When Demosthenes was told that his sentiments were more elevated that my sentiments should fail to be more elevated than any man's conduct." The conduct of Kossuth has certainly not been wanting in dignity; but our business now is with his sentiments. Take for example the following from his recent speech:

"The time draws nigh when the oppressed nations will preme trial, the oppressed nations will stand one for all, and f national philanthropy is more than a philanthropic eme ed to the triumph of freedom, while they had the bute to it, shall have forfeited the claim to a

We may relish these words or not, but we dare not dispute either their truth or justice. Would that our government, while it was yet time, had listened to the wise and manly coun- | der, perpetrated in their midst. these two eminent men are identical; and the two noblest orations of the day are also the two profoundest and most carnest pleas for liberty and humanity. There will be small critics enough, no doubt, to charge Kossuth with impertinence on this occasion. Such charges were not wanting during his tour through this conntry. But what will those who took exception to are gained, the fruits will then be new accessions to human rights. He may be too sanguine in his expectations. The millenial era he anticipates may yet be far distant; but for the accomplishment of the immediate ends he aimsat, his present course, we think, is clearly wise and judicious. If he fail of his purpose, it will perhaps only be because he lived an age too soon. A large section of this speech is occupied with criticisms on the conduct of the war. We do not pretend to judge of the merits of his criticisms; but it is worthy of remark that in the main his views agree with those expressed in the articles on the War in the East, which appeared in the New York Tribune, and which it sunderstood came from high military authority. It is grantifying to learn from his own lips, "what rumor had stated before," that he has been spending his years of seclusion in the thorough study of military science. He is now ready to girtly hard to a sund and the normal and it is not unlikale that he will of military science. He is now ready to mird

Every British heart has watched the great bloody drama there with intense anxiety. I am not wanted to tell you the tale of your I am not wanted to describe how your braves have found there an entrenched camp with an army, instead of a fortress with a garrison, as your government appeared to have anticipated —how new armies are pouring upon your shat-tered ranks, as your government appears not to have anticipated, or it would be more than an error to act as they did. All I have wanted i to quote from public reports these words: "The question is no longer whether we shall take Se-bastopol or not: the siege of Sebastopol though not raised may be regarded at a stand still. We are reduced to the defensive." Such is the beare reduced to the defensive." Such is the be-seiger, you are the besieged. And at what price one out of five of your braves will see Albion again." Of course I used the number figurative. I, as indicative of a great loss. Now it is a said reality. Number your dead, your wounded and your disabled—more than 20,000 men out of 30,000 are already lost! My and auticipations are literally fulfilled. And here, at home? Why here the number of widows, and orphans applying for support to patriotic character amounts to 11,000. Such is the position, gentlemen.

WHAT POLAND HAS DONS FOR THE WAR.

Secondly and calledy, you are indepted to Po-laud for not having to meet 100,000 Russians more at Sebastopol. If England did disregard the fact that Poland is the vulnerable part of Russia, the Czar was prudent enough to be mindful of it. In the Crime: proud England and France attack him—he is content to oppose 100,-000 men to them; on the Danube the flower of the Turkish army, elated by victory, defies and menaces him—he is contented to oppose them with 80,000 men. But to Poland, where there is not one man in arms, but where the unques tionable fire of a heroic nation's hatred is smouldering, he sent an army of 30,000 men, to be prepared for any emergencies. Some may tell you that this is due chiefly to a precaution against Austria. But it is clear to demonstra-

tense excitement in relation to the war in the Crimea. There is mourning throughout the consent of the country, was a chief bright without the clause. And why? Because of the kingdom on account of the terrible losses which have been experienced; for in the death of some 30,000 men, of all classes and orders—nobility, gentry and commoners—almost the whole population have some personal interest. Among the plans proposed is the embodying and mobilizing the militin of the kingdom, and the replacing of regiments of tho line in the Meditarran of the convention, of the case of the convention, of the same of the convention, of the same of the ships moored in the bay. It is the additional advantages of the placement of the convention, of these fortifications, of the vast stores of their almost illimited armament and of the guns of the ships moored in the bay. It is the convention of the convention, of the convention, of the same of the ships moored in the bay. It is the convention of the country and filled it with a great disturbance; and for the sake of the promoter to that clause. And for the sake of their almost illimited armament and of the guns of the ships moored in the bay. It is the convention of the country and filled it would have forced the Russians either to fight without there advantages, or to go off and interfered and agitated the country, and filled it with a great disturbance; and for the sake of their almost illimited armament and of the guns of the ships moored in the bay. AG Great Cure of Rheumantism.—The editors of the Richmond Republican, of Docember 24th, 1852, say that Carter's Spanish Mixture is no quack medicine. They had a man in their press room who was afflicted with violent mercurial rheumatism, who was continually complaining of misery in the back, limbs and joints:—bir companing or meery in the orac, inflow and Johns:—ble eyes had become feverish and mattery, neck swolles, throat sore, and all the symptoms of rheumatism, combined with Scrofuls. Two bottles of CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE cured him, and, in an editorial notice as above, they bear testimony to its wonderful effects, and say their only re-gret is, that all suffering with disease of the blood are not aware of the existence of such a medicine. They cheerfully recommend it.

Yes, it is the name of Pulsar and the Puls right under that treaty to be incorporated in the Union as soon as it can be done according to the principles of the Federal Constitution. The third article of the treaty is explicit to that effect. The right of the State to admission will be absolute under her sovereignty and the treaty is explicit to that effect. I would have certainly sent some thirty thou-sand men to take Sebastopol; who, spirits as they are, with a gallant and intelligent and ex-perienced Chief as Lord Raglan is, would have done the work up to this day and would have found Menschikoff out off from every hope of relief, fighting at the best but for military repu-tation; as Gen. Chase did at Antwerp. But in the meanwhile I would have been perfectly content with knowing the Russian fleet perfectly paralyzed by the presence of your vastly supe-zior squadron in the Black Sea, (as easy task with the naval force and with a little vigilance.) I would have been rather glad to know that the necessity of keeping Sebastopol well garrisoned, feet that has been seen-rouse and exasperate serves me like a diversion, by keeping so much Mr. Bancroft recently delivered an oration in New York, which was justly pronounced by the press to be the masterpiece of our great historian. Whatever of wisdom, humanity, and forecast there was in that speech, Kossuth has embodied the whole spirit of it in a single paragraph.
