We published on Friday last a table from a MESSES. EDITORS :--- I have been no little amused at the "tremendous excitement" which appeared a few days since in the local columns of the papers of this city, and which appears to have extended to the Philadelphia press. Now, the "excitement" spoken of was entirely confined to the "locals," and I presume was un known to the community until it appeared "in type." The facts are simply these: On Sunday morning last a stranger inquired of one of our citizens for the residence of the U. S. Marshal, and was informed that it was in Brownsvillo. Supposing it possible the man was in pursuit of runaways, the person of whom the inquiry was made, informed every man of color he met of the fact, and advised them, if they knew of any runaway, to warn him of his danger. Accord-ingly as L hora lasernal upon good antharity and was informed that it was in Brownsvillo.
