THURSDAY MORNING.....JUNE 28.

LECTURE OF ARCHBISHOP HUGHES.—As announced in the daily papers, the Most Reverend Archbishop John Hughes delivered a Lecture last night in the Cathedral. The turn-out was extremely large, the building being almost as much crowded as upon Sunday last. The subject was "The connection between the Religious and the Civil duties of the Catholic Citizen." The Lecture—or a sermon it might be called—was an exceedingly interesting one, and occupied about an hour and a quarter in its delivery.

His reverence introduced it by reading that chapter of St. Matthew, wherein the Saviour commanded those Pharisees, who endeavored to ensnare Him by their subtle questions, relative to paying homage to the conquerors of Palestine, to "render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's," and said those were the only words recorded in the Evangelists at all analogous to the subject he proposed to treat on. The Pharisees thought by the ambiguity of their question they would make Him lose credit with those who loved their country, or bring Him into disrepute with those under whose yoke it was groaning. Had He said they should pay the tribute, the answer would have covered Him with opprobium in the minds of many, while on the other side, had He decided a different way, they would have accused Him of a want of loyalty. Knowing the malice of their hearts He therefore gave the answer as recorded, to which none of them could object.

The first cry of the Roman Emperors, the pagan priests and the people was, that the Christians were enemies to the constituted government; in every case of famine, pestilence or defeat in battle, the multitude cried to carry them to the stake. In more enlightened times, even in Catholic countries, proud, worldly people have taken up the cry that the church overshadows the State, and its power should be curtailed. This has been the plea in all countries, even in our own, where no such thing has been even dreamt of as religion married to the State. By the very distinction made by the Saviour there must be a difference—the spiritual and the temporal—the one we owe to our God, the other to our fellow-men. But it is a shallow pretext to assert that these are antagonistic in their character. Who is the author of civil government, if it is not God? How is it to be supposed, then, He would create antagonistic governments and ask men to be loyal to both? Thus, if the two systems—religion and government—are of divine origin, there cannot be a conflict between them.

Let us suppose for a moment we were without a belief in a futurity, that we were Atheists, what bond would bring civil law to bear on our consciences? where would be the oath to make obligations sacred? where would be the reason to restrain the man of cupidity from enriching himself at the expense of his neighbor? You may say there are laws, but it leaves many things unprotected, and the dread of punishment alone is not sufficient: The law does not go beyond the overt act; I may covet my neighbor's goods, but the law has nothing to do with it until I have stretched forth my hand, and taken them. You perceive, that were it not for the influence the spiritual exercises over those who recognize it as they should, human laws would be weak to restrain crime. The spiritualf then, is auxiliary, instead of being antagonistic, and should be encouraged by States, for in it, they have their highest and best security.

After having thus established the intimate connection between the spiritual and the temporal, the Archbishop went on to say that it is supposed that the Catholic citizen, in particular, was opposed to certain forms of civil government under which he lives. It is asserted that he is allied to everything despotic. This is not the case. Catholicism, in its infancy, everywhere found despotism, but it took Society and infused into it the elements upon which all freedom is founded. The Fathers of the Church, in their grave philosophic writings, have laid down principles against despotism, and contended against it. There was no such thing as an irresponsible despotic sovereign in Europe when there was but one religion, for the Church held them responsible to God and their subjects. The irresponsibility grew up in consequence of the opinion then broached. This fact ought to satisfy them that Catholics are not such lovers of bondage as they suppose. They imagine—and this only imagination—that the Catholic has a double allegiance in his heart; they suppose that his duty to his country demands one thing, and his duty to his religion demands another. They are mistaken.

We do not find that our Saviour expressed himself any stronger in favor of one than the other. The Catholic religion has no doctrine on the subject of governments; it has no more sympathy for oppression than our Redeemer had. Its doctrine is that God should be obeyed rather than man, but that supposes a case where man requires something incompatible with our duty to Him. The Apostles were commanded not to assist in the spread of the gospel, by the governments in existence at that time; their duty to God forbade them acceding to this request, and they respected the laws by yielding up their lives. There is no conflict in the mind of a Catholic in discharging his civil and spiritual duties, for the man who is truest to his spiritual will be truest to his civil.

This matter should be so well understood in a land like ours, that its discussion ought to be considered unnecessary. There is no country where there is so little pretext for it. It is impolitic to rai e a bue and cry against our denomination; to attempt to throw suspicion is unreasonable and unprofitable. If followed up, it will create confusion, or even something worse. If suspicion attached to one denomination, why will it not be to another? And would not this bring civil strife?

A religion which survived the power of the Roman empire cannot be crushed out by a persecution of this kind. The only effect of a persecution is to supply martyrs. Why should not a Catholic love his country as well as another? Why should not liberty be as sweet to him as another? In the history of this country, he has made as many sacrifices and shed his blood as purely as others.

A reference was then made to the charge often brought against the Catholic clergy, that they were in the habit of interfering with the laity in political affairs, an instance which the Archbishop repelled with infinite scorn. To think, said he, that priests and bishops had nothing to do but stoop to the dirty pool of politics, when not a particle of evidence can be produced to prove such a thing. God forbid that the priest, the bishop or the Pope should interfere in such a matter. His influence would soon be lost in the legitimate order to which it belonged, and laymen would be rising up to take share in the religious office.

In conclusion, his reverence addressed a few remarks to the Young Men's Catholic Society, under whose auspices the lecture was given, telling them their primary fidelity was due to God, to be loyal to their country, and even if necessary, to sacrifice their lives for it. You need not be faithful to your country, if you are never called upon by your God; but by an upright and faithless to your religion, you will become honest fidelity to a despicable member of the community.

The above is but a mere sketch of the Archbishop's remarks, and does not at all do justice to him, our room and time forbidding a lengthier report. The Lecture was listened to with marked attention.

MECHANICS' BANK ELECTION.—The Exchange presented a very lively appearance the whole of yesterday, on the occasion of the election of President and Directors of the Mechanics' Bank, an institution incorporated by the last Legislature. There were eight different tickets in the field, all of which, however, had either the name of Reuben Miller or Hopewell Hepburn at the head for President. We subjoin the two principal ones:

For Directors of Mechanics' Bank of Pittsburgh.

Reuben Miller, Jr.,	Hopewell Hepburn,
John Herron,	John H. Shoenberger,
James A. Hutchison,	Robert Galway,
Robert Dalzell,	George W. Cass,
George W. Cass,	Robert Dalzell,
Wm. H. Smith,	William Phillips,
Alexander Speer,	James A. Hutchison,
Wm. B. Holmes,	Alexander Bradley,
Isaac Jones,	John A. Wilson,
John W. Butler,	Samuel Jones,
James P. Hanna,	Theo. Dumbstaetter,
Wm. J. Morrison,	James Schoonmaker,
Alexander Gordon.	James W. Hailman.

The polls closed at 3 P. M., but at 11½ o'clock last night the tellers were not more than three-fourths through counting off. At that hour the respective tickets stood thus:

Reuben Miller	913
Hopewell Hepburn	582
Majority for the Miller ticket	331

And it is highly probable this proportion will be maintained through till the end, and that the entire ticket headed by Mr. Miller is elected by a handsome majority.

THE ALLEGHENY AND PERRYSVILLE PLANK ROAD COMPANY have declared a dividend of one dollar upon each share of capital stock in said Company, payable to stockholders on and after the 2d of July next.

THE BENCH WARRANT CASE.—A hearing was had yesterday morning, before Judge Hampton, of the case of James Black, grocer, arrested on a bench warrant, charged with attempting to defraud his creditors. The parties at whose instigation he was arrested are Messrs. John Y. Rushton & Co., of Philadelphia, who state that in September last he purchased from them about $600 worth of groceries, for which amount, a short time subsequently, he gave his notes. A few days after the notes were drawn Black failed, and was sold out at sheriff's sale. On this circumstance the plaintiffs found, alleging that he was either not doing the business represented when he purchased the goods or that the subsequent closing was done with the intention to defraud them. Mr. C. Hasbrouck appeared on behalf of the plaintiffs. After hearing the evidence Judge Hampton reserved his decision.

LARCENY.—A little colored lad named Shambury Davis was committed to jail, yesterday, by Alderman Parkinson, on a charge of larceny, preferred by Christof Friend, a German living in the Fifth Ward. The prosecutor states that during his absence Davis entered his store on Penn street, went behind the counter, and took from the money drawer a quantity of small change. Friend entered in time to see the boy make his escape. When arrested no money was found in his possession. The father of the lad was subsequently held to bail for assaulting officer Baer, when he arrested him.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—A meeting of the Board of Managers of this society was held yesterday morning in the court house. No business of importance was transacted, except the adoption of a resolution urging upon the manufacturers of western Pennsylvania the importance of increasing their exhibition of articles at the approaching fair, in October. Mr. John Murdock exhibited sixteen varieties of cherries of his own cultivation. The next meeting of the Board will be held on the last Wednesday in July.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A man named Patrick Mulholland, employed at the machine shop of Fowler & Co., on Water street, while engaged drilling a cylinder in the cupola, yesterday, missed his footing, and fell a distance of about twenty feet, alighting on his head, and producing a serious concussion of the brain. He was brought to his residence in Virgin alley, where suitable assistance was rendered by Dr. M'Cook. His injuries are not considered likely to prove fatal.

AN IMMENSE BIRD.—We saw yesterday on the steamer Fanny Fern an immense bird, known, we believe, as the American Condor, captured by our friend James C. Pettigrew, on the upper Missouri river. The bird measures nine feet across the back, from tip to top of each wing, and is the largest one of the kind ever brought to this city. It was first shot in the wing and disabled from flying; but before being captured made a sturdy resistance, tearing the clothes of Mr. P., and inflicting several wounds.

TERRA COTTA.—We forgot to mention in our notice of the Cathedral, the other day, that the beautiful window frames and ornaments in the interior, are made of Terra Cotta, from the manufactory of Woodward, Blakely & Co., Liverpool, Ohio. This article possesses all the durability of stone, while its adaptation to many purposes for which stone cannot be used, renders it superior in many respects. We believe that Mr. James Blakely, Smithfield street, is the agent in this city.

ARGUMENT ON THE APPEAL IN THE BREAD SUITS.—The appeal of Mr. John Sheppard, baker, Liberty street, against the decision of Alderman Donaldson, in the bread suits, was argued before Judge M'Clure, in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday morning. A. W. Black appeared for Mr. Sheppard; A. B. M'Clymont represented the city. The decision of his Honor will probably be given in a few days.

CHILD BURNED.—A little girl named Hamlin, residing in Virgin alley, between Smithfield and Grant streets, was severely burned on the arms and lower part of the body on Tuesday evening, by the explosion of a bottle of camphene from which she was replenishing a lighted lamp. The father of the child was holding the lamp while she was pouring the fluid into it, and was also considerably burned.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.—The Chartiers Valley Railroad Company have altered the location of that part of their road near Canonsburg. It is said the change will save the necessity of building three or four bridges across Chartiers creek. That portion of work that has been abandoned, cost five thousand dollars.

BUHOOP'S PAGODA.—This unique establishment will be in town to-morrow, and be set up in front of the American Hotel, Penn street. Mr. Buhoop has been quite successful with his exhibition in Allegheny and the surrounding towns, and no doubt will meet with a similar encouragement here.

The Specie Movement.

The New York Times gives the following statement of the specie movement from January 1 to June 12, 1855:

Ourwo.—From New York direct		$13,589,274

From January 1, 1851, to June 12, 1855, a period of four years, five months and two days, the gold movement at the Port of New York has been as follows:

Income.	From California.	Foreign States	Total.
1851	$47,640,000	$2,049,543	$49,681,543
1852	51,045,000	2,409,225	53,455,225

1851	$43,743,299	1853	$28,763,209

1855 (to June 12)			13,889,374
Total outgo from New York			$146,651,499
Distributed through Atlantic States			82,504 $.2
Making total as above			$229,156,431

Says the Times:

"We have added these tables to show that the gross amount of gold distributed from this city, on receipt from California and foreign States, within the comparatively short period referred to, is so vast as to readily account for the recent flow of gold to this point from the South and West, now that confidence has been restored after the severe shock to money affairs in 1854. Coupling this great resource with the immediate prospect of an abundant grain crop, producing a large balance of imports, and the consuming foreign wares and luxuries, without serious apprehension of the future, if not with a certain degree of pride that the country is so rapidly recovering from the shock to the drain. The example of such solidity, we are quite sure, will not be lost upon the credit of the United States abroad."

Money Matters in New York.

[From the Times of Monday.]

The weekly official Bank averages to Saturday last, June 23, show the following changes from the previous statements of the 16th June:

Increase in Loans and Discounts	$829,040
Increase in Specie	272,020
Decrease in Circulation	116,705
Increase in Deposits	1,260,881

The changes are not important in the present state of the Gold supply. The Loans and Deposits have gone up on the increased volume of business in Wall street, as noticed this morning in our review of the heavy transactions at the Stock Board and Merchants' Exchange last week. Including the regular Sub-Treasury balance on Saturday afternoon, the following is the general

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	Dec 30	June 16.	June 23.
Loans	$81,651,657	$90,100,285	$91,029,325
Specie	12,676,147	14,078,559	14,350,579
Circulation	7,673,880	7,452,161	7,335,456
Deposits	65,978,020	77,849,426	79,110,307
In Sub Treasury	2,382,060	2,361,299	2,361,241

The other California packet, June 1, via Panama, arrived at new York on Saturday afternoon. She delivered a large freight of $1,052,000, to more than the usual number of consignees, and a large mail. The latter contained $240,000 Gold Bricks for the United States Sub Treasury in Wall street, of which $94,000 were presented to-day. The present semi-monthly receipts of Gold Bullion by the Sub Treasury, since the February break up among the San Francisco bankers. The total is not far from two and a quarter millions, including a remittance of $400,000 on account of the 1,200 passengers per steamer to-day.

Star of the West delivered	$624,000
George Law delivered	1,000,000
Treasury drafts in mail	240,000
Gold in hands of passengers	200,000
Total by steamers June 1	$2,218,000

The deposits of the Sub Treasury at the United States Assay office were on no less than eighty different amounts, many of them in small sums which had nothing to do with the published list of the steamer. The Money and Mining accounts afforded by the San Francisco "Shipping List"—the best selected newspaper authority—are decidedly more encouraging than by the previous packets.

NEWS FOR RIVER MEN.

THE RIVER.—The stage of water at dusk last evening was 9 feet 3 inches, by the pier mark, and falling slowly. Weather warm and cloudy.

THE fast passenger steamer "Forest City" is the regular packet for Wheeling this morning; she leaves at 10 o'clock.

THE Cumberland river was falling on Saturday, with only twenty inches water on Harpeth Shoals.

THE new light draught steamer "Wenona," Capt. John N. Shunk, being detained by press of business yesterday, will positively leave this morning for Louisville.

FOR CINCINNATI.—The fine steamer "Chicago," Capt. Millengar, is advertised to leave for the above port, this morning, at 10 o'clock.

THE fine steamer "Fairy Queen," Capt. J. C. Reno, will leave this morning for Cincinnati. She is one of the most pleasant boats that plys between this port and the Queen City.

THE steamer "Fanny Fern" arrived yesterday, from the Mound City, looking as well, if not better, than when she left. Capt. Wason, and all on board, are well pleased with the performance of the "Fanny."

THE steamer "Flora," Capt. S. Dean, will leave to-day for St. Louis and St. Paul, direct. She is of light draught, and has splendid accommodations for cabin and deck passengers. Capt. D. being an experienced pilot and river-man, we can cheerfully recommend the "Flora" and her officers to the traveling public.

THE St. Louis Democrat, of 25th inst., says:

The river continues at this point on a stand. No improvement on or above the rapids, so far as heard. The Illinois has risen several feet within the past few days, and is reported rising rapidly by the Brunette, which arrived yesterday evening. Several arrivals from the Missouri yesterday state that they did not benefit by the rise reported here by telegraph. Some of these and other boats up the Missouri had to discharge portions of their cargoes prematurely. Mr. Newell, of the Golden Eagle, says he counted eleven piles of freight belonging to different boats lying along shore, with a man standing watch at each pile. The Golden Gate discharged in this way, to enable her to get along, more than a hundred tons. Four to four and a half feet may be regarded as the depth of water on the worst bars in the Missouri. We notice that some two or three boats that have come out of this stream since Thursday last have been in contact with snags, and require repairs before going out.

Steamer Navigator left St. Paul 12th June; water falling one inch in twenty-four hours; mean thirty inches on the bars from Dubuque to St. Paul. Left Stillwater on 13th; left Croix river nearly dry—30 inches on Catfish bar. Vienna and Oakland reported to be at Galena on the 17th; 20 inches scant on the Upper Rapids, falling; 18th, met Conewago above Burlington, and the Great West was reshipping on the Latrobe. Twenty inches on the Rapids.
