Indeed, it is no secret that these pprehensions had repeatedly caused him and he Empress great uncasiness .- 'I will have the called when the moment approaches.' The Empress obeyed this distinctly uttered command 1,000,000 100,000 200,000 200,000 and quitted the room. "The Emperor then directed Counts Orloff and Adlerberg and Prince Dolgoroski to enter, thank-ed them for their fidelity, and took leave of them. Somewhat later the Emperor directed $15.050.00 200.000 $15,250,000 his special domestics to enter, complimented them for their good services, and blessed and took leave of them, whereat he himself appeared greatly affected. Finally, Madame de Bohrbeck, $200,000 edchamber woman, was sent for, and his Majesty thanked her for the fidelity she had so concitude with which she had always attended her, and especially in her Majesty's recent illness. He praved her not to leave the Empress; and 300,000 finally added, 'Remember me to my dear [palace] Peterhof.' The Emperor also took Dr. $1,800,000 arell's hand, and said, "It is not your fault." "As the Father Confessor Baynoff spoke with the Emperor, he took the hand of the Empressand laid it in that of the former, as if he inter ded to confide the Empress to the care of the priest. After all this, the Emperor's voice failed him a while, during which he frequently ea has a white, during which he frequently crossed himself and prayed inwardly. At a later period his Mejesty recovered his voice, and spoke now and then, until his end arrived, which $0,000 150,000 occurred at ten minutes past twelve on the aftertoon of the 2d of March, and in presence of his Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge. All others, in comparison, are whole family. "Nearly the last words the Emperor uttered distinctly were the following: Dites a Fritz (Frederick William IV., of Prussia,) de rester 2,655,000 toujours is many pour la Rússie, et de ne pas oublier les paroles de Papa,' (tell Fritz to con-tinue always the same for Russia, and not to forget the words of Papa)---meaning the words 15.250,000 1,800,000 $19 705 000 in the testament of the late King of Prussia, commending close alliance with Russia. "The Emperor encountered the desth struggle with a calmness of soul, Christian submission, and manly firmness that was truly edifying. So desired justice, and dealt accordingly. God will be merciful unto the Emperor! It is really superhuman what the monarch has more it. only could a man die whose conscience was pure, lergone and resisted as regards his individual xertions within the last year; and how each wounded soldier was a stab in his own heart.
