CLAY LAUGHING GLEE.

Air—Martini's Laughing Terzetto.

Together here we've met,
To laugh at that dull set,
Who fondly think they may—
Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!
Compete with Harry Clay.

The Locos think they can—ha, ha!
With force elect their man—ha, ha!
But soon, we trow, they'll find—ha, ha!
Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!
How far they are behind.

For what have we to do,
Old Polk, with such as you—
No, no, your only gain
Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!
Are—laughter at your pains.

And thus alike at all—ha, ha!
Who seek our Harry's fall—ha, ha!
Let e'er our voices ring—ha, ha!
Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!
While merrily we sing.

Progress of Society.

Much is said now-a-days, especially in England, by philanthropists about the evils of the present social system. The increase of the poor and the increase of crimes are particularly pointed at; and when some reformer is bursting with benevolence, he denounces the laborers of England as white slaves.

All this is, in our estimation, a very erroneous view of things. It is occasioned chiefly by the magnifying glasses which good people of late have put on, and while they looked through them magnified both the facts and their own liberality. The statistics of crime, poverty and wretchedness may be true, and yet the inferences drawn from them very false. For example, these statistics are not compared; for the very best of reasons, the science of statistics and the tables now so elaborately drawn out, of all the movements of society, did not exist until this century commenced, and, indeed have been regularly kept only within the last twenty or thirty years. But, look at the comparative state of society as pictured forth by History. Look at the real slavery of the villinage under the Feudal System, when the laborer was attached to the soil and sold with it. Look at the almost continual state of civil war, the cruelty and barbarity of the codes of war; and the pillage, rapine, murder and desolation which followed in the footsteps of the feudal chiefs. Does the Manufacturing System present any evil compared with that? Do the rich fields of England, converted into garden spots, the order and system of ten thousand factories, cheapening at every stroke the clothing of the poor; her magnificent commerce opening vast colonies of new land for her people; is all this array of new comforts, increased order, multiplied power and growing population to be set down as evils, because the density of numbers has inevitably made some poor or wretched? A man would be a lunatic who would put England back even a hundred years, with any view of benefiting the poor or preventing crime.

Society has in all its social and moral aspect vastly advanced in comfort, civilization and Christian observances since the days of Elizabeth and the Henry's. Of this there are incontrovertible facts of all sorts and kinds, in number and weight overwhelming.

One of the greatest, and one in itself absolutely conclusive is, that in the last hundred years the average duration of human life has increased FIVE YEARS! This is proved by Bills of Mortality which have been kept in some countries as a basis for Life Insurance. Now this fact is decisive against all that can be advanced about crimes and poverty. For human life is not lengthened anywhere by crime, poverty and wretchedness, but much the reverse.

But this is not all. History shows conclusively a state of inferiority in cleanliness, diet, and other means of health, which prove that there was cause why disease at least should be more frequent then than now. We will adduce a simple passage from ERASMUS; who is an unimpeachable witness; for he was frequently in England and partial to it. He was there in the time of Cardinal Wolsey, and in writing upon what he saw, attributes the plague which was then never absent from England, to the filthiness of the streets, and the sluttishness within doors. But that we may understand what he means by sluttishness—he says:

"The floors are commonly of clay strewed with rushes under which lie unmolested an ancient collection of fees, grease, fragments, bones, spittle, excrements of dogs and cats, and everything that is nasty!" What do you think of that, as a specimen of neatness and comfort? Yet that is the condition of things from which it is represented by some, that we have degenerated! For we must have degenerated if we have not grown better.—The truth is, vast progress is made, physical, moral and social. But we have not done every thing. We have not perfected human nature; and because we have not, some think nothing is done. It is a very erroneous philosophy.

As for the race of carpers, complainers, faultfinders, and critics, we have no objection to their continuing in the pursuit of their very amiable avocation; but we advise them to remember the beam in their own eyes, before they take the mote from their neighbor's. If this were always remembered, the progress of society would probably be more rapid than it is; for reformation would begin at the beginning. Nevertheless there are signs and promises, brilliant ones around us, that we have entered on a new era, and that henceforth every thing will move with accumulated velocity. —Cincinnati Chronicle.

A NEW WAY TO RAISE THE WIND.—In the Mayor's Court of Albany, on Thursday, Wm Rankin was tried on an indictment for misdemeanor in threatenening to accuse a lady of stealing lace from a store, with intent to extort money The defendant was a clerk in the store, and had been on a frolic. Having spent his last dollar he returned to Albany, and on the trip run up a heavy bill for wine, &c. He was unable to pay his bill, but promised to get the money and deliver it to any person whom the captain would send with him. An Albany officer happening to be on board, he was employed to accompany Rankin, and the latter took him to the residence of a respectable citizen, and, ringing the bell, inquired for the lady of the house. When she presented herself he at once made the charge above stated against her, and demanded $30 to purchase his silence. The lady indignantly resented the insult and the result was his conviction on trial.

IMPROVEMENT IN CLOCKS.—A new principle in clock-making we have seen announced, whereby clocks are made to run for a year or more, without winding up. They are represented as simple in construction, easily adjusted and regulated, and may be fitted up in any style required. For banks churches, and other public buildings, they will be very desirable. One that will run four years is about to be presented to the President, so that he may be reminded that the time for its being wound up, is also the period for the winding up of his ardent duties.—Albany Advertiser.

PURE WHITE LEAD.

Whetherill & Brother,

MANUFACTURERS, No 65 north Front street Philadelphia, have now a good supply of their warranted pure white lead, and those customers who have been sparingly supplied in consequence of a run on the article, shall now have their orders filled.

No known substance possesses those perservative and beautifying properties so desirable in a paint, to an equal extent with unadulterated white lead; hence any admixture of other materials only mars its value. It has therefore been the steady aim of the manufacturers, for many years, to supply to the public a perfectly pure white lead, and the unceasing demand for the article, is proof that it has met with favor. It is invariably branded on one head—WHERRILL & BROTHER, in full, and on the other, WARRANTED PURE—all in red letters.

IMPORTANT INVENTION.

SUPERIOR WASHING MACHINE.

THE undersigned having become the owner and proprietor of Mr. John Shugert's newly invented Patent Washing Machine, for the county of Schuylkill and is now making the machines at his shop, in Pottsville, where he has a supply on hand for inspection and sale, at the very moderate price of seven dollars.

This machine for cheapness, efficacy and perfection in any respect, is without exception the greatest invention in the known World. It is the only washing machine among the many thousands that have been pronounced PERFECT. It washes without rubbing or scrubbing, tearing or wearing, pressing or squeezing, knocks off no buttons, does all the finery work of cleansing Hems, Tucks, Frills, &c., in a few minutes; and washes clean all coats, vests, pantaloons, shirts and bed clothing of the dirtiest kind, with less than one tenth part of soap necessary in the ordinary way washing. A girl of twelve years old can wash more two hours, than two women in a whole day by hand.

COAL AGENCY.

To Dealers and consumers of Anthracite Coal.

THE undersigned having the advantage of twelve year's experience in MINING and DEALING in coal in this region and having now relinquished all connexion with MINING, offers his services to purchasers as a Factor or Broker; being desirous of confining his transactions and remuneration for them, to a commission only, to the exclusion of all speculation; as a purchaser and seller on his own account.

The advertiser believes that the extended knowledge he has of the different operators, (large and small,) with his constant residence in the section, enabling him to take advantage of any offers; which the temporary necessities of any of them may induce them to make. His acquaintance with the various qualities of the different veins worked, and the requirements of different markets as to quality or kind, will be advantages that when proposed exclusively to the purchaser, (who by distance, or the nature of his avocations, would otherwise be precluded from them,) confining himself in perfect good faith to a commission only on the price actually paid, will also secure to himself a share of the patronage of the Trade, and consumers of this staple.

Those interested in this advertisement, are refered for information as to the advertizer's business competency, and integrity of character, to the under-named gentlemen. FAIRBANK HODGSON.
