"Is THAT YOUR OWN HAIR OR A WIG," said Sherida to a countryman, whom he met carrying a hare, an by so saying he won a wager made with the Prince o Wales, that he would make the worst pun his Roya Highness ever heard. No man who was sane could put Sheridao's question to any one who had used Jayne's Hair Tonic, even though he had seen the individual perfectly bald within the mosth, for the hair produced by this invaluable preparation is even softer, more glossy, and more luxuriant than that which nature originally supplies. If the hair is falling off, it will at once arrest the work of spoilation; and by removing all obstructions from the porce of the scalp, facilitate the circulation of blood and moisture so absolutely necessary to the sustenance of the roots. If solutely necessary to the sustenance of the roots. It is seed when the hair is beginning to turn grey, it will prevent that portion which remain unchanged, from vhitening.
