I will be King of Diamonds With treasures all untold, And I will win me men of worth, May not be bought and sold?

I will be Ace of Clube, I will o'ercome, not buy, my foes, And conquer by my prowers, those For whom gold both no charms.

I will be Knave of Spades, And softly undermine What thou would'st overwhelm by force, Deep but unerring in my course, And the brave game is mine.

But I'll be Queen of Hearts, For doughty warrior,
And jewell'd king, and conning knave,
The rich, the wily, and the brave,
All, all belong to her!

What a Change. Some ten or twelve years ago, HERRY CLAY passed down the Mississippi, on his way to New Orleans. The boat on which he was a passenger stopped for a short while at Memphis. Only some three or four persons, at the farthest not ove half a dozen, called to see him and pay their re spects to the man of whom the entire West has THE SPRING GARDEN INSURANCE COMever had cause to be proud. This was in the heyday of Jacksonism. The false and calumnio charges of " bargain and intrigue" had swept like a withering sirocco over his fair fame, and it was only here and there that an individual could be found bold enough to do him even common reverence.-But-thank God !-- TRUTE IS ONNIPO. TEST AND PUBLIC JUSTICE CERTAIS." A few days ago, this same HEBRY CLAY again landed upon our shore, not as then, to be greeted by only two or three faithful friends, but to receive the spontaneous homage of more than a thousand hearts, kindled with admiration for his lofty character, and burning with gratitude for his public services. The cold suspiction, the deep hate, the rooted prejudice had all passed away, and political friends and opponents alike pressed eagerly forward to testify by their acts their appreciation of his worth as a man and their respect for him as a statesmen. What a change! Twelve years ago his name was a hissing and a by-word-to-day it bath power to stir the heart like the blast of a clarion, and rouse into intense action the noblest energies and impulses of the patriot's soul. In contemplating this change we are forcibly reminded of the mother's charge to her son, so beautifully expressed by Bishop Doane-What is that mother ? The Eagle, boy! Proudly careering his course of joy;

Frondly careering his course of 1097;

Firm on his own mountain pinions relying,

He breats the dark storm, the red bolt delying,

His wing on the wind and his eye on the sun.

He swerves not a hair, but bears onward, right on a Boy! may the Engle's flight ever be thine. Upward and onward and true to the line."

It is this noble fortitude—this unflinching fide-Lity to right purposes, through good report and through evil report, which has wrought this mighty change in the public estimation of HENRY CLAY, and raised him from the apparently hopeless condition of a prostrate and ruined politician to the very acme of the people's regard and affection. Like the Eagle, his course has been "onward, right on," with an unblenching eye, an unfailing pinion. It were well, if all our public men, on entering upon political life, would study and emulate his example. It is the only sure course to the attainment of enduring fame. It may, as has been the case with Mr. CLAY, lead to temporary banishment from popular favor': but in the end it will most certainly conduct him, who steadily pursues it, to the highest round in the ladder of a just ambition. For & Truth is somnipotent and Public Justice certain."

WHERE ARE THE BOYS !- Boz, in one of hi characters, says . there ain't any boys left-that there am't such a thing as a boy-that there's no thing now between a male baby and a man.' An editor down South, confirms this idea of Boz thus

Once there were interinediate states of boyhood -a bare-footed and beap, postidge-eating statespelling and cyphering period—when there were dently assuring the public that every article in boys to do the chores and go errands. But there his line, shall be of the first quality, and purely are no such things now ;- the child steps out of ats disper and frock into a long tail coat and calf akin boots. He exchanges the nipple for the cigar. Not one of the present generation has ever seen a bona fide, mine-day old pot of bean por-

But the present generation is as destitute of girls as of boys. It is either baty or lady-clout or bustle--purgery or parlor. The mother tends her infant or waits upon her daughter. Instead of spinthe lady's fair; and instead of knitting stockings and mending trowsers for their brothers, they work lace and make stays for themselves.

"Generation after generation," says an ele-quent modern writer, "have felt as we feel, and their fellows were as active in life as ours are now. They passed away as a vapor, while Nature wore the same aspect of beauty as when her Creater commanded her to be. And so like-wise shall it be when we are gone. The heawens will be as bright over our grave as they are now around our path; the world will have the same attraction for off-pring yet unborn has that she had once for ourselves, and that she now for have happened! The throbbing heart will b stilled, and we shall be at rest. Our funcral will wind on its way, and the prayers will be said, and the grave-clode will be thrown in, and our friends will return, and we shall be loft behind to darkness and the worm. And it may be for some short time we shall be spoken of, but the things of life will creep in, and our names will soon be forgotten. Days will continue to move en, and laughter and song will be heard in the very chamber in which we died; and the eye that rned for us will be dried and will glis gain with joy; and even our children will cease a think of us, and will not remember to lisp our name. Then shall we have become, in the touch ing lagguage of the Psalmist, forgotten and clean ant of mind. "-Knickerbocker.

POSTAGE REPORM -- We have high gratification in stating that the consultations at Washington between the Postmaster General and the Postmesters of the principal cities has resulted in the following conclusions:

1. The Rates of Letter Postage are to be great ly reduced. Ten cents is to be the highest rate charged for conveying a letter from any point to eny point within the United States. We believe the only minor rate is to be five cents for distances short of 200 or 250 miles, but on this point

2. The Franking Privilege is to be greatly reduced. Postmasters may frank letters strictly confined to the business of their respective offices and none others , while the letters sent without pay. ment by and to the Executive Departments Members of Congress, &c., are to be charged to the Government. -We have not a doubt that these Reforms wi be readily concurred in by Congress, and that they will prove highly acceptable and beneficial

THE subscriber has made arrangements for the sale of this celebrated Ink, by the dozen or single Bottle, at Mr. Hoover's wholesale and retail Philadelphia prices, and would respectfully invite all those in want of a good article to call, and judge for themselves. The Departments at Washington, after testing the different kinds of Ink manufactured, have decided in favor of Mr. Hoover's—and a supply

The following are selected from among the numerous certificates in favor of this link: From the Pennsylvanian. Hooven's INK .- Good ink is a very good thing, and like most good things, it is not very often to be net with; but we think we may from actual experiment, cordially recommend the writing ink made and sold by Mr. Joseph E. Hoover, No. 105 north Third street, as being a capital article.

It flows freely from the pen—is transparent and without sedimert, and has an excellent color. It s by far the best ink we have used for some time, and those who are particular in this matter, cannot do better than furnish themselves from Mr. Hoover's establishment. Their notions about ink must differ materially from ours, if they are not pleased and very much pleased with hie manufacture. Testimony of M. A. Roor, Esq., Teacher of Penmanship:

"After testing the various kands of ink found in this market during the last eight years, I am free to state that a thorough trial of Mr. J. E. Hooven's ink has induced me to use it in my Writing Roums, and the scholars urder my charge, in preference to any other, as it does not
