VALUE OF DATS .- This grain as not cultivated. in anything like the proportion that it should be at the south and west. It is one of our best grain crops at the north. We easily get from 30 to 65 bushels per acre here, and consider the straw as highly valuable for feeding to stock, especially when cut pretty green, as it may always be, with lessening the yield of grain. Chemical analysis lessening the yield of grain. Unternical analysis affirms that 195 lbs. of oat straw are equal to 100 lbs. of good hay; for the same value it requi-res 374 lbs. of wheat straw, and 442 of rye. Oats are so much more easily cultivated than corn, we are astonished that the planters of the south do not pay more attention to them. (They need never be at the trouble of threshing, unless they prefer it. All they have to do is, cultivate my when the it. All they have to do is, cut them when the berry is in the nilk, let them curi properly, then tie them up in small sheaves and stack them, being careful to leave an air holein the centre of the stack, to let off any fermentation that may atise, and prevent heat and invite mention that may atise, and prevent heat and most. As the oats ate wanted for feed, they should be put up, straw and all. A straw-cutter is hest for the pur-pose; but it may be done with considerable ease and rapidity with a shift broadaxe, on the head of a block atanding three feet high.
