From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

On Saturday, a hardy, weather beaten, but very sepectable looking seaman presented bimself at the Collector, at the Custom House, and inquiring is Mr. Curtis, said, "General Harrison told material the transformation told material terms of the terms of terms of the terms of the terms of terms o For Mr. Curtis, said, "General Harrison told me to ave this letter into your own hand. He told me give his kind respects to Mr. Curtis, and said Mr. Curtis was his friend, and would be my friend." Mr. Curtis opened the letter, and found it to be for its date, one of the last, if not the very last etter, written by General Harrison. It bears fate the day when his illness commenced. The reawill see, from a perpsal of it, that amidst all the cares and troubles of his high position, he was the to the humblest of his old Triends. Tucker is the General made him come to the dinner table th the great tolks, and when he hesitated and inmated that he had better go belais for his dinner. s General said, "Tucker you and I have been bipmater, and a long time together. You are an nonest man; come and est your dinner with me, and come here again to morrow morning and get

Four breakfast with me." Tucker says the General invited him to stay in Washington, and told him he would take care of him, but his wife and children being in New York, Tucker preferred to return. He says General H. followed him into the grounds, on the East side of the White House, and then walked with him, armin arm, that the General had no hat on, and when Tacker adverted to his liability to take cold, he waived the remark by saving he was already un-well. Having received the letter from the General. Tucker says he followed him up to the door and shook him by the hand, "go to my friend Mr. Curtis, and after you have been to him don't forget to write to me that you and your wife and land, but he did not let the General know that, fo he knew he would give it to him'in a minute, and he did not wish to take money from the good old mau who had been so kind to him. And so Tuck-er went on board the schooner L. L. Sturgis, at Alex. andria, and worked his passage home to New York. When he came to the custom house he had not been ashore thirty minutes, and having first heard the sad news of his death of his kind benefactor as he passed up the Old Slip dock, the abundant tears that fell down his hardy cheek testified that his is no ongrateful heart. We are glad to hear that Mr. Curtis immediately appointed Mr. Tucker an inspector of the customz.

" WASHINGTON, 26th March, 1841. " DEAR SIR-The bearer hereof, Mr. Tho mas Tucker, a veteran seamen, came with me from Carthagena, as the mate of the brig Montidis, in the year 1829. In an association of several weeks 1 Imbibed a high epinion of his character-so much no that (expressing a desire to leave the sea) I in-vited him to come to North Bend, and spend the remainder of his days with me. Subsequent mis-fortunes prevented his doing so, is he was desirous to bring some money with him to commence farming operations. His bad fortune still continues, having been several times shipwrecked within a few years. He says that himself and family are now in such a situation that the humblest employment would be acceptable to him, and I write this to recommend him to your favorable notice. I am persuaded that no one possesses, in a higher degree, the virtues of fidelity, honesty and indefatigable industry ; and, I might add, of indomitable bravery. if that was a quality necessary for the kind of emment he secks.

"Yours very truly, "W. H. HARRISON. " EDWARD CURTIS, E.q. " Collector, &c., New York,"

GENERAL HABRISON AND HIS WIFE .- A touching reminiscence connected with a visit made by the vocalist, Mr. Russel, to North Bend last summer is given in the New York Express. The sweet singer, like every other friend, found a warm welcome at the hospitable mansion of General Harrison. Among the songs sung was a plaintive domes ic one, happy in its thoughts and touching in its language, entitled "My old Wife." The lunguage was strikingly adapted to the happy life and Families, parties, as it did the events of years of uninterrupted domestic bliss. Mrs. Harrison west like a child, and as tears are contagious when the fountains of sympathy are not dried up, the husband of the wold wife" could not refrain from weeping also. The remark of Mrs. Herrison in excuse for what she deemed a woman's weakness, was the dread of change, which of necessity must come from a change of residence from North Bend to Wushington, and in a change of condition from the humble citizen superintending his farm, to the President of a nation, with the cares and responsibilities of Government upon his shoulders. wish," said Mrs. H. "that my husband's friends had left him where he is, happy and contented in retirement." General Harrison's heart, in the hour of social quiet. surrounded by the romnant of his family, responded to the sentiment, and doubtless felt the vanity of all things earthly. Alas, how fully have been the dark forebodings of the wite realized ! She who a week since was "the good old wife," is now the lone widow, and before the eyes of the reader are fixed upon the paragraph we write, relating the simple story of a pious and good woman, her's are filled with tears at the loss of one dearer to her than life. How often will the recollection of the wish we have named return to her, and how many and painful will be the regrets that husband and wife, who have lived so long and so happy together, were separated in the hour of death.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

A RECOMMENDATION. When a Christian Reople feel themselves to be overtaken by a great public calamity, it becomes them to humble themselves under the dispensation of Divine Providence, to recognise-his rightenus government over the children of men, to acknowl edge-his goodness in time past, as well as thei own unworthiness, and to supplicate His merciful protection for the future.

The death of William Henry Harrison, late Pres ident of the United States, so soon after his elevation to that high office, is a bereavement peculiarly calculated to be regarded as a heavy affliction, and to impress all minds with a sense of the uncertainty of human things, and of the dependence of Nations, as well as of individuals, upon our Heavenly Pa-
