THE BABY CROP. In this business age and country everything is reduced to the standard and the language of business computation. We talk and write not only of the grain crop, the potato crep, the fruit crop, the hay crop, &c., but also of the "hog crop," and, in California, of the gold crop. Every production, mineral, vegetable and animal, is "a crop;" and at the end of each year, those who delight in statistics inform us of the extent of these crops, and estimate their value in dollars and cents. But the use of the word crop may now be extended still further, as from census returns we are to be enlightened as to the annual quantity of the "baby crop" in the · several States. Business men and arithmeticians do not yet undertake to reduce the last named crop to the standard of dollars and cents. But the number of babies produced in each State in a year, can be ascertained, where births are registered; and the information is thought to be valuable, as showing the growth of native population. So annual estimates and statistics of the haby crop may be expected hereafter from some of the States, in tabular form, alongside the tables showing the extent of the hog crop and grain crop. Thus, in Kentucky, where marriages and births are registered, it is ascertained that the the baby crop, or the whole number of births in that State last year was 26,756. That was an average of one birth for every thirty six people in the State. The most fruitful counties in the State in this respect were Letcher and Hancock, the former yielding one birth to every sixteen people, and the latter one to every ninetcen. The most unproductive county was Muhlenburg. with only one birth to every one hundred and investment. sixty inhabitants. More births occurred in the month of December than in any other month.

But, although Kentucky did well in that year, and added her full share to our stock of native and national productions, yet she did no better The average, as we have stated, was one birth soirce and supper up town." are one to every thirty-one people; in France, one to thirty-five; in Austria and Prussia, one
