

POTTSVILLE.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV. 10, 1838.

37 Pamphlets, Checks, Cards, Bills of Lading and Handbills of every description, neatly printed at this Office at the lowest cash prices.

To our Patrons.

We would respectfully request from our subscribers a settlement of their arrears; those living in the Borough and its neighborhood will always find us ready at our office, and those who live at a distance, can easily make remittances by enclosing a five dollar bill, which amount will be placed to their credit. We shall esteem an attention to this notice a favor, which we will endeavor to repay by continued exertions to instruct and amuse.

In the first week of January next, we shall enlarge the size of the Journal; and at that time nearly $2000 will be due for subscriptions, the receipt of which will materially assist in defraying the expenses incident to the contemplated improvement. We will also find it necessary to open a new set of Books at the commencement of the ensuing year, and a prompt discharge of all subscriptions due to that period, will greatly benefit ourselves, and save a great deal of labor in transferring balances on old accounts.

Election Frauds in Schuylkill county! In the Friedensburg district, the tally list, contained the names of 268 votes, but only 256 were returned by the judges. Of these 92 were for Joseph Ritner. There had been several bets made by the locos, that Ritner would not receive 100 votes in the district, and one person even made a bet on the day of election, while engaged in his duties as Judge of that election!

Comment on this is unnecessary; "he who runs may read" that the Whigs who bet must lose! We do not pretend to say that the 12 votes withheld, would have effected any result in our county, but it only shows the "system" which has robbed our party of their Governor, and we trust that hereafter, it will be a lesson of warning to the Whig party.

Picciola.—This Novel, which is a translation from the French of M. D. Saintine, is one of the most original and delightful things, we have met with in a long time. The allegory of the "herb of grace," the "patra picciola," is happy in the extreme, and its gradual influence on the mind of the Count de Charney, displacing the clouds of skepticism and lighting him to the pure sun shine of belief, combines every excellence both of religion and of poetry. We recommend all who desire to know the true charm of life, to peruse this little volume; nothing has passed the literary meridian since Rasseas, which has been so repete with interest, amusement and instruction.

A Paradise for Thieves.—Mr. Bate of Camden, N. J. had his mulberry nursery traced, traced the thief and brought him to trial on a charge of larceny. The law however decided that stealing mulberry trees was not larceny, and the prisoner was acquitted! He then tried a civil suit, and after forty-eight hours' argument the jury could not agree; two of them jumped out of the window, and so broke up the matter! Oh tempora! Oh morus multaculis!

Union Canal.—The gentlemen who were appointed at Pinegrove to memorialize the counties adjacent to the Union Canal toward delegates to a Convention to be held at Harrisburg, on the first Tuesday of next month, and to apply to the Legislature for aid to increase it to the extent of the Pennsylvania Canal, have published a very able Report.

This movement is one of vital importance to our State, as under existing circumstances, the advantages derived from the tide water Canal on the Susquehanna is enjoyed almost exclusively by Baltimore, as an interrupted navigation is afforded to that place for the produce which might otherwise find a market in Philadelphia. The extension of the Union Canal will afford a choice of markets. The locks of the Pennsylvania Canal are 17 by 90 feet, those of the Union Canal only 8 1/2 by 45; the consequences is when boats arrive at Columbia, they pass out of the State, rather than endure the expense of shifting their cargoes to the rail road, which must be done to arrive at Philadelphia, and thus a trade from the valley of the Susquehanna estimated to be worth $20,000,000 per annum is lost to our metropolis and enjoyed by Maryland, through our state works.

The Swatara Coal Region, which is destined to be of vast importance to the revenue of our State, has been rendered almost useless by the want of capacity in the Union Canal. The committee show by incontestable data that plenty of water can be obtained to pass 50 boats per day, while the advantages of the country are such, about the Swatara, that it might be increased by additional reservoirs. This subject should engage the primary attention of every one, either directly or indirectly interested in the coal or agricultural trade of the region, through which the Union Canal passes; and we therefore trust that the recommendation of the committee to appoint delegates to the Convention may be promptly attended to.

Abolition Riot.—An incendiary lecturer attempted to deliver an abolition address in Danub, (Conn.) the result was a riot, and a very free use of stones, brick bats, and other missiles.

Eggs and Poultry.—We would call the attention of our readers to our excellent article on these subjects, which will be found on our first page.

Importing Voters by Shiploads.—It is said that the Government has ordered the Ohio 74 from Boston to New York, to remain there till after the election. She has nine hundred men on board, who are we suppose, to obey the word of command and march to the polls! If they remember the "tinker and cobbler" article of the Globe, we opine they would vote quite different from the ticket the locos will take pleasure in handing for their approval.

Senator Buchanan.—In Tobin's Comedy of the Honey Moon, when Balhazar discovers that he has been for weeks the dupe of a designing apothecary and hostess, who instead of relieving his sickness, have drugged him to retain a good customer, he is infuriated to inflict summary vengeance on them both. With drawn sword therefore, he interrogates, "come, which shall I begin with? 'The apothecary not wishing that his politeness should be strained beyond the point due to a female, exclaims 'the lady sir, first by all means!' Of a piece with this was Senator Buchanan's speech last session, when in speaking of the U. S. Bank, he said, 'If this curse must be inflicted on the country, I am for having it located in Philadelphia, not in New York.'

The Tennessee Review gives another illustration of the force of the Hon. Senator's remarks which shows its peculiar beauty still more forcibly. "My beloved brethren," said the excellent Father McGuire, at the close of a Temperance Sermon, "this drinking of whiskey, as I have proved to you, is a bad thing—it ruins both body and soul—but if you mean still to get drunk and make beasts of yourselves, you may as well give your lips to Barney Coyle as any body!"

Vermont.—Samuel S. Phelps, a staunch Whig, has been elected U. S. Senator from Vermont.

Ohio.—The Governor has ordered a new election to supply the seat vacated by the resignation of Mr. Killgore.

Shamokin Coal Mines.—From the 21st of August to the 14th of September, 2311 tons of coal have been transported from this region, on the Pottsville and Danville Rail Road to Sunbury.

The War on Banks.—After all the bug and cry raised by the Government against Banks, and the daily opprobrious epithets showered on their issues by the Globe and other congenial presses, we were hardly prepared to learn, that any of the Departments should make the U. S. Bank its fiscal agent. But that such is the case will be seen by the following circular from the Paymaster General's Office, in which the notes of the Bank are virtually acknowledged to be as acceptable and more convenient than specie. Read the following, and imagine how the Globe &c. will get out of the difficulty.

[CIRCULAR] Paymaster's General Office, Washington, October 8th, 1838. "Sir—Arrangements having been made with the United States Bank to pay the Treasurer's drafts to a certain amount at different places, and it being probable the notes of that Bank will be as acceptable to claimants, and in some cases more convenient than specie; you will, should you receive drafts on that Bank or its agents, make as many of your payments by check as you can, which will give the receiver the option of taking paper or specie; and the department has no objection to your using the paper of that Bank in all your payments, so far as it can be done legally. Respectfully your ob't serv't, N. TOWNSON, P. M. G."

Byron in Westminster.—We published some few weeks since, an account of the Dean of Westminster's refusal to permit Thordwald's statue of Byron to be admitted into the Abbey. His remarks have previously been prohibited from this spot of sepulchre, on the alleged grounds of his impiety, and his statue it appears, is to share the same enlightened fate! Who knows the religious opinions of Lord Byron? In the vast mass of correspondence published since his death, he never avows any peculiar tenets. What then are they frightened at! do they think him the incarnation of his own Lucifer? In his writings are to guide us in forming an opinion, there are gems of pure religion breathed throughout them. Dryden, whose conversion to the Roman Catholic religion must be obnoxious to the churchmen, and Shakespeare who pled guilty to deicide, and whose writings are as low as Byron's, claim their niches in the Abbey, and shall a place be denied him? "England, with all thy faults" we did not expect this of thee! Retract this foul stain on your character as a liberal people, look with the eye of charity on his faults, and imitate the great example of Him, who said in mildness to the basest in the world's esteem, "Go and sin no more!"

Canada.—Great excitement prevails at Montreal and elsewhere; families are moving away, and every arrangement making for an approaching rupture. It appears that our government has informed the Canadian authorities, that secret associations are organizing on the frontier for its invasion, and so secretly, that they cannot arrest its progress. Should they arm the militia it would only be placing munitions of war in the hands of the conspirators, and they therefore recommend them to stand prepared.

Pennsylvania Bell.—Not the house of our opposite neighbor and friend, Haughwout, who has tickled the palates and pleased the taste of so many strangers in his capacity of "mine host," but the Pennsylvania Bell, of Philadelphia, has been presented by the Grand Jury of that city. The paper is a very well written and is well worthy the attention of all who feel interested in the dissemination of liberal feelings of a true stamp.

Something New.—A Mons. Jobard of Brussels has invented a boat, in which he expects to cross the straits of Dover in eleven minutes! The propelling power is a pyrotechnical composition, assimilated to the congrue rocket. Tubes filled with this composition are attached to the boat, which being ignited at the stern, the reaction will carry the boat through the water with a velocity never attained on a rail road. The whole apparatus costs less than $200, and each trip requires about one tenth of that sum for materials. Truly we live in an age of wonders.—We have had the golden, the iron, and the dark ages, this must be characterized as the age of discoveries. At this rate, if the propelling power could be kept up, or renewed, less than one day would make a journey from Europe to America!

William Shakespear.—The literary world when once taken in, are as fearful of a second deception, as a burnt child is of the fire. The imposition of the Shakespear's manuscripts have made their way of any subject connected with the immortal bard. But another case has originated in England, which claims more than a passing notice. A descendant and name sake of the Swan of Avon is about to appear at the English Opera House in an original dramatic sketch, in which the character of Shakespear is introduced, and his descendant is to personate it. This new debutant for fame has heretofore been a wool stapler in Warwickshire, but inspired with the dramatic mania turned actor and joined a strolling company.

His introduction to the London public was thus occasioned. An Irish barrister, visiting his place of residence and attracted by the sign board, on which was inscribed his name in toll, was instigated by his enthusiastic admiration of the "poet of all time" to seek the acquaintance of his namesake. In reply to his query, he ascertained that the second Will had "turned fool and joined the players." The barrister then sought the barn where Richard was enacting, and found the object of his sympathies doubling or rather tripling Tressel, Buckingham and Richmond. He was pleased with his manner, and the propriety of his delivery, and invited him to supper. The intimacy thus commenced, brought out such germs of genius, that the gentleman has successfully exercised his influence to procure him a London engagement.

The London Morning Herald says, his person is good and his voice harmonious; the form of his brow and the general features also bear a strong resemblance to the various likenesses of his supposed progenitor. If he can prove his lineage, and possess talent, he will become the greatest theatrical hit of the day. For ourselves, we are very incredulous, but should like to see the old bard revived again in the person of the new aspirant.

A Prophecy.—The American Sentinel before the election, said that if the new Constitution were adopted, Pennsylvania would be forever lost to Van Buren. We trust its sources of information are of such a character, that he may prove a true prophet, for it is a consummation devoutly to be wished for.

The Harrisburg Reporter.—This sheet has raised the Van Buren flag; the democracy of our country will have it down before long. They cannot stand domestic piracy, or the death's head that it fights under.

Catechism of Iron.—This is the title of an invaluable book, published as a guide to the iron trade, by Mr. George Getz, of Reading. The work includes a new and comprehensive set of tables, arranged in an improved way and order, and containing the weights of more than a thousand different bodies and substances of iron, and the nearest proportionate number of feet which is equal to a ton in weight of each of the different bodies and sizes. The compiler in his preface states that the want, as well as utility, of a work of the kind, prompted him to make a selection from the best English publications, and that he has had access to three rare and valuable books, though the courtesy of individuals, who have heretofore used them only for private practical use. With such facilities, the work must assume a great importance to those engaged in the iron trade, and when we consider the vast & still increasing interests in that branch of industry, we know of no publication, which more cordially merits the patronage of all connected with it. The work can be obtained at this office.

Samuel Sturgeon.—Previous to the election, Alexander Lowry, said of Samuel Sturgeon, that he would perjure himself for a little money.—As soon as Sturgeon heard this, he brought a suit against him for slander; the case was referred to arbitrators, who reported Four hundred dollars damages, and costs of suit for the plaintiff.

The Keystone felicitates itself on the idea that five witnesses will be requisite to swear to frauds, if the Governor's election be contested.—It seems that their party place all their hopes in the secrecy of their plans, and think that their caution will act like charity in covering their multitude of sins.
