We have met in social meeting Works of Christian love to share, Cordial was our friendly greeting, Pleasant was our converse there; Warm was then each kind emotion And our labours not in vain. Now, thy path lies o'er the ocean! And we may not meet again.

But as o'er the swelling billow Swiftly speeds thy mission bardie, May Jehovah guard thy pillow And uphold thy lonely ark; May he hush each sod emotion, Still the winds, and calm the main, Tho' thy path lies o'er the ocean And we may not meet again.

When the spicy winds regale thee Wafted from sweet Ceylon's Isle, When new friends and scenes shall hail thee And thy blooming Home shall smile, Think of us with tond emotion, Pray for us, 'twill not be vain, The thy home is o'er the ocean

Yet again in spirit blending We may bow at Jesus feet. And our praise to him ascending Mingle in one anthem sweet, Far from all this world's commotion Where no sins or sorrows reign. When we've passed Life's stormy ocean, We, dear friend, may meet again.

And we may not meet again.

Meet, with all'our loved departed, Where the pearly gates spread wale, Ne'er to studer broken hearted, Ne'er to stem the swelling tide. When all hushed is Death's emotion, When we've fled from grief and pain. When we've passed Life's stormy ocean, Then, oh then, we'll meet again.

The Germans in Kentucky - From the following paragraph, which we copy from the Loatsville Jour nal, it appears that our German tellow cuizens of KENTUCKY are following the noble lead of their brethren in PENN-YEVANIA, and Onio:

The large meeting of the Whigs, which took place at the lower market house last Saturday even ing, was addressed by Mr. Ballock in a short bu very cloquent speech in defence of the military char acter of Gen. Harrison and in retutation of the ab surd charge of his being an abulitionist. He wa by our worthy lownsman. Mr. Charle Kastanbine, who enchained the attention of a de lighted audience in a speech, in the German lan guage, about three quarters of an hour in length delivered with remarkable fluency and animation We are ignorant of the language in which the speech was delivered, but judging from its effect up on the many Germans who were present, we unber itatingly pronounce it to have been among the very best to which the present canvass has given birth Mr. Ka-tanbine was a Jickson, man, but with thousands of other naturalized citizens, his nativ agood sense and devotion to the best interests of th country have led hun, after a calm and thorough investigation of the ments of the men and measures of the two great parties which now divide the cu not only to expouse the cause of the Whigs, but al though a remarkably modest and retiring man, to take the stump in defence of the principles and po icy advocated by them. We only speak the unan mous opinion of the whole Whig party, when we bid him go on, and, a sure him that the prayers o every friend of the country attend his patriotic efforts which cannot fail to be crowned with the happiest effects.

The meeting was addressed also by Mr. Huber, a German. We of course could not understand hilanguage; but as it was interpreted by a triend, in took a most excellent view of the state of the coun try and the condition of the finances, and traced all the present sufferings of the people to their proper source, the measures of the last and present admin

Mr. Eckstein also addressed his brother Germanin their own language. He spoke of the motivewhich induced him to leave his father land, to comto this land of liberry and constitutional law, which protected alike the poor and the rich. He said that he had been firly veara in this country—that he waacquainted with Washington, and heard him deliver his second inaugural speech—that he was acquainted with Jeff room, and Madison, and Monroe-and that he was the intimate friend of Gen. Harrison as good a man as ever lived in this or any other country. Tue speeches were repeatedly and enthusiastical.

Ven Buren's great love for the People exemplified -In the 200,000 Standing Army Bill, the plan which Martin Van Buren, could "not two strongly recommend to the attention of Congress," the ful lowing merciful feature is found in section 28:

ly cheered by the large assembly.

"If a citizen shall fall to march when ordered by nor more than three month's pay, and to be impris end on failing to pay the fine; and the 23th section provides further that the U.S. Marshal shall collect the fine LT And if the citizen has no property, he is to suffer imprisonment until the fine is paid."

During Gen. Harrison's speech at Cleaveland some one in the crowd called out to him for a dec laration of principles. The 'old man eloquent' stop ped a moment to limen to the call, and then replie in sub-tunce as follows: I make no pledges Your President is not the man to enact laws. Go and elect your Congress and ins ruct them in every thing concerning the laws you wish enacted, and should I be the successful candidate, I will endeavor to 'see that the laws are faithfully executed,' and when I shall have done that, the donies of the Execurive, according to my notion, will have been ful

The gentleman in the crowd replied, on Gen. Har rison's asking 'if the gentleman was answered,' that he was satisfied. And so said they all, and so say we .- Buff Com.
