NEVER DO IT .- Never ask the age of an, un. married lady when she passes five-and-twenty. Never show your protested bill to a man you want to borrow money from.

Never expose your poverty to a rich relation if you would have him treat you as a cousin. Never absent yourself from church, if you have any thoughts of marrying a rich widow with a religious turn of mind.

Never omit to boast of being a good shot-a eandle snuffer at ten paces-when in the society fighting a duel. Never let it come to the cars of a rich and childless relative that you secretly pray for his sudden and premature dissolution. Never tell a man he's a cursed fool; in the first place, he won't believe you, and in the next place, you make him your enemy. Never speak of the gallows to a man whose fa-souls" to one of Tory ancestry; nor of the battle of New Orleans to one who thinks the army of England invincible. Never attempt to quiz a man in company who might retort by kicking you down stairs. Never let your friend kn w, when you drop in to take a friendly dinner with him, that your landlady "blocked the game" on you, because you had not paid her your last week's board. Never wear a bad coat while you can run your face" with your tailor.

Never request your wife (if you have one) to be silent, because it's asking an impossibility.

Never impose secrecy on a man to whom you communicate anything in confidence; he is sure to tell it to some friend if you do. Never take a newspaper without paying for it

it's the shabbiest act you could possibly be guilty

It would seein from the following, the "Reveille" entertains the same apprehensions of the influence of widows, as Tony Weller:-

BEWARE OF THE WIDOWS .- Young widows are always blithe. They ever meet one with a smile and flattering word. Can any raise tell Young willows pay very scrupulous attention to dress. None knows so well as they what colours, black, or otherwise, are best suited to their complexion, nor what tricks of millinary best serve to heighten the heanty of their form.-Their knowledge on this subject they will put in practice. Does any one know why !

Young widows, if at first pleasant, gay, and agreeable, through affectedness, presently become really so, through a habit. It is said that she who is married a second time, is a better wife to her second than she was to her first husband .-Who can give the reason, if I have not given it! Young widows are better pleased with bachelors than with widowers. What can be the rea-

Young widows are the most charming part of erention-the envy of one sex, and the beloved of the other-and why !

Newspapens .- A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper because he reads of names and things which are very familiar and he will make a progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year (says Mr. Weeks) is worth a quarter's schooling to a child, and every father must consider that substantial information is connected with his advancement. The mother of the family being one of its heads, and having a more immediate charge of children, ought to be intelligent of mind, pure in language, and always cheerful and circumspect. An instructor of her children she should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life, and is braced for any emergency. Children amused by reading or study, are, of course, considerate and very easily governed. How many thoughtless young men have spent their earnings in stavern or grog shop, who ought to have been reading! How many parents who never spent twenty dollars for books or papers for their families would gladly have given thousands to reclaim a son or daughter who had ignorantly and thoughtlessly fallen into tem tation.

Maj. Noah, in one of his walks through Broadway lately, met Mad. Restell, of infamous notoriety, flaunting in silks and satins. He thus moralizes on the occasion :

I was very near sentencing that woman to the penitontiary. I had prepared an address, so true, so painful, so impressive, that it would have mel ted the heart of even a slayer of innocents-but her lawyer stayed proceedings by a bill of exceptions, and now she nearly rides cover one of her judges, tosses up her beautiful head, and says in effect, behold the triumph of virtue!' Instead or a linsey woolsey petticoat-2 boddice of the same cloth, fitted closely to her beautiful form, her lap filled with oakum, and her tapering fingers tipped with tar-she is gloriously attired in rich silks and faces; towers above her sex in a splendid carriage. shaps her fingers at the law and all its pains and penalties, and cries out for new victims and more gold. Can that woman sleep! . . . The day of retribution must arrive, and fearful will be te reckoning. WOMAN'S TEMPER .- No trait of character i more valuable in a female than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night, wearied and worn by the toils of the day, and how southing is a word dictated by a good disposition ! It is sunshine falling upon the heart. He is happy, and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the minds of a whole family.-Where it is found in the wife and mother, you observe kindness and love predominating over the bad feelings of a natural heart. Smiles, kind words, and looks characterize the children, and peace and love have their dwelling there. Study then, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold; it captivates more than freshness and power.

WESTERN ELOQUENCE.-The following extract from a speech of a Western lawyer, we find in the Wheeling Gozette. It is a capital bur lesque :

The law expressly declares, gentlemen, in the beautiful language of Shakespeare, that where no doubt exists of the guilt of the prisoner, it is your duty to lean on the side of instinct and fotch him in innocent. If you keep this fact in view in the case of my client gentlemen, you will have the honor of making a friend of him and all his relations, and you can allers look upon this occasion. and reflect with pleasure that you did as you would have been done by; but if, on the other hand, you disregard this principle of law, and set at nought my elegant remarks, and fotch him in guilty, the ilent twitches of conscience will follow you all over every far cornfield, I reckon, and my injured and down-trodden client will be apt to light on you one of these dark nights, as my cat lights on a surser full of new mild!

REV. ORVILLE DEWEY'S recent Sermon on Slavery and the Annexation of Texas' has just een published by C. S. Francis & Co., 252 Broadway, New York. It is a very able, fearless, of bucks of blood, if you have any antipathy to sand discriminating production. We extract a single passage:-

"All the horrors involved in the domestic slavetrade are certain to be extended and prolonged by the Annexation of Texas. Let me not be told that it is a rich country in great acquisition; all this weighs nothing with me against the insuperable moral objection. If its plains were paved with gold and its mountains were studded all over ther or grandfather had been hanged; nor of the with diamond-rocks, I would not take it on the terms proposed. If it were the paradise of heaven, I would not take it on these terms!

I say, Pete, does you know how dey keep oys ters from smellin' in de hoitest ob wedder?' I doesn't tink Is does, Sam-how did they do

Why, dey fus cut dar noses off, and den dey can't smell nuffin. O yal! yah! yah! -- what an unpenumtratum nigger you is!' AFFECTIONATE .- My dear, you are not the
