

candidate of the great state of Pennsylvania for Governor; we take the liberty of writing a few lines upon the subject. We have known David R. Porter for many years; some of us since he first came into this country, and being his near and immediate neighbors can testify with honesty and truth to his character, and the falseness of the charges made against him in this letter.

Mr. Campbell, it is said, having since been called upon, denies that he is the author! But as a letter of this kind has no doubt been written, and endeavored to be circulated by some individuals for certain purposes, we can say at once that David R. Porter has never been charged by the people of this county for dishonesty, but on the contrary, is considered, and always has been, as a strictly honest man. He never refused to pay an honest debt, and the best evidence of this is to be found in his old creditors, every one of whom he has paid, being his warmest and most enthusiastic friends. David R. Porter has never been suspected for having perjured any papers from the public offices, of which he is charged in this letter. Such a charge was first heard of from that letter, and creates nothing but disgust here amongst both parties of politicians. IT IS NOT TRUE! David R. Porter was elected to office in this county, when no other man of his party could be elected. This proves that the assertions of the writer are totally false. An indictment is now pending in this county against R. Campbell for writing that letter. If he cannot be proved the author, of course he will be acquitted—if otherwise it will be shown in what light he stands before the people of this county.

You observed no doubt, that the letter has never been republished by the Riter press here! That would never do. Upon the whole we say that a more black hearted tissue of falsehoods never were invented against the character of any man, and they go on to show what shilly will be made by some men, to prop up a cause when other means have deserted them.

Thos. P. Campbell, Andrew Johnston, Daniel Arnes, William Dorris, Michael Booy, S. S. Wharton, C. Costa, Michael Cloughby, John Nail, Thos. Montgomery, David Wood, Joseph Harvey, Francis B. Wallace, W. R. McCay, Levi Westbrock jr., Walter B. Hudson, Chas. A. Newingham, James Simpson, John Livingston jr., W. S. Hildebrand, John Colstock, Robert Crowe, Joseph Stillewell, George Brank, William Woods, Edward Woods, Johnston Smith, Thomas Smith, Alex'r Westbrock, Henry Knees, George Jackson, C. Coldick, John Montgomery, Samuel Atmery, James Gwin, George Gwin, W. L. Snyder, William Glas, Daniel Miller, James Hollinshead, C. A. Nash, Martin Graffius, Wm. H. King, John Williamson, Patrick Gwin, Thos. Horrell, Irvin Horrell, G. Nash, David Snyder, James Manly, Alex'r McClellan, Sam. Belford, James Hemphill, Alexander Gwin, A. P. Wilson, James McConnell, D. Black, George Guckar, David M. Murrie, John Simpson, William Stewart, Joe Pympton, Henry Miller, Wm. A. Beck, James Sterrett, John Lauck, Jacob Chughbough, Thomas Forster, William K. Rahm, James A. Kerr, John Henderson, David Hazard, John Nash, D. Coldick, John Livingston, John White, J. Powell, J. M. Cunningham, John R. McCartney, David L. Wilmit, T. B. Luden, M. D. Isaac Hedges, D. Newingham, John Aghly.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

We have laid the facts before our readers. If David R. Porter should come out and deny them under his own signature, we shall be willing to publish such denial. Our acknowledgments are due to the Hon. JOHN SERGEANT, and J. K. BOND, for public documents. We have been under the necessity of crowding out the usual amount of foreign intelligence and miscellaneous matter, to make room for the evidence in our first page, in relation to David R. Porter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

candidate of the great state of Pennsylvania for Governor; we take the liberty of writing a few lines upon the subject. We have known David R. Porter for many years; some of us since he first came into this country, and being his near and immediate neighbors can testify with honesty and truth to his character, and the falseness of the charges made against him in this letter.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!

It will be seen that Mr. John Williamson, an Attorney at Law, who endorses the character of David R. Porter, is contradicted most flatly, by the records published, notwithstanding he represents himself to be familiar with the records of the county. And his other statements respecting David R. Porter, are also contradicted by indisputable testimony. This is but one of the many instances of what the members of the party will stoop in order to bolster up the rotten character of their candidate.—The letter has been sent abroad for publication and has not yet been commented upon at home.

complaint, is, however, that while he is now reputed to be worth $40,000, he refuses to pay his just debts, and that his acknowledged creditors are obliged to bring suits for their recovery. Here lies the shame of the infamy! And some of these creditors were men who had earned their money by the sweat of their brows, in his iron works! Were ruined by his insolvency and obliged themselves to take the benefit. And yet such a man is brought out as a suitable person for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania!