MEDICINES.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills OF THE NORTH AMERICAN COLLEGE Of Bealth.

NO MEDICINE has ever been introduced to the American Public, whose virtues have been more cheerfully and universally acknowleged, than the a-WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS. To descant upon their micrits, at this late can to be wholly unnecessary, as very few indeed who read this article, will be found unacquainted with the real, excellence of the medicine. But if further proof were wanting to establish the credit of this singular remedy, it might be found in the fact, that no medicine in the country has been so

SHAMELESSLY COUNTERFEITED.

Ignorant and unprincipled men have at various places, manufactured a 'spurious pill; and in order more completely to deceive the public have made'it in outward appearance to retemble the true medicine. These wicked people could never passoff their worthess trash, but for the assistance of certain misguided storekeepers, who because they can purchase the spurious article at a reduced rate, lend themselves to this monstrous system of imposition and erfme. The patrons of the above excellent fills, will therefore be on their guaid against every kind of imposition, and remember the only genuine Agents in Pottsville, are Messrs. T. & J. Beatty.

The following highly respectable store keepers have een appointed Agents for the sale of RIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, FOR SHAMELESSLY COUNTERFEITED.

ANECHOTES ILLUSTRATIVE OF ARABIAN MAN-IERS AND CHARACTER.-GENEROSITY.-On a rainy day the Cailiph Almotasem happened as he was riding, to wander from his attendants. While he was thus alone, he found an old man, whose ass, laden with faggots, had just cast his burden. and was mired in a slough. As the old man was standing in a state of perplexity, the Caltph quitted name of my father and my mother, I beseech thee, says the old man, 'do not spoilthy clothes.' That is nothing to thee, replied the Caliph, who, after having helped up the ass, replaced the faggots, and washing his hands got again upon his horse, the old man in the meantime crying out, Oh youth nay God reward thee!' Soon after this the Caliph's company overtook him, whom he generousy commanded to present the old man with a nole largess of gold.

RESENTMENT.—The Grecian Emperors used to pay the Caliphs a tribute. This the Emperor Nicephorus would pay no longer; and not only that, but requiring the Caliph in a haughty man, ner to refund all he had received, added that, if he refused, the sword should decide the controversy. proper effect produced on them. The sneaking The Caliph had no sooner read the letter, than inflamed with rage, he inscribes upon the back of it the following answer:

In the name of the most merciful God; from Harun, Prince of the Faithful, to Nicephorus, Dog of the Romans: I have read thy epistle, Thou son of an unbelieving mother; to which, what thou shall behold, and not what thou shall bear, shall serve for an answer.

INCIDENT IN THE LIFE OF A PRINCE. - A New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, noticing the arrival of Prince Canino in this country, to take possession of the Bordentown estates of the late Joseph Bonaparte, relates the follow-"There is quite a romantic incident concernnected with this, for the truth of which you may safely rely. The estate at Bordentown was bequeathed to the young prince, with the exception of a comfortable farm which was left to Maillard. through his prodigality the estate would be squanhis own use, he resolved to detain the young faith!' prince in Italy. The son, having derived his title of Prince Canino from the Papal States, the father had control over his person in those States, and could by the laws of the Kingdom, imprison seemed abortive. At length but one day was left in which to escape before the father should take the son to prison. Almost in despair young Maillard hastened to To the President of the National Institute Leghorn, and there to his great joy found a Sweed. ish vessel bound for New York. Jumping into a carriage he hurried back to Florence, and dressing copy of a memoir on the Pyramids of Egypt and himself in female apparel (a sign agreed on be-Nubia, which I beg you to present as a tribute of tween the two when Maillard wrote him.) sent a note to the young prince, saying a female withed ved a little after daylight. MARRING FOR MONEY. - A young man name Thomas Ryan was committed to prison at Philadelphia on Monday, by Alderman Brazer, in default of $1,500 bail to await his trial at court, on the charge of cruelly and unmercifully beating his wife, a woman who appeared old enough to be his mother, and whom he married in the expectation of thereby getting a sum of money belonging to her. Finding that she had placed it in other hands for safe keeping, and that he could not readily get at it, he beat her every day in the most brutal manner, and once was seen to drag her down stairs by the feet. He was frequently intoxicated, and beat her whenever he became so. They had only been married ten weeks, and lived in a continual state of warfare. His wife's name name was Ann Ryan, and this was her third hus-

MAXIMS FOR MERCHANTS .- The following is rom the New Evening Gazette :-

A genuine scoundrel is a man who, by sanctity, has obtained credit; and, through relegitimate creditors,

Credit or confidence given to men of doubful integrity, is an injustice done to all who hold on to their honesty.

Liberality should never be extended to the niggardly and deceptive. Risk anything before you risk your reputation

SOMETHING ANCIENT .- For the benefit of such of our readers as are fond of seeing how things were done a long time ago, says the Salem Advertiser, we copy from a New Hampshire paper of vertisement. The poetry will be found particularly worthy of condemnation :--

Whereas, I, Daniel Clay, through misrepreser tation, was induced to post my wife Rhoda in the his horse, and went to helping up the ass. When chilling your hopes with denial.

Let the sad day carry away Its own little burden of sorrow; Or you may miss half of the bliss That comes in the lap of to-morrow

When hope is wreck'd, pause and reflect, If error occasioned your sadness; If it be so, hereafter you'll know How to steer to the harbor of gladness

A series of articles entitled Wayside Notes Abroad" are now in course of publication in the New York Tribune. From one of them we extract the following description at sea :

All is in keeping, excepting only man. O man! why ert thou alone, of all creatures, fulse to God, to Nature and to thyself! A veteran tar on leaving the wheel, instead of going forward by the lee-side, came by the weather-side, where the Mate stood, courting a young damsel. This was a fine chance to show his great prowess and authority to advantage, and the young cavalier, with a heap of profanest curses, ordered the old sailor to go back and come by the lee-side. The old man returned and made the necessary circuit, with a blush of indignation; the young here smiled with self-inflation. He talked to his boys of the beauties of nature that surrounded them, and showed them in what a wonderful variety of ways beauty is a source of pleasure. He then bade them listen to the songs of the birds, to the fall of the waters, to the thousand sounds of earth and air-teaching them how each added something to the great account of living happiness. When the wind blew in their faces, or the sun shone on their foreheads, or the frost bit the ends of their fingers, he told them how much such administered to man's enjoyment. If the air was fragrant with the flowers of spring, or the sweet hay of summer, he explained to them how the organs of smell were made subservient to a revolutionary date, verbatim, the following advarious fool presented to them by their Maker's. munificence, he pointed out how numerous their pleasures, how perpetually renewed, how marvellously provided for, how infinitely apread. 'Sce,' said her the great purpose of Providence, the graeral lesson of creation-happiness."

Time; (said he) is the mater al out of which pleasure is made; and he who makes most pleasure out of it, is the man who amploys it best,-And Edith said, I fancy I understand you, Papa. Nobody can be happy unless he is pleased at something, burit is not pleasure that makes happiness. That is my meaning, love. Happiness is made of pleasures; but the best of pleasures are those which do not bring any pain after them. It would be a bad bargain if you were to borrow a penny to-day, and have to pay a shilling to-morrow for the loan of it. Yet that is exactly what community, they should all be present to have the people do who never think of the consequences of a pleasure.
