I AM CHOKING!—I—AM CHOKING! said a sick friend whom we visited the other day. If e lay, on what he supposed to be his death bed. A reglected cold had terminated in violent, sore throat, the glands of his terminated in violent sore throat, the glands of his neck were swelled almost to supparation, his pulsa, was quick and irregular, his face guahed with fever and his flesh like burning coal. A mass of coagulated mucus had gathered in his throat, and the noise of his breathing resembled what is called the death rattle, for which his medical advisers had undoubtedly mistook it. We bade him not despais, and having before witnessed the extraordinary effects of Dr. Jayan's Kzpec tovant in pulmonary affections, we procured a bow ite of it, which we administered us fast as the almost trangled sufferer was able to swipflow it. In an had after taking the first dose our friend could breath free-ay. The phlegm and macus was dislodged from the mucus membrance to which it had addeed and was expectorated in large masses cleaving the trachla was expectorated in large masses leaving the trachla-perfectly free. Within two works the patient was well. Jayno's Expectorant is no less efficacious in acute rheumatism than in diseases of the pulmonary organs.
