Contracts for New Corn. Within the last two weeks there have been numerous contracts made for new Corn, amounting in the excregate to 150,000 bushels, at prices warying from 31 to 35, all to be delivered in this city before the first of next January. Wolders, under the influence of the excited state of the market for breadstuffs, and anticipating a large foreign de-mand for Corn, are now very firm, and contracts could not be made below 35c, and mays are asking higher rates.— Cincinnati Price Current, 170.

The display of articles was quite respectable, both in number and variety. On Thursday afternoon a fantastic parado came off, which greatly contributed to the amusement of the vast concourse of people assembled on the grounds. On Friday the ladies' riding match came off, and excited intense interest among the spectators. Six or eight ladies entered the ring-but it was soon eight ladies entered the ring-but it was soon manifest that the contest was narrowed down to between Miss Ficking, of Somerset, and Mrs. Bartholamew, of Freeport, Pa. The judges awarded the first premium to Miss Picking. This decision created a good deal of dissatisfaction among the spectators, so they seemed to think Mrs. Bartholamew was the best rider. The
