Marwas defunct, nothing was left him but to join the Democracy, and advised all who were situated ike him to do the same. He argued That the he Know Nothings alone, the Republicans having no chance of success, and that consequently all members of the new party who loved their h country, should go the Democratic ticket. Mr. A. B. M'Calmont followed next, in a short The speaking was concluded by James H. Hopkins, Esq., with a scathing rebuke of the conduct of several of the candidates on the Know Nothing ticket. During the whole meeting the best feeling prevailed, and every evidence was given that the Demogracy of Allegheny were "up and do-ing!" We expect to hear a good account from that side of the river on Tuesday next. THE COUNTY FAIR-THIED DAY .- To the gratiloation, no doubt, of the Board of Managers, who were probably already thinking of an empty treasury as the result of their attempt at an ex position of agricultural products this year, the ttendance at the Fair, yesterday, was extremely large. The pleasant state of the weather in duced five or six thousand to visit the grounds and a continuous stream of people was kept up, and fro, until late in the evening. The recoipts at the Treasurer's office were sufficient to put that functionary in a good humor, and contract the elongated countenances of the other officers of the Fair. Amongst those present, were a couple thou-and ladies, who formed a more potent attrac tion to many than all the other "articles" on the grounds. Every noticeable point was crowdwith heaptiful and charming women, and the rougher sex, except those who were fortunate ough to be in attendance on these fair dames, sights," gave it up in despair, and contented themselves with viewing the ladies. The weather continued fair during the whole ay, and nothing occurred to mar the gratification of any one A number of abortive attempts at impromptu horse races were made during the day, and caused considerable amusement to the bystanders; but no regular exhibition of the speed ast horses was given. This portion of the Fair ounds seems to possess peculiar attractions or many, and whether the ring is empty or not constantly surrounded by a crowd. Outside the gates, the assemblage was almost s large as in, and the various "side shows" here collected were liberally patronized. a the afternoon, the Washington Infantry, der command of Capt. Theo. Our space this morning is so limited that we have only a small portion to devote to a continu tion of the notices of the various articles on ex-B. H. Hartley & Co. were on the ground with good display of saddles, harness and trunks, saving one of the largest and most fashionable and prosperous establishments in the West for the manufacture and sale of all such articles. They employ over fifty hands, and it is in their power to make a most splendid and beautiful show, as they did with their double and single parness, and leather trucks; and a very hand-some caddle with a third horn—which last is a lecided and valuable improvement. Messra Hartley & Co. are just the men to make a good ow at a State or County Fair. Their stock is excellent; and for enterprise, skill in their line, and fair dealing they are well and favorably nown for and near. Mr. Hartley is himself a bractical workman in his line, and has deserved he success he has won.

J. O'Hara Denny exhibits a splendid assort nent of pressed, out and fancy glassware. His nanufactory is at the corner of Duquesne Way, nd Smith street, Pittsburgh. A patent Grain Drill, of a valuable description, exhibited by Mr. J. D. Owens, known as loor's patent. This machine possesses many vantages over all others in use. It is worked ery easily with two horses, measures out the rain with great accuracy and regularity, and rom the simplicity and perfectness of its confruction not liable to get out of order. The lest evidences of the advantages of this Drill, is he fact that it is more extensively used than he fact that it is more extensively used than hy other. Mr. Owens has also on the ground he of Alleu's Patent Improved Mowers, a mahine excellently calculated for the purpose for hich it is intended. The present one has been a use on the place of Mr. J. Certificates be produced from persons in all parts of the wered by John M. Kirkpstrick, Esq. As the beaker is well qualified for the purpose, we ay expect an interesting address.
