Hartford county. BUIGIDE.—Coroner Lowry, late on Wednesday night, held an inquest on the body of a German woman named Margaret Helmstetter, residing en Pike street, Allegheny, who committed suiside the same evening, by cutting her throat. The deceased was engaged reading the Bible, when all of a sudden she laid the book down, and commenced praying in a loud voice. After praying for some time, she requested her husband to go out and procure a bag of Flour. When he returned, he found his wife lying dead on the floor, she having her throat cut from ear to ear. The fatal cut was inflicted so vigorously, that the head was hearly severed from the body. After a careful investigation, the Jury returned a verdict of "suicide, while laboring under a temporary aberration of mind."
