"Hood, like most other poets, has experienced many of the vicissitudes of life. Although chiefly known to the world by his comic effusions, his "Whims and Oddities," "Comic Annual," etc. he has, nevertheless, produced those of a more serious character, such as "The Dream of Eugene Aram," and "The song of the Shirt," which sre remarkable for beauty and pathos. But nothing which we have read of Hood's gives so good an idea of his amiable character and fine-heartedness as the following:"

A PARENTAL ODE TO MY SON, AGES THREE YEARS AND PIVE MONTHS.

Thou happy, happy elf!
(But stop—first let me kiss away that teat) Thou tiny image of myself (My love, he's poking peas into his ear) Thou merry taughing sprite!

With spirits feather light,

Untouched by sorrow, and unsoiled by sin,

(Good heavens! the child is swallowing a pin!)

Thou latte tricksy Puck! With antic toys so funnily bestuck, Light as the singing bird that wings the air, (The door, the door, he'll tumble down the stair.) Thou darling of thy sire! (Why Jane he'll set his planafore afire!) Thou imp of mirth and joy!

In love's dear chain so strong and bright a link Thou idol of thy parents (Drat the boy! There goes my ink!)

Thou cherub - but of earth; Fit playfellow for Fays by moonlight pale, In harmless sport and mirth,
(That dog will bite him if he pulls its tail!) Thou human humming-bee, extracting honey From every blossom, in the world that blows, Singing in youth's Elysium ever sunny,
(Another tumble—that's his precious nose!) Thy fathers pride and hope! (He'll break the mirror with that skipping rope!) With pure heart newly stamped from nature's mint, (Where DID he learn that squint!)

Thou young domestic dove! [He'll have that jug off with another shove!] Dear nursling of the hymenial nest! Are those torn clothes his best?] ittle epitome of man! [He'll climb upon the table that's his plan!] l'ouched by the beautious tints of dawning life, [He's got a knife!]

I hou enviable being! No storms no clouds, in thy blue sky forseeing, Play on, play on, My elfin John!

Toss the light ball-bestride the stick, [I knew so many cakes would make him sick!] With fancy buoyant as the thistle-down. Frompting the face grotesque, and antic brisk With many a lamb-like frisk, [He's got the scissors, snipping at your gown,] Thou pretty opening rose!

[Go to your mother, child and wipe your nose!]
Baliny, and breathing music like the south. [He really brings my heart into my mouth!] Fresh as the morn, and brilliant as its star, I wish that window had an iron bar!] Bold as hawk, yet gentle as a dove, [I'll tell you what, my love, I cannot write unless he's sent above!]

FINALE TO A COURTSHIP .- Flora! -- ah dearest Flora-I am come-ah! Flora, I am come to ---oh!---'

I see you, Malcolm, perfectly. You are come to tell me, interesting intelligence certainly.-Well, what next?' 'Oh, Flora! I am some to-to-Offer me your heart and hand, I suppose. Yes, . Well, do it like a man if you can, and not like a monkey.' 'Plague take your self-possession!' exclaimed l suddenly starting up from my knee, upon which had fallen in an attitude that might have won the approval of Madame de Millard Frazer. 'You make me ashamed of myself."

'Proceed sir,' said Flora,' 'You like brevity it would seem.' - 'Yes,' said Flora! 'Then-will you marry me?'

Yes Will you give me a kiss. Nou may take one.

I took the proffered kiss. Now that is going it more rationally, said Flo ra. When a thing is to be said, why may it not be said in two seconds, instead of stuttering and stammering two hours about it? Oh! how cordially I do hate all maiscries, exclaimed the merry maiden, clasping her hands energetically.

Well then, said I, humbug apart, what day shall we fix for our marriage. Old father Hodge was a queer dick; and in his own way, made everything a subject of rejoicing. His son Ben came in one day and said:

Father, that old black sheep has got two lambs.' 'Good,' says the old man, 'that's the most profitable theep on the farm. But one on 'em's dead,' returned Ben.

'I'm glud on't,' says the father, 'it'll be better for the old sheep.'

But t'other's dead too,' says Ben. 'So much the better,' rejoins Hodge, 'she' make a grand piece of mutton in the fall.' 'Yes, but the old sheep's dead too,' exclaim

'Dead! dead! what, the old sheep dead!' cries old Hodge, that's good, darn her, she was always an ugly old scamp.'

Father, what do printers live on?

Why, child!' You said you had not paid him for two or three years, and yet you have his paper ever week!' Take the child out of the room, what does he know about right and wrong!

A HARD QUESTION .- When the Prince Bishop of Liege was riding to battle at the head of a fine body of troops, he was asked by a spectator, how he, a minister of religion, could engage in the iniquities of war?

I wage war,' replied the prelate, 'in my character of prince, not of archbishop."

And pray, continued the interrogator, when the devil carries off the prince what will become of the archbishop!"

PROVING AN ALIBI.-A clergyman at Cam bridge preached a sermon which one of his auditors commended.

'Yes,' said a gentleman to whom it was men tioned, 'it was a good sermon, but he stole it." This was told to the preacher. He resented it and called on the gentlemen to retract what he

"I am not," replied the aggressor, 'very apt to retract my words, but in this instance I will. I said you had stolen the sermon; I find I was wrong; for on returning home, and referring to the book whence I thought it was taken. I found

The apparatus with which Dr. Leidy's extracts used in his preparation of Sarsaparilla as prepared, is the lonly one in the United States, imported by Dr. Leidy himself, from the celebrated house of Pelleter & Cavenon, in Paris, at a great expense, and is capable of extracting the medical virtues of Sarsaparilla and other roots, more effectually than by any other process.

GO FORTH INTO THE COUNTRY. BY MRS. JAMES GRAY.

Go forth into the country, From a world of care and guile Go forth to the untainted air And the sunshine's open smile. It shall clear thy clouded brow-It shall loose the worldly coil That binds thy beart too closely, up, Thou man of care and toil! Go forth into the country, Where gladsome sights and sounds Make the heart's pulses thrill and leap . With fresher quicker bounds.

They shall wake fresh life withigh The mind's enchanted bower Go, student of the midnight lamp,

And try their magic power! Go forth into the country, With its songs of happy birds, Its fertile vales, its grassy hills, Alive with flocks and herds, Against the powers of sadness In its magic all arrayed Go forth and dream no idle dreams, Oh, visionary maid!

Go forth into the country, Where the nut's rich clusters grow, Where the strawberry nestles mid the forze, And the holly-berries glow. Each season bath its treasures.

Like thee all free and wild-

Who would keep thee from the country. Thou artless happy child? Go forth into the country, It hath many a solemn grove, And many an altar on its hills, Sacred to peace and love And whilst with grateful fervour Thine eyes its glories scan, Worship the God who made it all.

Oh! holy christran man! From the New York Evening Gazette.

Electricity for Agricultural purposes. The element which now promises to be turned o the increased uses of man, in the most extraordinary way, is electricity; and of all the uses to which this marvellous agent has hitherto been applied, none promises such remarkable results as its application to agriculture. Though the principle has long been admitted, that electricity had a great effect on vegetation, it is not until of late that any practical application of such aid has been attempted; but from the results, as well as from the comparatively trifling cost of the experiment, which have been lately made, we quite agree to the conclusion of a London journalist, that the new agent is likely, belore long, to produce as great a revolution in agriculture, as the steam engine or spinning jenny have effected in manufactures. A very interesting experiment, on a somewhat considerable scale, has just been made in the North of Scotland-a portion of a field of barley, to which electricity was applied, produeing at the rate of thirteen quarters and a half to the acre, while land similarly, treated in all other respects, produced the usual quantity of five or six quarters to the acro-the electricised barley, weighing moreover 2 lbs. to the bushel more than the other. The made in which the fluid is collected and applied to influence the land, is very simple .-The field is divided into oblong squares, 76 yards long, and 40 wide-containing, therefore, just 1 acre. At each of the angles of the square, pegs are driven into the ground, and four strong iron wires are attached-commonicating with each ther—so as to form a square of grire, and 3 inches below the surface; at two points, directly upposite, in the centre of the short sides of the blong, poles are fixed in the ground 15 feet high. and a wire, communicating with the cross wire beneath the surface, is carried up one of the poles, and along the centre of the square to the other, down which it is conducted, and att-ched to the cross wire beneath the surface at that point-the square being so formed as to run from north to south, so that this upper wire shall be at right angles with the equator. As a considerable body of electricity is generated in the atmosphere, and travels constantly from east to west, with the motion of the earth, this electricity is aftracted by this upper wire, and communicated to those forming the square under the suface of the ground. It is suggested, however, that any quantity of electricity can be generated by placing under the ground, at a point in the centre of one of the longer sides of the oblong, a bag of charcoal, and plates of zinc, at the point directly opposite on the other side, connecting the two by a wire passing over two poles similar to those mentioned in the preceding account, and crossing the longitudinal wire passing from those poles.

The cost at which this application can be made is computed at £1 per acre, and it is reckoned to last ten or fifteen years-the wires being carefully taken up and replaced each year. This discovery is certainly one of the most important of modern days, and would compensate fully for the giving out of Ichaboe, even where poudrette, and other methods of manuring the ground, also exhausted. Culture or Miller.-June is a good time to sow millet. It will do well sown any time in the month. It makes when well cured, excellent fodder. One of the general advantages of this crop, is, that if the hay-crop is likely to come in light, this may be grown as a substitute. Half a bushel of seed, broadcast to the acre, is a proper quantity, though only a peck is sometimes sown on rich ground. It may, if desired, be sown in drills, and if designed for seed, this is the best way. A common turnip drill will sow the seed well. It will yield bountifully, and the sced when ground into meal, is excellent for fattening animals. Rather light ground is best for it tit will, indeed do well on land that is too light for grass. In 1841, Mr. G. Jones received a premium from the Tompkins. County Agricultural Society, for having raised on two acres, five and a half tone of millet fodder, and sixty-three bushels of seed. It was now land—the wood and timber from which was taken off in the month of April, and twenty quarts of

ing. WEEDS .- Every Cultivator thould be careful nd destroy weeds in season, for in this way not half the labor will be required that will when they have attained a large growth. Besides, if long neglected they will go to seed, and this neglect will prepare for a future crop. Another serious loss in allowing weeds to grow, a robbing cultiva ted plants of the food prepared for them. These three disadvantages combined will make all the difference between thrifty and unthrifty-be ween gain and loss .- Bus. Cult.

Numerous cases of cires, and many of them very remarkable—by the use of Scarpa's Oil, have been published, but this 'caps the climax.' Young or old may yet recover hearing. A lady in Smithfield, Pennsylvania, and now about 80 years of age had been gradually getting deaf for more ithan 40 years, so that it was next to impossible to make her hear conversation in the loudest tanks of voice; Last winter she was induced to try 'Scarpa's Oil for Deafness.'
