The retort, which is four feet long, produces upwards of 8000 feet in twenty four hours, being three times as much as can be made up in the present system from one retort. The gas bas not only a much greater flomen aring power, but is relieved from those impurities which have binerto prevented the adoption of that most beautiful light in private dwelling houses, and it extracts one third more gas from a given quantity or coal. The invention, we have no doubt, will command the aftention of the public generally.
