Of Prior's behavior in the lighter parts of life, it is too late to get much intelligence. One of his answers to a boastful Frenchman has been related and to an impertinent he made another equally proper. During his embassy he sat at the opera by a man, who in his rapture, accompanied with his own voice the principal singer. Prior tell to railing at the performer with all the terms of reproach he could collect, till the Frenchman, ceasing from his song, began to expostulate with him for his barsh censure of a man who was confessed ly the ornament of the stage. The following is a clever hit at the prevailing rage to make money by the exhibition of miserable Indians in foreign countries:

The London papers are calling upon Sir R. Peel for a duty on Indians, as the supply is fast exceeding the demand. The tariff would probably have to be adjusted on revenue principles, as we see no disposition evinced by the English people to produce their own Indians.

A Touch of the High-Falurin .- A vender of soap in Boston commences one of his advertisements in this wise :

· Clear as the foam-bell floating on the breast of a billow, and white as the filmy gossamer sailing through the viewless summer air, does Gouraud's Italian Medicated Soap make the skin of a person using it.'
