A Song. Yes, I'm in love; I feel it now, And Mary has undone me; And yet I'il swear. I can't tell how The pleasing plague stole o'er me.

Tis not her face that love creates, For there no graces revel:
Tis not her chape, to this the Fates
Have rather been uncivil;

'I'is not her air—for sure in that There's nothing more than common;
And all her sense is only that,
Like any other woman. Hervoice, her touch, might give the th' alarm-

'Tis both, perhaps—or neither; In short, 'tis that provoking charm, Of Mary all together. A NEW AGRICULTURAL WRINKLE.

A funny story is told of an old friend of oursone who, sick and tired of the care and bustle of city life, has retired into the country and "gone to farming," as the saying Is. His land, olbeit well situated and commanding sundry romantic pros-pects, is not so particularly fertile as some we have seen, and requires scientific culture and liberal manuring, to induce an abundant yield. So much by way of explanation.

Once upon a time, as the story books say, our friend, being on a short visit to this city, attended an auction sale down town, and it so bappened that they were selling damaged sausages at the time. There were some 8 or 10 barrels of them, and they were just going at lifty cents a barre, when the auctioneer, with all apparent sectousness, remarked that they were worth more than that to manufe land with. Here was an irea for our farmer friend. "Sixty-two and a half," said our friend. "Sixtv-two and a half-going at stxty-two and a half-gone !"

Our friend got then - and how to get them to his country seat as quickly as possible, was his first movement, for it was then planting time and the sausages, to use a comoton expression, were "getting no better fast," and it was desirable to have them under ground as soon as possible.

He was about to plant a field of several acres corn—the soil of the pine woods species; and so here was just the place for this new experiment in agriculture, this new winkle in the science of geoponics.
One 'link' of sausage being deemed amply suf ficient, that amount was placed in each hill accompanied by the usual number of kernels of com and an occasional pumpkin-seed and all were nicely -covered over in the u und style. Now, premising that several days have clapsed since the corn was planted, the squel of the story shall be told in a dialogue between our friend an. one of his neighbors :

Neighbor. - Well friend, have you planted you

Friend.—Yes, several days since. Neightor,—Is it up yet? Friend.-Up! yes; up and gone, the most of it.

Neighbor. - How is that. Friend .- Well, you see I bought a lot of damaged sausages in Orleans, the other day, the auctioneer saying they would make excellent manure, if nothing clie. Well, when I planted my corn, I put a sausage infrach hill. Some days afterwards, I went out to the field to see how my corn was coming on, and a pretty piece of business I have made of trying agricultural experiments. Neighbor .- Why, what is the matter ! Friend.—Matter! why the first thing I saw upon reaching the field, was the lot of dogs, digging and resutching all over it! There were my dogs, and your dogs, and all the neighbors' dogs, besides about three hundred strange dogs I never set my eyes on before, and every one hard at it after the buried sausages. Some how or time. If I could set every one of them on that auctioneer I'd be satisfied.—New Orleans Pic. Missix als Jour .- Our friend V. L. Cham bers, tells a capital little story of a Dr. Somebody, resident in Columbus, Geo.

The Doctor had been to a champaigne frolie, and ame home, late at night, "as tight as a tick." His wife had gone to bed, and the Doctor undressed and stood before the fire en chemise, enjoying its warmth. His wife perceiving that he was slightly "the worse for wear," called to him, to come to bed and not fall into the fire.

"Stop, my dear," said the doctor, who was experiencing that sensation of universal rotation common after a debauch—"stop my dear, I'll get in as soon as the bed gets round here."

Presently he stretched out his arms to make a jump but the bed seemed to whirl by him, and he paused for another chance. Again the bed swam round to him, and he made a tremendous plunge at it, but he found himself in a distant corner of the room instead of on the feathers.

"Welf, now, my dear, said he, rubbing his head, "did you ever see anything whiz by so quick !-Just as leave try to jump into a rail car under full headway!" So the Doctor commenced chasing the bed "on all fours," and by dint of hard "com ing," succeeded in getting between the sheets. (Wetumpka Whig.

SIGNITURES TO PETITIONS. - A waggish friend in our "grocery," remarking upon the case with which names are obtained to petitions, made a bet of the "oysters" that in an hour he could get fifty names to a petition asking the Legislature to hang all the veergymen in this city, every signer of which should be a church member. He got up petition, and inscited in large letters CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. The big letters all took wn went the names, taking it for granted that they were asking the repeal of the law legalizing murder. The bet was won by the wag. We tasted the oysters .- (Ex. Paper.

CHICKEN-HEARTED .- Two feilows, after drinking any quantity of egg-nozg, having disputed, one of them proposed to settle the difficulty by an appeal to prowess, or a game of the "bunch of fives." The other demurred the showed the white feather, though previously known to be a fellow

"Oh! I know how it is wid him," said a cabman-a, juvenile knight of the whip-who was present; "do fellow has drunk so much of dat egynogg, and de eggs wuz so ancient, dat he has become chicken-hearted!"

"Already do we anticipate the stupendously magnificent consummation before us. Come on ! came on! ye down-trodden and oppressed of Ire-land, of Britain, and of Europe—come on. HAAS' EXPECTORANT. FOR THE CURE OF Consumption, Coughs, Colds, &c. TO THE PUBLIC!!

IN PRESENTING this valuable medicine to the public as a remedy, for Consumption, and Pulmonary Diseases in general, I have been actuated solely by the great success attending its use in my own immediate neighborhood, and a desire to benefit the afflicted, I shall simply endeavor to give a brief statement of its usefulness, and flutter myself that its surprising efficacy will enable me to furnish such proofs of its virtues as will satisfy the most increduious, that CONSUMPTION may and "CAN BE CUREP," if this medicine is resorted to in time. As Consumption, however is a TION may and "CAN BE CURED," If this medicine is resorted to in time. As Consumption, however is a disease which differs much in the severity of its sympoms, and the rapidity of its progress, and has long baffed the akill of physicians it cannot be supposed that this or any other remedy is capable of effecting a cure in every case and in every stage of the disease; on the contrary, we must expect it to fail sometimes, a circumstance which occurs daily with all the most valuable remedies we possess, for the most simple disease. The proprietor submits the following testimonials in its favor from citizens of this County, well known to the mobile.

Mr. W. J. Haas.—Having been afflicted for the last thirty years with Consumption, and having had the advice of some of the most eminent Physicians, and was given up as incurable. I was induced to make trial of your invaluable Expectorant, and am happy to say that I am entirely cured, and am attending to my daily occupation as though I had never been afflicted. Previous to taking your EXPECTORANT, I sould not, if I had been so disposed, do anything about trade. I have since recommended it to several of my friends, and particularly one case of CONFI. MED CONSUMPTION, and am happy to state that in every instance it had the desired effect.

Let Statesmen rack their brain with care, Some mig. ty project to fulfil, The Farmer's wiser projects are Als flocks to feed, his grounds to till.

To the Almighty Power he makes, Then treads the dew bespangled lawn, Or pleasure in high labor takes.

No busy scenes perplex his life Contended with his homely fare, His children and a prudent wife.

No prodigal nor careless waste On his domain is ever found; With open hand he yet will haste To help the poor till they abound.

To crown his well-spent life at last, Kind Heaven shall claim bim for its own. FARMERS AND MECHANICS.

silver. If he were hungry, and there was no bread to be hought, his gold would be of little service. It is true, mankind, by common consent have agreed that gold and silver should be the signs fact, constitute wealth. Thus a man, who has a hundred dollars in his. pocket has a ticket, as it were, to entitle him to enter into the possession of 100 bushels of corn, or 100 yards of cloth, or 100 acres of wild land, or a yoke of oxen, or a horse and wagon as the case may be. But if these things do not exist, and he needs them, his ticket is of no more use than if he had a ticket to go into the theatre, and it should be burned down before he used it. The elements, therefore, of wealth consist in material productions brought together, changed and modified by the hand of man, of the farmer and mechanic. Commerce, though necessary and honorable, is nothing more than the moving or changing of these productions from place to place.

If we are right in the position we have taken, that wealth consist in natural productions, changed and wrought upon by the labor of man, it follows that the country which possesses the most of the elements or material to work upon a good soil;

beds of different kinds of material &c., must have he most natural wealth. It then requires the hand of industry and skill o put these materials into shape, and to put them try. Do farmers and mechanics consider these things rightly? Are they not too apt to think themselves mere plodders and servants in the increase of wealth ! And, indeed, is there not a measure themselves by it?

This standard appears to be, idleness and a fine coat; and consequently, the more idle a man can be, and timer the dress, the more of a gentleman. Not so. Respeciability should consist in an improved mind, and skilful and industrious hands. Moral qualifications being equal, he should have the most honor, who, by the combination of the efforts of his mind and physical powers, has contributed more largely to the increase of those things which constitute wealth. We clip the following from the Southern Planter

DECAY IN PEACH TREES .- A singular fact and one worthy of being recorded, was mentioned to us a few days since by Mr. Alexander Duke, of Albermarle. He stated, that whilst on a visit to a neighbor, his attention was called to a large peach orchard, every tree in which had been totally destroyed by the ravages of worm, with the exception of three, and these were probably the most thrifty and flourishing peach trees he ever saw. The only cause of their superiority known to his host, was in consequence of observing that those parts of worm eaten timber into which nails AND MACHINE MANUFACTORY.

The subscriber is prepared to furnish all kinds of Narchinery, such as Steam Engines, either high or low pressure—blowing and pumping Engines, saw and grist mill—Coal Brackers and other machinery connected with the mining business. Also, boilers, iron boats, propellers and propeller engines, iron and brass (23-propellers and propeller engines, iron and brass (23-propellers and propeller engines, iron and brass (23-propellers) and all other articles in his time of business, at his establishment in 2d street, below the Rail Road, Camden, New Jersey. precisely in the same manner, with the exception of the nailing, had always been vigorous and healthy, furnishing him at that period with the greatest profusion of the most luscious fruit. It is supposed that the salt of iron afforded by the nail is offensive to the worm, whilst it is harmless, or porhaps even beneficial to the tree. WINTER PLOUGHING .- Dash in with all your plough teams with a good heart; halt not so long as the weather permits until all the stiff grounds you intend for spring crops are ploughed deeply, and laid in the best possible way to receive the benefit of the winter frosts, GARLIC.—If your fields are infested with this pest, recollect that winter ploughing is one of the nost effective means of destroying. MANURE .- Without plenty of manure, neither good nor large crops can be grown, unless your lands are alreay fertile. Therefore set you self to work, gather and compost every thing that callby possibility fertilize your fields. Recollect that the roads, the heads of creeks, the woods, fence corners, and all other places where there are things perishable, are fruitful sources of manure; therefore see that you render each and all of them

New Mone or Cuning the Han .- An English traveller, writing from the Ardennes, thus describes a method of preserving the ham, which is certainly different from any thing generally known in America : The ham is cured in brine of salt, saltpetre, and aromatic herbs, viz: — a few bay leaves, wild thyme, a handful of juniper berries, and a little garlic. It is steeped for about six weeks, and then dried in the smoke of a chimney, over a wood fire. When wanted for dressing it is buried in the ground for about twenty-four hours and then boiled, with the addition of the same aro-VIOLINS, FLUTES &c.—For sale at MARTINS Drug Store, an assortment of Violins then boiled, with the addition of the same are matic herbs in the water. After boiling the hone is taken out, and the ham is pressed under a heavy weight. As a corallary to the dressing, it may be added, that it often happens that the ham, when produced at the table, disappears at one sitting.

THEATMEST OF Cows .- The keeping of cows in such a manner as to make them give the greatest quantity of milk, and with the greatest clear profit, is an essential point of economy. Give a cow a half bushel of turnips, carrots or other roots per day, during the winter months, beside her day; and if her summer food is such as it should be, she will give nearly double the quantity of milk that she would afford if only kept during the winter in the usual manner; and the milk will be richer and of better quality. Cattle are well known to thrive much better where the operation of currying is performed thoroughly and regularly.

Dr. Rush in a lecture upon the advantages of studying the diseases of domestic animals, states that there is an improvement in the quality of the milk, and an increase in its quantity, which is obtained by currying the cow. He assured of the,

The Wealth of a Country Depends upon its What is wealth? Those things which are convenient and necessary to use, and which adminis-ter to our wants and comforts. Money alone cannot therefore, he considered as wealth, because if the articles or things above mentioned are not to be had, or not in existense, a man would be poor indeed, though he was loaded with gold and and evidence of property, or, in other words, the measures of property; and he who has a certain amount of it, has evidence of so-much wealth; he can change it for the very things which do, in abundance of water power, forests of timber; quarries of different kind of stone; mines, and
