But the cotton gin producel a revolution in manufactures, and in Southern industry; and the cotton product has inmillion bales per annum; and so cheaply promarket. The introduction and oulture of the large the area of slavery, for slavery is alduced, too, that the whole world has become its sugar cane into some of the southern States soon was about slave labor [was deemed peculiarly well adapted. Slaves and slave-labor consequently rose rapidly in value; and the day of emancipation was postnoned. The numbers of slaves increased; and emancipation became more difficult and dangerous. As slavery became thus more profitable the disposition to abolish the institution was gradually weake ned. Selfishness contended with the sentiments of humanity; and the diffition in States were slaves were numerous came There is no doubt, too, that the acquisition of market and value, diminished the chances of emancipation. But those acquisitions alone Convention, last Wednesday: would never have prevented it; for, long after their purchase, a bill to abolish slavery in Virginia was lost in its house of delegates by but a shout 3000 persons in attendance, from different parts of the State." single vote; and in one branch of the Kentucky Legislature there was a majority in favor of a similar bill. The acquisitions of Louisiana and Florida were Democratic measures, adopted with no view to extend slavery, for it was there before; or to perpetuate it, for it was unpopular then; but in the first instance to secure forever dropped in for a few minutes to hear Giddings the control of the mouth of the Mississippi, and and Lew. Such were the aims and the fruits of that made the following nominations: acquisition. Spain, in the possession of Florida. was a jealous and troublesome neighbor, sheltering and encouraging the Indians in their depredations; and we only had peace on our southern borders when Spain was bought out, and her flag had departed from the continent. These acquisitions, while they incidentally increased the value of slave property to some extent, produced other results of vast consequence to the cause of liberty and republicanism. To charge the Democracy with pro-slavery designs in securing the acquisition of Florida, Louisiana and Texas, is as absurd and false and groundless as it would be to charge Whitney with such a design in inventing the cotton gin. The same Democracy acquired New Mexico and Utah. which are free and always will be; and California, which is a free State, and furnishes us with wealthy and prosperous on the face of the globe. reverse, as we shall show. The act admitting Texas provides that it may yet be divided into three or four States. When that division takes place, one or two of those States will probably be free, for northwestern Texas is filling up with a northern and foreign population that i averse to slavery. All the acquisitions of territory made by our Government since its organization may be just! And let us now sum up the result of this Demo
