Mob Law triumphant in Cincinnati. theA most disgraceful putrage has taken place in acc above named city, and it appears from all the o ounts which have been received, that this vilation of the laws had the sanction of the people. For this conduct there can be no pallation or excuse -a community can hever be justified in resorting to force as a remedy, no matter what may be the evil complained of. The crowd witnessing the destruction was immense, yet there was not the slightest indication to render assistance-although not more than about 50 boys from 17 to 18 years of ago, were engaged. Four have since been arrested, upon whom were found about $24,000. We subjoin the following from the Republican,

"On Monday evening it was announced, that the Miami Bank had insde an assignment and would be closed on Tuesday. Early in the morning of Tuesday, an immense crowd assembled in front of the bank, which is very near the room occupied by the Cincinnati Bank. Upon the door of the latter was a notice that it would be closed for 20 days, after which time it would redeem its paper. This caused great excitement -the examperated crowd increased, and about 9 o'clock, a mob broke open the doors and found that every thing had been removed except the desks and counters-these were broken and thrown into the streets.

The interior of his office was soon demolished and the contents thrown into the street books, papers, and all that could be found. The doors, wincows, and counters were completely demolished, the signs tore down and split to pieces. After this, the attitick was commenced on Longre's office on the opposite corner of Main and Third streets. It had not been opened during the day. The doors and windows were soon broken—the crowd rushed in, and this office soon shared the same fate with Bates'. Lengee issued the notes called the 'Saving Bank of Louisville.' After the crowd had completed the work of destruction here, they went to Brew. ster's and Easton's offices, but at half past three, they have done no other damage to them than to pull down the signs and desiroy them. The crowd in the streets is still immense. There or his choler to boil ! The intellect of man has must be three or four thousand people assembled, but the great majority are mere spectators. THE STUDY OF MAN .--- The noblest of all human studies or philosophy is the study of the heart of man, or the philosophy which governs numan action. He who devises means to guide safely the ship, when the storms are raging and the leep is in commotion, has wrought a good work ; but who has the wisdom or the knowledge enabled him to extend his knowledge to the heavscience; but what mortal has the understanding skill and adventurousness of some have enabled them to bring out from his icy den and tame the savage bear of Greenland, and fetter the strong lion of the African deserts; but who of mortals is

THE INTRIOVEN .- I have always noticed that the man, who to gain some advantages of his neighbor, or some temporary fame, would resort to cabal, intrigue, or foible, was wholly destitute of any elevated thought or manly feeling. Virtue, bonor, and elevated thought are as far above his 95 105 30 The question on refere nce to the Committe o Manufactures was adopted without a division. From the above statement it will be seen that Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New_Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, voted for a Tariff unanimously; and that New Hampshire, Georgia, Alabama, Illinois, and Missouri voted unanimously against it. New Hampshire is represented entirely by Locofocos.

Twenty-four Whig members, mostly from the South, voted against a Pariff and eighty-nine tor it.

Seventy-two. Locofocos voted against a Tariff, and fifteen for it, the latter from northern States.

Gen. Gaines and the Russian Ministers's first levee at Washington are thus referred to by the Washington correspondent of the Courier and Enquirer.

Among the remarkable events of the day, is the unauthorised presence of Gen. Gaines in this city. He came here under an irregular leave of absence obtained from the Secretary of War. When he arrived a regular leave of sheence was tendered him by Gen. Scott, which he refused to receive. Under these circumstances the General's age, services, and position in the army, being laken into consideration, it was judged inexpedient to court martial him ; and leave of absence was made out in his favor by the President himabsent from duty.
