In the argument for a new trial yesterday afternoon young Brewster, counsel for the Messre. Warnocks;-for you must know the Commonwealth are not known in the case !- took a bold and manly stand against the efforts now making to cheat justice of her dues. In speaking of Por ter, he said, pointing to him ; . There he sitswhere he should not sit-aldof from those whose than those with which he stands convicted-dangerous in the extreme-and I trust your Honor (Judge King) will remember your promise a few days since, in passing sentence upon a poor ignorant colored girl, when you stated that every individual who had been unfaith'ul to their employers should receive no mercy at your hands, providing they were convicted before you." This was too much -a new trial was immediately grante d.

A BATHING SCENT .- Mr. Kendall, in his Santa Fe Sketches, esys: ---

"At Ojo Caliente there is a noted warm well in the edge of the town, and several of our party visited it for the purpose of bathing. The water hoils up in great quantities, and forms a large and deep basin from the very fountain head. We immediately divested ourselves of our clothing and dashed into the refreshing element-diving and swimming about in water just warm enough to becomfortable. | Before we had left the large natural bathing-tub our party was increased by the arrival of several Mexican girls, who, not the least dannted by our presence; immediately joined in our equatic sports.- With merry and joyous laughter they commenced splashing the water about them; now diving to the bottom, and then rising to the surface, shaking the water from their long hair and padding about like Newfoundland dogs.

"The customs of the country sanction the open commission of scenes such as I have just mentioned, and many others which would be deemed highly indelicate in other lands; and however much the foreigner may at first be tempted to doubt their strict correctness, he soon learns that no conventional rules oppose a barrier to such acts. True modesty consist in the thought which governs every action; and viewed in this light there was certainly no immedesty in the girls of Ojo Caliente indulging in a bath, even if they did appear right before fpike, de the philosophic Sam Slick would say."

Nassua Principle of Water Proving Cloth. BY this method the pores of the Cloth are left open as before, by which the inscribble perspiration can freely escape; and at the same time it is rendered Water-proof for all practical pur-poses. The process is both simple and cheap. It is adapted to every trade and occupation, in which Cloth of any description is or can be used. Cloth having passed through this process is for ever after safe from Milden and Vermin. The following is an extract of a Report on the subject, from a Committee of the Common Council

"The Committee on Aris, Sceinces, and Schools, to whom was referred the Petition of F. II. Pettis, asking for a consideration for an invention which the Petitioner claims as his, rendering Cloth of every description Water-proof, beg leave to Report; that they examined several pieces o Cloth which they tested, and found the same im pervious to water, except from a pressure beyond that of ordinary rain, and believe that perso clad with garments made from Cloth thus prepared, would be secure from usual exposures in rainy weather. The advantages of this, above that of India Rubber will be perceived, when it is known that the pores of the Cloth are not closed, allowing the free escape of the insangular perspiration, which is important to health. The Committe are assured by the Petitioner, that the beauty or lostre of the Cloth is not terneshed, that its quality is not injured, that it is not less suple; but on the contrary, the beauty, duality and supleness are preserved, and for many pur-poses rendered more lasting. The cheapness of he application brings the advantages of the im-provement within the reach of all and the comnitte have no doubt many will be disposed from this cause to try its advantages; and such test will do more to establish its reputation than any ommendation from this Committee.

The committee feeling disposed to treat the Petitim with all fairness, and as far as they investigated the improvement, finding it to meet their expectations, they cheerfully recommend such a trial of its merits by the public, as will nore fully test its utility."
