Funeral of a Brave old Tar. It appears by the New Orleans papers of the Ast inst , that "old Portugese Jor, ' (Louis D. Jose,) who was burnt almost to a cinder with the hotel of which he kept the bar, was, buried with civic and martial honors. His history, death, and

Poor old Joe !- he was found in the passage. with his frame almost burnt to a cinder, and his Left Lot entirely off. From appearance, he must have sought the staircase, and blinded and madlened by the smoke and heat, sunk down exhaustel, meeting his death like a brave old man as he was. He was nearly seventy years old, and was a retired soldier, having served in the former war as in seaman and pioneer. He carried his discharge papers around his body for many years, Cantil they were so tattered and worn out that they could scarcely be recognized. Joe was captain of the main top on board of Commodore Mc Donough's ship Saratogo, during the naval engagement on Lake Champlain. In the midst of a galling fire the American flag was shot away and fell to the deck. Joe immediately seized a hummer and nails, sprung up the rigging to the top, and while a mark for every gun in the hos tile fleet, nailed securely the stars and stripes, and descended in safety. After the action the bravo McDonough called him aft, and in the presence of the whole crew extolled his conduct in the warmest terms, and presented him with a written testimonial of his respect and admiration. This act of intrepidity is noticed in Cooper's Naval History, although the name of the individual is

We hate to advert to the horrid scene of his death, but there was one little incident connected with it that we must mention. His watch chain was found melted in his boson, and links of the Puffer Hopkins, pure metal run into his breast, as though Death, cold and callous as he is, had tried to encase the brave old man's heart in a casket of gold.

"Yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock the Washington Battalion, under command of Capt. Tracy, formed in front of Royal street. -The solemn music of the dead was played, and the coffin of the old man, covered with the glorious flag of our native land—the symbol he had periled his life to honor-borne in front of the Then, save the music, all noise was hushed, and a'l hearts like

" Muffled drums were beating Funeral marches to the grave.'

He was followed to his last resting place by the military, and a large concourse of our crizens, and poor, good old Joe, who three days ago was in the full flush of health, now lies in his narrow bed in Cypress Grove.

And is there not a moral in all this? Ay, there is, and it teaches us that the bold, brave hearts of ar countrymen look upon the station, but the his coffin, and a phalanx of the bravest men fol-

The French minister made him a bow, but said that the fashion was too sacred a thing for him to meddle with, but he would do him-elf the honor to mention it to his majesty.

The King smiled and returned word that Dr. Franklin was welcome to appear at Court in any dress he pleased. In spite of that delicate respect for strangers, for which the French are so remarkable, the courtiers could not help staring at first, at Dr. Franklin's quaker-like dress, and especially at his "Blue Yarn Stocking." But it soon appeared that he had been introduced upon this splendid theatre only to demonstrate that great genius, like true beauty, " needs not the aid of foreign ornament." The court were so dazzled with the brilliancy of his mind that they never looked at his stockings. And while many other ministers who had figured in the gaudy fashions of the day, are now forgotten, the name of D. Franklin is still mentioned in Paris, with alf the arder of the most affecti mate cuthusiasm.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE.—The New York Evening Post, in an article in favor of reducing postage, illustrates the extravagance of the present rates in the following pithy manner : "

The freight on a letter weighing one ounce from New Orleans to New York, is one dillar on a pound of cotton from New York to Liverpool, one half penny.

The freight on a barrel of flour from Rochester to Albany, apart from the toll, is fourteen cents -of a letter, eighteen and three-quarter cis. The freight on a passenger from New York to Albany, in summer, is 50 cents -on a letter 18}

At Chicago, wheat is 374 cents a bushel. To send a letter by mail from Chicago to New York, and receive an answer, costs one and one-third Carbushel of wheat.
