MECHANICAL REMEDIES.

I desire to write several communications on the subject of the various mechanical appliances now used in the cure of numerous diseases depending on a relaxed and weakened condition of the human body, and a consequent weakness of many of its functions, necessary to health and longevity. It is well known to every one that the mechanical appliances now used in the cure of these diseases are of a very inferior quality, and are not only inefficient, but are also very expensive. I have therefore designed to get out a series of equally well known, that from accident, or other causes, it is not possible to get a better quality of these appliances. I have therefore designed to get out a series of equally well known, that from accident, or other causes, it is not possible to get a better quality of these appliances.
