Schuylkill County, Pa.

EBEUBEN BRIGHT respectfully announce to his friends and the public that he has tak en this splendid, niry and delightful establishment, situated at the termination of ment, situnted at the termination of the Reading and Philadelphia Rail Road, where he will be happy to wait on those who visit the Coal Region, on business, or for the purpose of enjoying the mountain air and water. The Hotel is large, finished and furnished in the best style—and pains will be spared to render satisfaction to all who may favor it with a visit. Being within ten minutes walk of the Borough of Pottsville, though sufficiently removed to escape the dust and noise of that busy, bustling place, it is con fidently believed that it will be found much more pleasant and agreeable, than any other Hotel in the vicinity. Attached to the Hotel is a large and beautiful garden, overlooking the River Schuylkill, the Schuylkill Caual, Mount Carbon Rail Road, (extending to the Mines and thence to Sunbury) the Centre Turopike, and at the same time affording a teal and romantic view of five Mountains. The house is supplied with pure mountain spring water, and a Bathing establishment unrivalled in the country. A splendid pleasure Car is kept for the exclusive accommodation of visitors, who may be disposed to visit the Mines, or enjoy the wild and roman tic scenery of the surfounding country. Individ uals or families may rely on having ample room and every possible attention. Mount Carbon, June 19, 1841.

Like the others in the boat, he wore a dark blue coat with broad buff facings, closely buttoned to the throat, heavy golden epaulettes, buckskin small clothes, high military boots, with spurs of steel, while a belt of buff encircled his waist in which was fixed a straight sword. Such was the costume of the personage who was destined to achieve the liberty of his country, and to burst the fetters of oppression. Need we say who it was ! In your mind's eye' does he not stand efore you? Is not his name the watchword of our independence; and his memory enshrined in the heart of every son of freedom ? It was George Washington!

As the barge gained the opposite bank, one of this mean ?' the rowers leaped ashore, and made it fast to the root of the willow which hung its broad thick branches over the river. The rest of the party then landed, and uncovering, saluted their rest you.' ommander, who returned their courtesy.

By ten o'clock you may expect me,' said Washington. 'Be cautious; look well that you are not surprised. These are no times for trifling.'

Depend upon us? replied one of the party. 4 do,' he responded, and bidding them farewell, leparted along the bank of the river.

That evening a party was to be given st the house of one of his old and valued friends, to the barge, stood revealed before him. which he with several other American officers, ad been invited. It was seldom he had participated in festivity, more especially at that period vhen every moment was fraught with danger .--Nevertheless, in respect to an old acquaintance backed by the solicitations of Ruby Rugsdale, the daughter of the host, he had consented to relax from the toil of military duty, and honor the party for a few hours with his presence.

After continuing his path for some distance a long the river's side, he struck off into a narrow road, bordered thickly with brushwood, tinged with a thousand dyes of departed summer; here and there a grey crag peeped out from the foliage, over which the green ivy and the scarlet woodbine hung in wreathy dalliance; atgother places the arms of the chesnut and mountain ash met in lofty fondness, and cast a gloom deep al-

He started back with surprise, laid his hand upon his sword-but the Indian only fell upon her knees, placed her finger upon her lips, and by a sign with her hand forbade him to proceed.

What seek you, my wild flower, said the Gen eral. She started to her feet, drew a small toma hawk from her belt of wampum, and imitated the act of scalping the enemy; then again waving her hand, as forbidding him to advance, she darted into the bushes, leaving him lost in amazeossession of the boat. ment.

"There is danger,' said he to himself, after a short pause, and recovering from his surprise.-That Indian's manner betokens me of no good but my trust is in God; he has never yet deserted mc,' and resuming the path, he shortly reach ed the mansion of Rufus Rugsdale.

Divonce.- A Trenton correspondent of the Newark Daily Advertiser, under date of the 8th inst., says :

A DIVONCE BILL of some interest was plased this afternoon. A foreigner of very gentlemanly appearance, and of great pretensions, by faiss representations, ingratisted himself into the offections of a young orphan girl of 17, beautiful, accomplished, and an heiress. Her step-father required references, from him, and sent to France for certificates of his character. A package of letters came, of all which spoke highly of him ; but from this package it was afterwards discovered letters from an eminent American, then in France, had been abstracted, and which would, if they had been received, have placed him in such a light as to have prevented the unhappy consequences to her and her family. They were married, and in four or five months it was discovered that he had committed a forgery to a large smount. He fled to New Orleans, and thence to France in the forecastle of a ship ; thus siming a deadly blow at the happiness of his affectionate wife and her unborn child. And it was afterwards discovered from letters in his apartments that he had, come from France engaged in a conspiracy to perpetrate forgeries to a large amount. Two years have passd, and nothing has been heard from him. And his divorce was sought and granted (by a vote of 35 to 9' to prevent any claim by him bereafter to

DESOLATION IN THE VICINITY OF ROME .---Miss Sedgwick, the American traveller, presents us, on approaching the . Eternal City,' with the following vivid picture of the desolation which surrounds it :

" Our last poets were through the dreary wastes hat encompass Rome. The Campagna is not; as I had ignorantly supposed, a level, but presents an undulating surface without morasses or stagnant water, or anything that indicates unwholesomeness except in its utter desertion. The grass looks rich and rank, as if it sprung from a virgin soil, and its tints are glowing even at this season .----There are scattered here and there large flocks of al cep, with, lean, haggard and half-clothed shepherds and shepherd's dogs-and there are berds of oxen of a very large and beautiful species, and with horns as beautiful as antiers. But, with these exceptions, there is no life. From the summits of the hills, and there are considerable hills, the eys stretches over a wide reach of country, extending miles in every direction, and here and there en old barrach-like dwelling, a crumbling tower, a shine, or a crucifix, but no cheerful habitations, no carling smoke, no domestic sounds-nothing that indicates human life and . country content-
