SHINGLE MACHINE. Patent Double Acting River and Shaver. THE attention of Shingle and Lumber dealers, special tors and others, is directed to this invaluable invention, which is now presented to the public as the first and sonity practical machine extant, for kiving and theviag Shingles. Ny practicar inscrine carrier machine have been invented by articus cutting and sauring machines have been invented for making ablingies, but it is a well known fact that Shim gles cut or eawed across the grain, are quite too filmsy for cooling purposes. Numerous inventions have recently appeared for riving and shaving, and these have all been condemned as worthless, from their imperfect method educations of the state of the state condemned as worthless, from their imperient method of riving, which consists of splitting from the side of the block but one shingle, which simest invariably runs off This difficulty is entirely obviated by ...

KENDALUS MACHINE.

Which first splits from the side of the block a place thick enough for two shingles, which is separated in the contrast and by means of clastic guides each part is conducted through a pair of approximating knives, which completes the operation; thus producing two slingles at every sero intion. ution.

This machine will rive and there from the block three housand shingles per hour, of uniform thickness and taper, superior in so idity and durability to these made by hand or any other process. its operations are by no means confined to pine and other; soft wood, but works to equal advantage, cak, walnut and every other description of inher that can be split.

The workings of the machine can be examined at H. H. Span's Furniture Buildings, Fifth street, Plifaburgh.
