorties—the first at one o'clock, against the English; and the second at two o'clock, against the French. The English repulsed the sortie, after a desperate kind. It is said that the Russians succeeded in spiking their guns. On the side of the French, the sorties were also spiked by the Russians. After this the Russians retired in all haste, when the French division pursued them under the very walls. It was met with a terrible murderous fire, and they had to fall back. A sanguinary and obstinate struggle ensued, which was prolonged until nightfall. The Russians admit the loss of four thousand men, but adds that the loss of the allies was at least equal, according to his account. Twenty-two thousand Russians were engaged in this affair.

Menschikoff announces that he is about to concentrate all his forces at Bakchiserai, Simferopol, and Perekop.

Admiral Machinoff, reported dead, it is said, has recovered and resumed his duty.

A Vienna despatch of the 15th says that despatches from Bakchiserai, dated the 11th, were received this evening, according to which Menschikoff had left that city with the loss of the Russians is nine thousand, and the loss of the allies was also great, but they remained masters of the field.

Sickness is on the increase in the allied camp.

A Turkish eighty gun ship and frigate were sunk in the gale.

The official Russian news, via Vienna, states that from the 5th to the 9th the firing of heavy guns was incessant, but the bombardment continued but the breaches are always repaired.

St. Petersburg advices report that the English fleet left the Baltic.

The winter has set in with unusual severity.

Palmerston did not leave London for Paris until the 16th. The official statement of the affairs of Allen & Anderson, is published. It states that they will pay about 5s in the pound.

A French loan, of 5 or 600,000,000 of francs, is spoken of. The French troops are being withdrawn from Italy.

LATEST.

LONDON, SATURDAY.—Sir George Cathcart and General Strangways and Goulder were killed in the action on the 5th. This is official.

A mass of telegraphic despatches were received during the day. The following are the only items not previously published:

So from the Crimea on the 4th state that the Duke of Cambridge had his horse killed under him. The English had 2000 killed and wounded. The loss of the French was 5,000, and the Russian 30,000 killed, 7 and 8,000.

Prince Napoleon arrived at Constantinople, suffering from a diarrhœa attack.

On the 5th 40,000 Russians were engaged; the redoubts were taken and re-taken. General Brown's arm was amputated.

The Russians had left the heights at Balaklava expecting reinforcements. The allies were being continually reinforced. Sir George Cathcart, &c., were buried on the 7th.

Letters from Constantinople to the 6th, state that 5000 French troops had left for the Crimea, with a favorable wind.

The Sultan has degraded Suleeman Pacha, commander of the Ottoman troops in the Crimea.

The Turkish man-of-war, Abadiche, foundered, with the Turkish admiral and crew, in the Black Sea in a squall. An Egyptian frigate was lost in the Black Sea.

Miss Nightingale, with thirty-seven nurses for the hospital at Scutari, arrived in Constantinople on the 8th.
