of these stalls and the sale of the feed thus bringing in a most enormous sum to the distillery over and above the profit of the other business, the awful wickedness of which I will not here undertake to portray. . The injurious effects of this milk has been most abundantly shown in years past, and I supposed that our citizens had given up the use of it alto-gether. But since my visit to this establishment, have learned that there are in the city and all around it, in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, and other places, similar establishments, in full blast, so that there is probably more of this poisonous fluid sold for milk in the city of New York this moment, than there ever was before. And this too, not-withstanding the fact that any family here, that wants it, may have milk for tea to-night that was taken from the cows in the heart of Orange county, less than sixteen hours before. Yet there is no accounting for tastes. And the fact is, if men, heads of families, had it certified to them on the best authority that still-slop milk is a slow but certain poison; they would not care enough about it to make an effort to secure better, and so they continue to feed their children on that which is known to be decidedly and inevitably injurious.

The soul of all success in business is METHOD.

The soul of all success in business is SETHOD. What would become of the merchant if his day-book and ledger where not kept with the most meth-odical accuracy? What would befail the banker, the tradesman, or the scholar, if all their operations were not conducted by the most regular processes? And what hint is so powerfully suggested to the farmer as this very method, by her with whom he holds constant communication and and Natura becault holds constant communion-dame Nature herself? The seasons, spring and summer, autumn and winter, roll round in eternally regular succession. The seed germinates, the blade appears, the ear, the blossom, and the grain-each in its turn; succeed by the same unvarying method. Animals are brought forth, nourished, and matured, by the same unchanging law. The rain and sunshine, frost and dow, the storm and calm, are slways rost and dow, the storm and calm, are always punctual in their season. Why, therefore, should the farmer, in the midst of all this regularity, be the only thoughtless, irregular, confused, being exis-tent? Why, on the contrary, may not all his op-erations be conducted by a fixed plan from year to year; his farm be laid out in a regular number of fields; that a regular rotation of crops may follow one another in a regular order; his time and that of his, laborers disposed of according to a regular one another in a regular order; his une and that of his laborers disposed of according to a regular system; his family and household operations con-ducted by the same regular method from day to ducted by the same regular memory non- day to day 1 All this planning may be done with an im-mense saying of time and thought, compared with the usual rambling, shambling way of doing busi-ness; and when once it is settled there is no more thought about it. All is as regular as clock-work.

Inisn wir.-An American gentleman, some years ago, was showing an Irishman the figure of a ship very elegantly painted upon a wall at Harlaem ; when the Hibernian after viewing it with evident marks of delight, exclaimed; "By St. Patrick, it is mighty beautiful; I am sure it was never done in this country." How can that be, (said the American) when you see it upon the wall ?" "Arrah ! and so it is," replied the other, much embarrassed at his own want of observation, "but I mean he who did it never was here."

A CLEVER ANECDOTE. - A good story is told of Professor Humphrey: of Amherst College.-One morning, before recitation, some of the students fastened a live goose on the President's chair. When he entered the room and discovered the new occupant of his seat, he turned upon his heel and coolly observed :

"Gentlemen, I perceive, you have a competent instructor, and I will, therefore, leave you to your studies,"

CIVILITE TO A JUNCE .- Two toadies wishing to be very civil to a certain judge, one of them be gan:

Your honor knows how to manage these drunk ards and rapscallions equal to clock-work." "Yes," cried the other, when your honor gets a parcel of those ragamufin thiefs around you, your honor is perfectly at home."

A BAD BELL -- A person having the misfortune to admit as a lodger into his house an individual of very improper character, named Bell, turned him out the other day, with the remark, that he would never keep a bell in his house that wanted hang ing.

SLOW PRONOTION .- An old officer made his children rezd a chapter in the Bible every Satur-day afternoon. Upon mention being made in the book of Kings of Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard coming to Jerusalem, he stopped the reader and cried out Dear me is that man still a captoin ? Why he was a captain when I was a little boy."

An INVERENCE .- A fellow was once asked what inference he could draw from the text in Job And the same snuffed up the wind,"- Well' he replied, the only inference that I can draw is this-that it would be a long time before they would grow fat upon it."
