[6b3] As our police magistrates seem to be in carnest in their resolve to secure a better observance of Sunday, we do not think it would be out of place for them to endeavor to put a stop (if possible) to the almost unbearable unisance created every Sabbath, by the running of buggies, and-riding of horses through our streets, by would-be bloods and "fast mee," who seem to have no other time to devote to this amusement than the Lord's day. We have heard church going people complain of it, time and again, and declare it a worse nuisance than the running of omnibuses, which the strong arm of the law was invoked to put down. We believe magistrates have the "power to abate it, and if they do, we know they will receive the thanks of our officers generally.
