(Late Manager Nat Talegraph Office.) and Scurvy. Colas with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Bropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the liack, Stomach and kide. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and rigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is conductity believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine. Prepared by JAMES C. AYKR, Asayer, and Practical Chemist, Lowell, Mass. THELD BOOK FOR RAILROAD ENGINEERS.—Contain I ing formula for laying out curves, determining frog angles, levelling, calculating earth-work, etc., etc., together with tables of redit, ordinates, deflections, long chords, magnetic variation, logarathisms and natural signs and containing the containing state of the present work is to supply a want very generally felt by Assistant Engineers on Raifroads, looks of convenient form for use in the field, containing the ordinary lograrithmic tables are common enough but a book combining with these tables others peculiar to the Railroad work, and especially the necessary formula for laying out curves, turn-outs, crossings, &c., is a desideratum which this work is designed to stupply.

U. S. MILITARY ACADEMY, West Point, April 18, 1854.—Genilemer: I have looked over "Henck's Field Book for Railroad Engineers," and think it well adapted to the object its author proposes, and have no question but it will be found a very useful and practical volume both for office and field work.

I am much pleased with Mr. Henck's little manual, the "Field Book of Railroad Engineers," With the presentant tion of some of the most practical and useful of recognized processes among railway engineers, he has given other which, new at least in their present form, appear to possess a mint of higher value than that of mere nevelty—that of being in general susceptible of available, not to say desirable, practical use. In conclusion, while I think the design of Mr. Henck's book is such as to adapt it excellently well to professional needs, I have pleasure in expressing my curdin satisfaction with its execution, alike with the perspiculty of arrangement effected by the author, and the excellent typographical taste dasplayed by his publishers.
