UTAH AND THE MORMONS. The territory of Utah is destined ere long t become one of the largest, wealthiest and mos populous States of our great confederacy. It contains already over seventy-five shousand in behitants; and though nearly all Mormons, they people. It is already one of the wealthiest munities. The crops this year were excellent. Their lands will produce on an Clarke. average, about thirty bushels of wheat to the duced in great abundance, and, although far inland, they find a ready and profitable market for all their surplus provisions, in supplying the throngs of emigrants who pass through Salt Lake City, on their way to and from California. The Salt Lake City is eight hundred miles north of east from San Francisco, and about three city. On Wednesday, interesting developments hundred and fifty miles west from the Great oity. On Wednesday, interesting South Pass of the Rocky Mountains. In latie tude and climate it is about the same as Pennparts of the territory; and it is well known that gold abounds in several places; but Governor Young will not permit his people to engage in digging it. He encourages agricultural indusmining would engender indolence, extravagance mons only are wanted for settlers, and in a few years they will be numerous enough to protect their own mines, and own and enjoy all their products. Not long since a company of men commence working it; but upon asking Governor Young for permission to do so, he posiwork there, he replied that they had better

There they are resolved to abide in the full enjoyment of their own relig-ion and customs; and, from the defiant language of Governor Young, it is very evident that any attempt on part of the federal government to interfere with their local institutions, Sweden and Norway they are gathering every year large accessions to their population. They have an organized system of emigration, and abundant funds to aid all to reach their territo-

Upon the organization of the territory President Fillmore appointed Brigham Young Governor. Few now think that it was a proper choice. Though his term of office scone expires, Brigham receives to retain the office, and declares he will be Governor until the Lord bids him resign. Any successor that the President may appoint is threatened with forcible ejectment from the territory Democratic Union. Capt. They are a little afraid of Governor Young and his thirty or forty wives, with sixty-five thousand Latter Day Saints to back him. It is evidently their intention to have none but a Mormon for Governor: and that Mormon, Brigham Young. [This incomparable beautiful poem is from the pen of Bayard Taylor. The reader will detect the reference of the shadow—it is that of his dead wife.]

But the sweet-brier's arms have wrestled upward in the summers that are past, And the willow trails its branches lower Than when I saw them last.

They sing, in tones as glad as ever, The songs she loved to hear; They braid the rose in summer garlands, Whose flowers to her were dear.

She stays without, perchance, a moment, To dress her dark brown hair; I hear the rustle of her garments— Her light step on the stair!

She tarries long; but lo! a whisper Beyond the open door, And gliding through the quiet sunshine, A shadow on the floor! Ab! 'tis the whispering pine that calls me, The vine, whose shadow strays; And my patient heart must still await her, Nor chide her long de lays. But my heart grows weary waiting, As many a time before; Her foot is ever at the threshold, Yet never passes o'er.
