The First Dear Thing. The first dear thing that ever I loved Was a mother's gentle eve.
That smiled as I woke on the dreamy couch. That cradled my infancy. That cradied my iniancy.

I never forget the joyous thrill
That smile in my spirit stirr'd,
Nor how it could charm me against my will

Till I laughed like a joyous bird. And the next fair thing that ever'l loved Was a bunch of summer flowers, With odors, and hues, and loveliness, Fresh as from Eden's bowers, I never can find such hues again, Nor emeli such sweet perfume;

And if there be odors as sweet as these,

'Tis I that have lost my bloom. And the next fair thing that I was fund to love "In tenderer for to tell: Twas a voice, and a hand, and a gentle eye, That dazzled me with its spell.

And the lovilest things I had loved before Were only the landscape now, On the canvass bright, where I pictured her, In the glow of my early vow

And the next good thing I was fain to love Was to sit in my cell alone. Musing o'er all these lovely things, For ever, for ever flown, Then out I walk'd in the forest free, Where wanton'd the autumn wind, And the colour'd boughs hung shiveringly

In harmony with my mind

And the anthem undefiled.

And a spirit was on me that next I loved, That ruleth my spirit still, And maketh me murmur these sing song words Albeit against my will. And I walk'd the woods till the winter came. And then I did love the snow:
And I heard the gales thro' the wild wood sisle Like the Lord's own organ blow.

And the bush I had loved in my greenwood walks I saw it far away, Surpliced with snow, like the blending priest That kneels in the church to pray, And I thought of the vaulted fane on high Where I stood when a little child, Awed by the lands song thrillingly,

And again to the vaulted church I went And I heard the same sweet prayers, And the same full organ-peals up sent. And the same soft soothing airs: And I felt in my spirit so drear and strange, To think of the race I ran,
That I lov'd the sole thing, that I knew no change In the soul of the boy and man.

FRENCH! ORATORS .- An article in a late British Review-the Foreign Quarterly-notices the characteristics of the chief orators among the French of the present day. Odillon Barrot, Berryer, Guizot, Thiers, Lamartine, and some others are mentioned. The sketches of each are given with very slight touches, and in an off hand superficial manner. The following relates to an individual who, to his reputation as an orator and statesman, has added the fame of an able historian : "As to Thiers, his eloquence is unlike anything that ever existed, or was ever imagined. Fancy abronze statuette, gifted with the power of motion and the power of speech. If cracked, so much the better: the tingling sounds which it may be supposed to emit, will only be the truer. His features are as unmoved, as much bronze as those of the statuette. Dantan could make a Thiers in three hours-if any one else would but find the organs, the senses, and the intellect. The first ime this statuette gets up to speak, or to squeak, there is a universal desire to put him down with a universal laugh. But the little Punch is not to and and Volney B. Pulmer, their heirs and asbe put down. He fixes his spectacles (his eyes not being visible) upon his audience. He addresses them in a how d'ye do vein of eloquence, and soon captivates their attention just as if he had which Henry M. Crawford, by deed bearing date taken each person present by the botton-hole .- | the 3d day of January, 1837, conveyed to Thom-There is no warmth, no apostrophe, no rhetoric, no figure of speech, no bathos, no pathos, but wonderful tumbling forth of ideas, as if they came from a cornucopia, and that without any effort, any aim at originality, and desire to excite surprise. It is sensible and cold eloquence of most unassuming and irresistible superiority. In his own home, and from one of his own arm chairs, it is the same, except that he blends the genuine French esprit with his natural quiet oratory. In e word, Thiers is the most wonderful man in Eu-

The rich may well rejoice at a policy that more than trebles their wealth, but assfor the poor, God help them!"

A NICE DISTINCTION .- A gay sister of one of the churches in Iwos was recently called to task for having indulged in the sin of dancing. Her father acted as her counsel before the deacons, and propounded the following questions. Is it any sin to hear music, or is it ony sin to jump up !-Certainly not, the deacon replied. Wherein consists the sin of dancing? the father asked. To which the deacon replied, it consists in jumping up to the time of music. At this stage of the procee ding, the young lady begged leave to introduce the testimony of her musicians and companions, who testified that she nover kept time, and could not any way she could fix it. Whereupon she was (riginphently acquitted.

He who murmurs against his own fate does not understand it; but he who accepts it in peace, will soon learn to understand it. - What one has experienced and learned, is always a stage he has made on the way to Heaven.

The Philadelphia Evening Mercury truly observes, that the project to relieve the States dated the 29th day of March, 1837, with the apthrough the agency of a National Stock, based on the public lands, " is a measure which has nothing to do with politics, and which must stand or fall by its own intrinsic merits."
