WHAT YOU DO, DO WELL -The following story though old, carries an excellent moral. Mr. William Grey, the eminent merchant of this city, wa familiarly known as Billy Grey,' and his favorite rule was, What is worth doing at all, is worth doing well.' On one or casion he had reason to find fault with a mechanic for some slavenly job. The mechanic recollected Mr. Grey when he was in a very humble condition, so he bore the rebuke natience

"I tell you what," said he, "Billy Grey, I shan't stand such jaw from you. Why I recollect you when you was nothing but a drummer in a regiment

"And so I was," replied Mr. Grey, "so I was a drummer-but didn't I drum well-eh ! didn't I drum well ?

Taick BCT GOOD .- A few years ago, when Soup Societies were in operation, an Irish woman came to one of the places of distribution and asked for soup, two quarts were given here toge her with a loaf of bread, which was a regular allowance for a day. About noon she made her appearance again and asted for four quarts of soup Save the man in attendace, 'I think you have been here before this morning !" "Ah, yis, but have't I taken some boarders since ?"

QUARTER NOTES .- A Teacher of music after ex plaining the belf and quarter notes to his class of juveniles, thought he would test their understand ing of his music by sundry questions. Pointing that dangerous malacy ELON VIRGIL. "William, what quarter note is that ?" "Don't know--but the hind quarter, I guess!" responded the young reprobate. "Another-Time-After explaining the differ ence between double and treble time, the teacher, pointing to the figures on the staff said : "Can any one tell what time it is ?" "Five minutes to nine !" was the promt and in-

CARNING, being ouce challenged to find a rhyme for Ipecacuans, immediately wrote the following:-"Laughing in a shady grove Sat my Juliana, Lozonges I gave my love, Ipecacuana."

Sylvester challenged Johnson to match a couple of his thymes that run somewhat thus:

"I John Sylvester, Hugged your sister.

To which Johnson immediately responded :

"I Ben. Johnson, Hugged your wife." But, said Sylvester, rather chagrined at the turn, that is no nurve.' 'No,' reterted Johnson, 'but it is 'ravr."

THE constantly increasing popularity and rale of B A. Fahnestock's Vermituge has induced per-sung who are envious of its success to paim off upon the public preparations which all medical men know to be inefficacious in expetiling worms from the version

This Vermifuge has made its way into public farous uson the ground of its own infrinsic merits, more than any other medicine of the kind now used: and while many worm remedics have by dinked publics been forced into sale, and shortly after gone into the obscurity which their worthlessness justly mer-ited, B. A. Fluenesock's Vermiluge continues to be triumphantity sustained, Al has only to be used and its effects will fully sustain oil, that is said of its wonderful expelling power.

SAVING UNINE. - Mr. BARCK, of the NEW-ENG-LAND FARMER, describing Mr. Webster's farm, at Marshfield, siys:-"There is no cellar under the arns, but Mr. Webster has hit upon a method to save every drop of liquid minure, and in the best possible way. The planks composing the floors of the cattle's quarters, or byre, as the Scotch call it, are laid with an opening between them of about one-half inch, and so arranged as to be easily tak-en up. The idea is to place about two feet of loam or other earth, under the floor ; this will absorb all the liquid part of the manure as it runs down through the openings, and in the spring will be converted into the finest minure, when it is to be AND MACHINE MANUFACTORI.
