Submissive to the winds of chance, We toss on Life's inconstant sea: This billow may our bark advance, And that may leave it on the lee Thus coast which rises fair to view. May thick be set with rocky mail. And that, which beetles o'er the blue, Be safest for the shattered sail.

The cloud that, like a little hand, Slow lingers when the morning shines, Expands its volume o'er the land, Dark as the forest-sea of pines; While that which dasts a vapory screen Before the azure realm of day, Rolls upward from the lowland scene,

And from the mountain tops away. Oh, fond deceit! to think the flight Of time will lead to pleasure strange, And ever bring some new delight. To minds that strive and sigh for change Within ourselves the secret lies, Let seasons vary as they will; Our hearts would murinur, though our skies

MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINE -REfunctions of life are suspended, and those who are invalids by inheritance or imprudence are reduced to a deplorable state of nervous debitty, they should not even then despair, for it is not in despute that relief can be found. No. Let them first look around, and laying aside all prejudices, ask them. selves this question—"If my physician cannot help me, is his geputed skill my only resort?"

Perhaps at that moment the hinding of this ad vertisement, "Moffat's Life Medicaes," would catch their eye; and were they in truth divested of foolish prejudices, they might, perhaps, be induced to inquire whether Mr. Moffat's theory and trester, and very widely, and with most unhappy re

If they pursued their inquiries still further, they would find that all practising physicians of the present day prescribe MERCURY, in some form, for almost every disease, and they would learn, too, that mercurral medicines, though they give present relief, undermine the constitution, and always have the patient in a precarious state of health.

A GOOD VEGETABLE MEDICINE is just the reverse of all this. For hundreds of years, before that spoarge of mankind, "Mercury," was employed in the healing art, l'avsicians used nothing but simple herbs. Even the bible recommends as the skilful physician he who prepareth his medi-cines from herbs. Witness Ecclesiasticus, chapter
