His absorbing love of the profession, his seal and untiring industry, made him the favorite of his preceptor. The value of such a preceptor as Eberle to the active and crtation McClintock was great. His extensive learning, his cool judgment, and general simplicity and truthfulness of character, were well calculated to lead the pupil to studious, systematic and preserving labor. After drilling him in the strictly medical portion of his studies, and giving him an opportunity to witness an extensive office practice, he transferred him to the office of Dr. Geo. THE HOMESTEAD BILL. Hon. John L. Dawson is entitled to much credit for his consistent and urgent advocacy of the "Homestead Bill," through several sees of Congress. It was mainly through his influence that it has twice passed the House of Re presentatives by decided majorities. The Sen ate is wonderfully conservative on this subject and is not yet convinced that " free homes for actual settlers" would be a measure of public policy beneficial to the whole country. Mr. Dawson has again brought forward the bill in the House, and urged its passage in a speech replete with facts, statistics, and sound reasons Douglas, Brodhead, Seward, and Mesers.
