IT We give place to the following with great pleasure, and regret that our remarks in the last Journal should have produced any impression, such as alluded to by our correspondent. We did not conceive that he had any wish to excite "angry feelings," but we thought it due to ourselves to state explicitly on the threshold of what might have opened a door to controversy, that we could not consent to be the medium of such communication. We have good an opinion of our correspondent to presume that he would wish to lead a drusade against any sec tarian preferences, and we cordially regret that our meaning should have been so miss nterpreted :

POR THE MINERS! JOURNAL. Ma Bannan :- In the Journal of last week, you decline publishing the lines furnished by me on the subject of religious opinion. This in itself is justi faole; but you will permit the to take some excep-tion to the reasons assigned in that instance. You observe, that "crimination and r - runination on-religious subjects, to any community, have a very in parious tendency, without being productive of any good," -thus giving your readers to understand that I intended "to excite angry feelings among sectars

Whether they came to that conclusion or not, I must protest my innecence; and wish you to insert a few lines from said article, to show that my intention was to depieceate such a course. "The world is governed too much "—and my lines were operated to the said."

posed to that spirit:
"No churchman's frauds or pious lies, Shall teach me, others to despise; -What'er their creed, I love them all, So they before their Maker fall. By modes of tauh, let none presume,

To fix his fellow creature's doom."
"RIGHT WRONGS NOBODY," consequently you can have no objection to the manner in which I plead J. M. C. "NOT GUILTY." Pottsville, July 9th, 1839.

TRIUMPHS OF AMERICAN MECHANICS. Mr Normis, of Philadelphia, promises to obtain for himself and country an enviable reputation, the Burial Ground, agreeably to the provisions of The locomotive made by order for the Birmingham and Gloncester rail road, England, has arrived out and distinction, and succeded to admiration - per-forming the conditions required, viz twenty miles an hour, in much less than the time. The most flattering encomiums are expressed of it in the English papers. It weighs only eight tons, and drew a load of one hundred and twenty. Its engine is stated to be of a simplicity: neatness and finish of workmanship, quite surpassing any thing of the kind in England, outstripping their locomotives in speed, though these last where heavier. The boi'er also has but 70 instead of a hundred tubes, like the English. The whole machinery is more compact; and such is the mathematical precision, says the English account, that the steam joints are constructed merely by the co-spiation of polished me tallic surfaces, needing no packing. The company in England are so delighted with this Tocomotive. named "I'me England," that eight more are order-

Thus has the time arrived that our elechanics ! are taking a position for workmanship, as well as ingenuity of invention. Necessity is the mother of invention. We have thousands of miles more rail road than any other country; therefore it stands to reason our locomotives are more perfected. For the same reason, as nearly all the steam navigation Qu England is on the sea, their steam ships surpass ours. But great capitalists in our sea ports should lack to the above facts in proof of the assertion reit erated in the Star that our mechanics can make a!io, if they put out their strength, a steam ship in the model, machinery. &c , eq tal, probably, in every respect, to the beautdeal of naval perfection now boom ing over the Atlantic to this port—we mean the British Queen — New York Star.
