As the times are hard and money scarce, Prof. MILLAB—

& into have determined to reduce their terms in Pennanship, in order that all may have an equal chance to acquire a splendid style of Writing, superior to any now being taught in this city; and with the aid of their hand-brace, and new exercises, (which are used by them only,) they guarantee entire satisfaction to every individual who may desire to improve their handwriting.

M. Beno have been obliged to enlarge their establishment, and in so doing have spared neither pains nor expense in making their spartments in every way more specious and magnificent thick those of any other institution of the kind in Pittaburgh. The pubble suppliedly invited to call and judge for themselves, and at the same time examine.
