It is a rod, connected with the rudder, which, moving with it, shows the steersman the exact position of the rudder at any moment. It traverses a space above his head and is always visible. All the ships now building at New York have these indicators.

Moravian Missigns .- A Sermon was preached on Thursday evening, at Merthyr Church, in behalf of the London Association, in aid of the above Missions, by the Rev. High Owen, LL D. Rector of Beccles, Suffolk. The Rev. Dr. preached from the Lxt.—"There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother;" and urged upon his audience the duly of extending to the whole world the knowledge of the Friend of sinners. He gave some interesting details of the operations of the Society: respecting which the following brief summary has been pretty generally distributed:—The church of the United Brethern, (or Moravians,) has been fully recognised as an "Ancient Protestant Episcopal Church."+ Their missions among the Negroes, Hottentots, American Indians, and Greenlanders, (most of them being in British Colonies.) were commenced above a century ago, and now consist of fifty one stations, supplied by two hundred and thirty-seven mission aries, and contain above fifty-one thousand converts. The stations abroad are chiefly dependent upon this country for their maintenance. Of the numbers pbove stated, 129 missionaries administered the gospel to above 45,000 of the Negro race, a branch of the mission, which, at this moment, is of pre-eminent importance. The missions, however, are labouring under an annual difficuracy of £1500 in their funds, which which fetters their exertions in the West Indies where every department of the work suffers from want of means to embrace opportunities which are now occurring under circumstances of much en-couragement. Dr. Owen was to preach in a half of the same Society at Dowlais Church last night.

The good work, too, is the more valuable in the latter point of view, on account of the great destitution of some of the populous ironwork districts in South Wales, as to the means of public worship and religious ministration. The benificent doner in this case, is Miss Herbert of Abergavenny.
