The Slidling Scale of Manners .- The annexed extract is from an article in "Frazer's Magazine," and is meant to apply to a would be elegantes in England. Hits at English manners, with very little deviation, often apply strikingly on this side of the water :

The ladies and gentlemen of the sliding scale are courteous to persons of high rank and station, as indeed they ought to be; they show that they can behave well and yet they cool down in manner towards others of inferior station, exactly in proportion to the grades the nobodies may chunce to hold on the scale, and descend from polite courtesy to polite rudeness-the most impertinent of all kinds of rudeness. It is, indeed, highly diverting, at times, to behold the active working of the scale, and its rapid sliding from one degree, from one extreme even to another. We recommend the curious in such matters to take a favorable position in the drawing room, and observe the arrivals and the receptions guests experience at any fashionable party; it will well reward the trouble. Notice the lady of the house in particular; for though gentlemen are in fact greater st.ders than ladies, the latter do things more gracefully, and with a prettier air. You will there see the delight, however subdued, that is evinced in receiving the high in rank, station, or fashionable reputation; the easy and friendly manner that falls the lot of those next on the scale; then there is the pretty empresse courtesy of pleasure, the profound courtesy of hate, the graceful courtesy of indifference, the sliding courtesy to the right or indifference, the sliding courtesy to the light of left, according to position—which says, "Pass on." There we see both hands extended to receive "dear Lady A," one hand held out to greet Mrs. Nabob B., and three fingers given, with a familiar nod, to Miss Nobody C. Nor is this all, for we have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left have the sweet little head leant over to the left hand le when a younger brother is advancing from the right; and a word or nod to Sir John, cast over the right arm, while acknowledging parsons Lackliving's formal bow on the left. There are a thousand pretty little tricks and manœuvres besides, all equally graceful and expressive, though impossi-ble to be rendered by description.

A good observer will easily distinguish the groups who are invited to give eclat to the party those who are only invited "because they must be invited"-those again who are to be delighted an astonished at every thing, and the old rank and file called in to fill places, and no more. Nor are guests behind the hosts in tactics; far from it, for many would have you think that they only come to confer an obligation, some even to confer an honor. The vapid exclusive affects to lounge in, merely to kill time, and looking round on the crowded rooms, seems to ask, "Is there any one here? while many, on the other hand, show at ne to act the part of regula sycophants. In general the young girls are hap-piest on such occasions; and, though you see some who have no idea beyond being admired, they still bring the greatest portion of hirality and cheerfulness with them into company, and cast, indeed, when not spoiled by fortune-hunting mothers, or the heartless and artificial tone of modern manners, the principal charm over the so called bril-liant and fashionable society of the day. Now all this, when not simple and silly affectation, is the result of mere ignorance to give it the gentlest name-possible; for persons behaving in this manner wish, in fact, to be thought, something distingue, elevated in sentiment, feelings, intellect or mental refinement, the very reverse of what their manners, which it not founded in ignorance, must Tupon as ignoble and low minded, prove them to be. And for the best and cleverest of all reasons, that every person of true worth, endowed with generous sentiments, with the kind, noble, and lofty feelings men are proud to possess, and ashamed to want, delights in being corteous and Every Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, polite, and never resorts to an opposite line of conduct, unless where cases of open and avowed personal hostility place all social intercourse out of the question. If this last proposition is just, and it will hardly, we think, be disputed, the sliders have only the choice between the ignorance of which we have in our gentleness accused them, and that rottenness of heart, from which, where there is knowledge, rudeness and bad manners car alone arise.

The above named articles have been sold very extensively by the subscriber for many years, and are conscientiously recommended to the public, as preparations of real value, and not to be ranked with the humbugs of the day, a single trial will convince the most skeptical, that their good qualities are not over rated.

" A Good Shave and Yet no Shave," LENN'S UNRIVALLED SAPONACEOUS COM-POUND FOR SHAVING.

To Gentlemen who shave themselves, this articles offered with the greatest confidence as equal, ea not superior to any other Shaving Soap in use. For delightful and consistent lather, which will not dry pon the face or irritate the most delicate skip, for the ease and comfort it gives to the often troublesome operation of shaving, rendering it surpassingly easy, this compound can be safely recommended. It is equally effectual in warm or cold water, and after using it, the face is left softand pleasant, and entirely free from the irritation and roughness often caused by the use of strong alkaliane Soaps and Shaving Creams. The compound is pleasantly perfumed and put up in a heat china box, answering all the purposes of a shaving box, and on trial will be found very economical and convenient, during the few years this article has been before the public, the proprietor has sold 35,000 boxes of it, and the demand is constantly increasing as its merits become known. The agents are authorized to return the purchase money, where it does not give entire satisfactioh.

The Saponaceous Compound is composed of ingredients, so admirably compounded, that shaving with it, is an absolute pleasure.—U. S. Gazette.

The Saponaceous Compound, is the best preparation extant for shaving purposes. It is extensively patronized, and deserves to be; every gentleman who shaves himself, should buy it.—Philadelphia Gazette.

'We beg to call the attention of the bearded portion of our subscribers, to the Saponaceous Compound. It is, without exception, the best shaving soap, we eyer used.'

—Philada. Transcript.

The Saponaceous Compound for shaving, is the best —perhaps the very best article in use, for scraping the beard from the human face divine. What with a keen razor and this compound, you may shave your face in half the time, you are pronouncing the word. It is an anomaly in language—it is a very good shave, and yet no shave.
