OFFICE OF THE Spring Garden Mutual Insurance Company.

Company.

This Company having organized according to the provisions of us charter, is now prepared to make instrances against loss by Free on the nutual principle, combined with the security of a joint stock capital.—The advantage of this system is, that efficient security is afforded at the lowest rates that the business can be done for, as the whole profits (less an interest not to exceed 6 per tent, per annum on the capital) will be returned to the members of the institution, without their becoming responsible for any of the engagements or liabilities of the Company, further than the premiums actually paid.

The creat success which this system has met with wherever it has feen introduced, induces the Directors to request the attention of the public to it, confident that it requires but to be understood to be appreciated.

The act of incorporation, and any explanation in regard to it, may be obtained by applying at the Office Northwest corner of 6th and Wood sts., or of B. BAN. NAN, Pottsville.

PHILADA., March 26th, 1814.
This is to certify that some two or three weeks since, two of my children were intracked with Worms—I tried every remedy that I knew or heard tell of, but without any effect, they still growing worse and worse, until the discase had obtained an alarming and FATAL character; so much so, that I and all who saw them felt satisfied that LEAVII would also the trace of the force of the property to the left with the same of the property to the left was the most considerable. and all who saw them felt satisfied that LEAVII would close the scene if relief was not mamediately obtained. One of the children presented a fearful picture of diseases and suffering, she was literally alive with worms; her countgnance had a pallid and death-like hie; her breath was extremely offensive; her frame wore away to a mere skeleton, and all the symptoms attendant upon worms were of a highly aggravated character. To such a featful extent did the disease arrive, that she actually passed worms from her nose, followed by copious and alarming bleeding. It was at this time that I applied to you and obtained a bottle of your Worm Syrup, and I must say, with but little hopes, but wonderful to say, after a few doses, a great change was perceptible, and in a few days, to my differ astonishment, the two children passed a large wash basin full of worms; since that time they rapidly recovered, and are now ince that time they rapidly recovered, and are now home.

The state of the s

. BY SAMUEL D. PATTERSON. Home! there is magic in the word, Home: there is magic in the word,
A music in the sound,
Which makes the pulses of the heart,
With ecstacy rebound;
And brings before the mental sight,
A vision rich and rare,
Of cheefful brows, and smiles of light,
Waiting to meet us there,

Tis sweet to gather 'round the hearth, 'Mid Winter's gloomy reign,
The treasures God has given to bless
Life's wilderness of pain:
When wife, and children, and the friends
We prize, assembled, prove
Their kind affection, and bestow
Fond words, and looks of love.

What though around the hoarse wind wild,
In imadden'd fury roars—
And on the frosty, fettered earth,
An icy deluge pours—
We reck not of the world without,
Who see our world within,
Where childhood's laughing, merry shout,
Outrings the tempest's din.

And oh! 'tis sweet at day's decline, United to repair. United to repair;
Around the altar's sacred shrine,
And pay our offerings there—
To thank, with grateful hearts, that Power,
From whom all good gifts come,
And pray that He may freely pour
New blessings on our home:

That as we journey onward, through
Life's pilgrimage, our way
May be illumined by the light
Of faith's celestial ray—
And when the last dark hour shall come
We, and the loved onces given
By Him, may find another home,
Lasting and pure, in heaven.

Che Chree Brides. A THRILLING STORY.

'Do you see,' said the sexton, 'those three hillocks yonder, side by side! There sleep three brides whose history I am about to relate. Look there, sir, on yonder hill you may observe a little desolated house with a straggling fence in front, and a few stunted apple trees on the ascent behind it. It is sadly out of repair now, and the garden is all over-grown with weeds and brambles, and the whole place has a desolate appearance. If the winds were high now you might hear the crazy shutters flapping against the sides, and the wind tearing the grey shingles off the roof. Many years ago there lived in that house an old man and hisson, who cultivated the few acres of atable ground that belong to it. The father was a self-taught as a, deeply versed n the mysteries of science, and as ne could tell the name of every flower that blossomed in the wood or grew in the garden, and used to sit up late at nights at his books, or reading the mystic story of the starry heavens, men thought he was crazed or bewitched and avoided him, as the ignorant ever shun the gifted and enlightened. A few there were, and amongst others, the minister, and lawyer and physician of the place, who showed a willingness to afford him countenance, but they soon dropped his acquaintance, for they found the old man somewhat reserved and morese, and moreover, their vanity, was wounded on discovering the ex-tent of his knowledge. To the minister be would quote the fathers and himself well armed with the weapons of polemic COUGHS.

Years rolled away, and the old man died. He died when a storm convulsed the face of Nature; when the wind howled round the sheltered dwe ling, and the lightning played above the roof; and though he went to heaven in faith and purity, the vulgar thought and said the Evil One had claimed his own in the elements.
