THE NEWS.

The official majority in Illinois against the Liquor Law is 14,402.

The Clay county, Indiana, scoundrels have again commenced their outrages upon the canals.

The weekly statement of the New York City Banks shows an increase of $1,546,77 in loans, $936,441 in specie, $59,310 in circulation, and $2,700,880 in deposites.

The imports at New York for the month of June show a falling off of $1,794,040, as compared with the corresponding month of last year.

The imports of coffee at Philadelphia during the first half of the present year have been 92,494 bags, being an increase of 9,428 bags over the corresponding period of last year. The stock on hand is 26,221 bags, being about the same as last year at this time.

The Simon Pure Whigs of Washington county held a meeting to nominate a ticket, &c., on the 2d inst., but like their Know Nothing compatriots, they first had a split and then a fizzle. It is looked upon in Washington county as the last flutter of the dying dolphin.

It was announced in the eastern newspapers that a gentleman from Georgia was to espouse a Miss Conklin, a daughter of Judge Cocklin, of New York, on which occasion one of the most stylish weddings which had ever taken place in this country was to come off. One part of the programme was to hire the exclusive use of the St. Nicholas Hotel, for four days, at $2,000 per day; also that two hundred young gentlemen were on their way with the expectant and hoppy bridegroom who were to act as groomsmen. Now comes another despatch which says this grand affair is not to come off; "it is given up by the parties most deeply interested." What a pity.

On the 4th inst., Mr. Robert Thompson, of Cincinnati, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. His wife, in giving evidence before the Coroner's Inquest, testified that after dinner, her husband and herself were lying together on the bed; that she fell asleep, but was wakened by the noise of something falling on the floor. She asked her husband what was the occasion of the noise, and he replied, "only this water I am pouring out." She then discovered that her husband was lying on the floor with his throat cut. His occupation was that of a bookkeeper. Another occurred in the same city on th 5th. A German, about twenty-five years of age hung himself with a cord from the top of a fence. When discovered he was perfectly dead. Cincinnati must be a horrible place to live in.

HON. ARNOLD PLUMER.

In our issue of yesterday we briefly mentioned our entire concurrence in the action of the Convention nominating the distinguished Democrat whose name heads this article for Canal Commissioner. We had then no leisure for a more extended notice than was given in our short paragraph alluding to the subject. Mr. Plumer's character is well known throughout the length and breadth of the State; he has filled several elevated stations in a manner highly satisfactory to the people of his immediate community, and of the citizens of the Commonwealth at large. He has always acted with independence, and with a single eye to the public welfare.

He is a Democrat of the old school; mild in his deportment, but firm and intrepid in his conduct; never offending the prejudices of his adversaries, but never yielding his principles and conviction to accommodate himself to the idea of his opponents. He has the reputation of a wise man in private affairs, and will bring to the office of Canal Commissioner sagacity, prudence, tried integrity, and the experience of a life spent in the industrious pursuit of an active, and we are happy to say, lucrative business. He has one advantage over other competitors who might be named, in being, as it were, the representative of the great iron interests of Pennsylvania. To this interest he has devoted his life, and is perfectly acquainted with all the detail necessary for its improvement and prosperity.

A more suitable selection could not have been made, taking this matter in view. His private character is as unimpeachable as his public life has been honorable. He is indeed a time-honored servant of the Republic; pure in principles; simple in his habits; modest in his appreciation of himself; Democratic in his sentiments; unwavering in his advocacy of those rights that have been sustained by the eminent men of the Democratic party; possessed, in brief, of those exalted qualities of head and heart, of understanding and wisdom, which forms the standard of a Democratic character, and insures the strength of the Constitution, and are the basis of individual, State and national prosperity.

We shall give him, so far as lies in us, a hearty support; and feel no doubt, that with his name at the head of our ticket, Victory will again dawn on the banners of Democracy.

The R. N's at Reading.

LIGHT FROM A DARK CORNER—ANOTHER SPLIT.

We have authentic information from the Secret Conclave at Reading. It was very inharmonious, as all their meetings appear to be of late, and there was another split, just as at Philadelphia; only this time it was the men in favor of "the national platform" who seceded. There were a few over two hundred delegates, we are informed, and of these Allegheny county sent seventy-five. Philadelphia, with certainly two voters of that party to one in this county, had only thirty-five delegates. This shows how fair the representation was in the Reading Council.

The Council, no doubt in imitation of Horace Greely, spat upon the platform adopted by the majority, in Philadelphia; it was repudiated by a vote of 148 ayes to 30 nays. When the committee on a State platform returned, it was discovered there were two reports: the majority report was presented by Robert M. Riddle, Esq., and was exceedingly ultra abolition. Mr. Riddle's darling was consigned to the tomb of the Capulets by 104 nays to 80 yeas. (Has the North a backbone?) We understand this great calamity was brought about by Hon. Wm. F. Johnston, who got up in the Council and expressed the hope that the West would not vote for Mr. Riddle's resolutions. (How unkind in Mr. Johnston!) Then came the minority report which was adopted by 133 yeas to 53 nays. It merely insists on a restoration of the Missouri Compromise, and, according to the Western K. N. idea, shows very little "backbone."

Long before this, however—in fact, immediately after the rejection of the majority platform of the National Convention—the Philadelphians withdrew, and intend establishing a new State Council, purged of all Abolitionism. Between the two parties a bitter feeling already prevails; and we look confidently for a war that will rival in rancor the famous War of the Roses.

It was supposed by some deluded people, a few months ago, that the Know Nothing party was established to take care of the Irish and other "furriners." It was a grievous mistake. The order of the Star Spangled Banner was instituted for the purpose of discussing and splitting upon the nigger question. And without laying claim to being a prophet, or the son of a prophet, we venture the prediction that before that little difficulty is settled, all the Irish in Ireland may become American citizens.

"No Humbug in Me."

Phineas T. Barnum wrote a private letter recently to a friend in Ohio, which by some means or other found its way into the newspapers. In it he expresses a desire for his friends to procure him "calls" to lecture before Lyceums, Mercantile Library Committees, &c., during the coming winter, at about fifty or one hundred dollars per night. He also believes the price of tickets should not be half so high as now charged; "for," says Phineas, "twelve or fifteen cents is as much as ever ought to be charged for hearing me lecture on 'The Philosophy of Humbug.'" Barnum will tell the truth sometimes—in private letters

☞ CELEBRATION AT MIFFLIN.—A splendid celebration of the Fourth was held at Mifflin, Juniata county. Two artillery, and two infantry companies—from Huntingdon, Bloomfield, Newport and Mifflin—participated. A procession was formed, and numerous salutes were fired by the artillery. An artillerysman came very near having his arm blown off by a premature explosion.

☞ A LARGE LUMP OF GOLD.—A nugget of gold which had been on deposit at the banking house of James King, of Wm., says the Alta Californian, has been assayed and melted down. The weight of the pure gold extracted was 511 ounces 37 dwts. Its value in specie was $9,912, and netted the fortunate owner $8,829 28.

The War of the Railroads.

From the Albany Atlas, July 7.

The contest which has re-opened between the Erie Railroad and the Central line is the subject of mutual recrimination between the two interests. With a view to prevent an injurious rivalry, the two companies agreed upon a discrimination of fares where there was a steamboat link on the route. The Buffalo Democracy says:

The Central made arrangements for ticketing passengers upon the steamboats over the Western lakes, and upon the Hudson river. The Erie road provided itself with steamboats, to connect with the cars at Newburg, and to transport travel to and from New York at one dollar less fare than by continuous rail. The principle of "lesser fare by water communication upon lake and river" was not only thus razed by the Erie road, after being formally and deliberately conceded to, but it was confirmed by its act of advertising throughout the West, its own arrangements for travel, made in pursuance of it.

The principle was further recognized and adopted on full discussion at subsequent conferences, where the Erie road was present by its representatives, and in which the railroads of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois attended by their delegates. At the Buffalo convention of June, 1855, the principle of equal fares for passenger travel from all common points, was also agreed upon and adopted. Cleveland and Cincinnati were, for example, common points to both the Central and the Erie roads. It was deemed just and proper to charge the same price for a ticket from either of these points to New York, on both roads, and they both agreed so to do.

The charge is that the Erie was the first to violate the law; and there is to be war to the knife between the two concerns. The stock already begins to suffer. The result may be, the foreclosure and sale of the Erie to the bondholders, in which case, with twelve millions loss of capital to meet, it may prove a formidable rival to the Central.

Bloody Riot in Columbus, Ohio.

We learn that a riot occurred in Columbus on the 4th inst., in which two persons were shot dead, one severely wounded, and many hurt slightly. Several stories are in circulation, and we are unable to give the particulars with assurance of their correctness. Our readers will remember that a disturbance took place in that town some time since, in which several members of the Turner Society (German) were savagely handled. The Turners, we learn, have been much exasperated and somewhat fearful of violence, so when they turned out on the 4th, they provided themselves with pistols and other weapons. We are told that when they were passing the U. S. Hotel in procession, a boy persisted in standing in their way, and was knocked down by one of the band. A fight at once commenced, a number of the boys throwing boulders at the Turners, who as the crowd increased and the stones began to fly among them doing some execution, drew their pistols and fired with deadly effect, killing two young men on the spot. The town was thrown into a tremendous state of excitement, and the police assisted by many citizens proceeded to make arrests. The Turners resisted, and in the contest one of them received a blow on the head from a mace, that it is thought, will put an end to his life. A large number of arrests were made.

☞ RETURN OF THE JEWS.—We see it stated that Sir Moses Montefiore, who lately passed through Vienna on his way to Palestine, goes there to purchase a large district in the country, to settle upon it the Jewish paupers of Jerusalem. Eventually his purpose is to settle there also, all those Jews who feel inclined to return to the country of their ancestors. This is, perhaps, the first practical effort yet made at procuring a return of that widely scattered race.

LETTER FROM KOSSUTH.

Philosophy and Perils of the Know Nothing Movement.

LONDON, Friday, June 15, 1855.

To the Editor of the New York Daily Times:

SIR:—A friend of mine thus writes me from New York: "The condition of things here is as revolutionary as anywhere in Europe." What does that mean? If the United States are in a revolutionary condition, that revolution must be chiefly of a social character. Social revolutions imply a great hazard, and are very uncertain in issue. No programme can limit their bearing; and no leader control their extent. Nothing and nobody can have power enough to say to a social revolution: "Thus far thou shalt go, and no farther." Such movements are a dangerous weapon; like a double edged sword, those who wield it often hurt themselves before they hit the enemy.

But what does it mean? I suppose it means the deep, underground movement and counter-movement connected with Know Nothingism.

And what is Know-Nothingism? Do you know it? I don't. I see what there is on the wrinkling surface of the waves; but are these wrinkles the whole of the matter, or are they rather but a superficial symptom of something brewing in the deep? Very likely the last. But what is the thing there in the deep? Some tell me "Oh! Know-Nothingism is absolute Nothingism; mere personal matter; a race for office, and places, and emoluments, and nothing more." I don't think that. A party with no other programme but "daub me and I will daub thee,"—"help me to some place—some emolument, and I will help thee to some other,"—such a party is impossible. It could never muster any strong Compromise, and, according to the Western K. N. idea, shows very little "backbone."

Long before this, however—in fact, immediately after the rejection of the majority platform of the National Convention—the Philadelphians withdrew, and intend establishing a new State Council, purged of all Abolitionism. Between the two parties a bitter feeling already prevails; and we look confidently for a war that will rival in rancor the famous War of the Roses.

just so I say, if discordant elements raise their head to disturb the natural crisis, a reaction against them I can understand.

The question worthy of the most earnest consideration of every true American patriot is—whether the remedy to which that natural reaction resorted be a good one? Or is it, perhaps, "medicina pejor morbo," a remedy which aggravates the evil which it is intended to cure?

Sir, I really fear such is the case. You see I am not preoccupied by any partiality. I accept as natural what there is natural,—I do not extenuate the case for facilitating my reasoning. But really I fear pejor medicina morbo. I will give you my remarks on this in my next.

ADVENTURES OF A SAN FRANCISCO CONSTABLE.—We copy the following from the Town Talk. Is Mr. Hines entitled to mileage for the trip he took in consequence of the attachment?

We have been favored with the following interesting account of the services of a deputy constable of this city, Mr. George S. Hines, of the second township, which we publish in order to show what trials, tribulations and adventures such of our citizens have to encounter in the performance of their duty.

Mr. Hines went on board the merchant vessel St. Mary's on the 12th of March last, with an attachment against her for debt, issued by Judge Baily. She was then lying off North Beach, and on the 14th went to sea, informing the officer he must take a trip to the Sandwich Islands. He was kindly treated and finally landed at Hilo —the first port made. Mr. J. H. Corby, the resident Consul at that place, treated him with the utmost kindness, and finally secured him a passage on the whale ship Euphratez, to Honolulu. At Honolulu he was kindly treated by all American citizens and others, except the American Consul. Being destitute of funds when he left on this unexpected journey, he applied to that noble representative of American interests at that port, for aid to return to this port, but was informed that he (the Consul) could give none, except to seamen. While holding this conversation, the noble-hearted commander of the brig Grecian, Capt. Kissam, entered the Consul's office, and at once tendered Mr. Hines a passage to this port, where he arrived on Tuesday.

CHRONOLOGICAL RECORD.—The following memorandum of the commencement and conclusion of certain wars and Indian hostilities may be found useful:—

War of 1812, commenced June 18, 1812, ended Feb. 17, 1815.

War, Seminole, commenced Nov. 20, 1817, ended Oct. 31, 1818.

War, Black Hawk, commenced April 2d, 1832, ended Sept. 21, 1832.

War, Florida, commenced Dec. 28, 1835, ended August 14, 1842.

Creek disturbance commenced about May 5, 1836, ended Sept. 30, 1837.

Southern (Arkansas) frontier disturbances, 1836; no actual war, no fighting: not entitled.

New York (Canada) frontier disturbances, 1838 and 1839; no war, no fighting.

Mexican war, commenced April 24, 1846, ended July 4, 1848.

GENERAL QUITMAN having been openly charged by the New York Sun with having pocketed a very large sum of money, paid him for his services in the last conspiracy to invade Cuba, which money he was not entitled to, publishes a card in the Natchez Courier pronouncing the statement false and slanderous, but giving no explanations, on the ground that the present is not a proper time to make them. To this the Sun rejoins, that as the General's connection with the Cuban Junta has ceased, and the expedition has failed, now is a very proper time to make explanations. The General does not deny his connection with the Junta, and as the Sun has long been the organ of that interest, and familiar with its operations, these statements are generally believed to be correct.

RAILROAD OPENING.—It is announced by the St. Louis Intelligencer, that the western division of the Ohio and Mississippi railway is now completed, and will be opened for travel this day, the 4th inst., by which a through route of connected railways will be formed between St. Louis and Philadelphia, the aggregate distance being 1020 miles. This is much the shortest and best through route yet opened to the distant west, and is so direct that it must become a principal avenue of trade and travel. The route is by way of Vincennes, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Crestline, and Pittsburgh, and is the only one for the opening of which our Philadelphia railroad interests have been looking forward. Hitherto we have had none but indirect routes to St. Louis of a railway kind.—North American, 4th inst.

ENGLISH TACITURNITY.—The Liverpool (England) Times says:—"Coming from Manchester, a few days since, we stopped for a moment or two at Newton. Our opposite companion in the railway carriage being a stolid John Bull, evidently one of the agricultural class, we engaged on the platform a friend, and between the two the following conversation took place, neither moving a muscle of his countenance:—'Fine day.' 'Very fine day.' 'Rather warm!' 'Yes, rather warm.' The gentleman on the platform was moving off, when he suddenly stopped short and said, 'Want rain, though.' To which our traveling companion languidly replied, 'Yes, want rain.' He never spoke again all the way to Liverpool."

AN INDIAN FIGHT.—On the 12th ult., it being discovered that a party of Indians had stolen some horses from a place about fifteen miles distant from San Antonio, a party of five men mounted and went in pursuit. They surprised the Indians, three in number, in the valley of Chicon, where they were encamped, and recovered four of the horses. Although the pursuers numbered five, and the Indians were but three, and had only one gun, they made good their escape, one fighting the whites until his two companions saddled three horses, on which they all mounted and rode off. They made a free use of arrows, and the latter returned the fire with guns. Subsequently a party of twelve or fifteen mounted men went in pursuit.

It never fails to cure cases of any age or virulence, nor to give entire ease instantly to all, frequently curing by one application.

Piles are known by the heat, itching, and pain of the anus. Bleeding piles are caused, sometimes, by the falling of the whole bowels, which then press the intestinal canal tight against the back bone, and keeps the blood from returning up the vessels, similar to the blood being kept at the top of your finger when a string is tied tight around it; such is frequent, and for scrofulous humors and ulcers to form therein; then procure a perfect abdominal supporter, and wear a compress to the rectum, and continue to use the salve as above; also, rub it well over the loins and abdomen for some time, and the natural bolts that support the bowels will be contracted and made strong, and your life will be saved. If properly applied, every case will be cured. It never fails.
