From the Ohio State Journal. Aly Boy. Thave a little bright haired bejon With eyes of blue hell hur. And cheeks as velvety and irosh As roses bathed with dew,

Missips as fractant seem to mine,
As strawbarres in May;
And with a lisping voice he sings,
Hurral hurra for Clay.

Three summers only bath be seen;
And when I hear his voice,
80 full of melody and gibe.
It makes my heart rejeire.
He sings full many a merry time.
And old familiar way.
But mong these all he leves the best,
To sing hurn for CLAY!

One said to him, 'Don't king-that song, My boy;' it is quite too life; Hurra for Polk and Dallas now, For Clay is out of date.' oy looked up perplexed and sad, As if he meant to say,
He's good, and I may sing for him,
Hura! hurra for CLAY.

Yes, child; he is as worthy now As in his palmiest days, When voices joined the shour and some. That now forget to raise.

These voices will be heard sgain, And join some other lay, As loud as long, as hold and fiee,

As when they aing for CLAY. But I will teach thee, darling boy.

If I am spared by fate.
That mothe decede and darling trait.
Are never out of date;
And teach thy infant line to sing—
The world any what it may— Another, and as great a name, The name of Cassies CLAY.

And when thou com'st to be a man,
Oh! may my guerdon be,
To see thee firm and fractices stand
The Griend of laberty
The champion of the point oppress'd,
Owning no tyrant's sway.
E'er struggling for thy country's weal,
As true as Cassius Clay.

Hann Pignrien .- Our readers can form some idea of the hard fighting which Gen. Taylor and this noble band of patriots encountered in the second engagement with the Mexicans, whose number so far exceeded our patriot band, by readthe following extract of a letter from an officer in the engagement :

The enemy had posted nine pieces of antillery to sweep the road, and opened at about 600 yards sweeping it in every direction; amidst this crashing of balls, did Ridgely's battery advance along the road to canister distance, returning the fire with the most deadly effect—the enemy retiring before him. When within one hundred yards of the brow of the precipice, the most ter ific fire ensued that man ever witnessed, the whole of the enemy's guns poured in canister, and their mu-ketry inces sant volleys on the flanks; florses and men were fulling at the guns; yet, single-hunded, didne contend more than half an hour, all the officers acting as privates, till the cavalry and infantry arrived when he ran his guns up to the brink of rayme. The lancers once charged at the guns, but failed under the withering five of canister. When the dragoons arrived, Capt. May charged their battery which had previously been driven across the ravine and carried it in gallant style, taking General Vega prisoner; as the cavalry could not bring the guns with them the enemy again manned them, but our infantry rushed up and retook them; capturing some others. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the infantry; working their way through the almost impenetrable chappurel, they engaged the enemy hand to hand, friend and for en falling on each other. The conflict when it became general was too deadly to last long. The enemy threw down their arms and fled in every direction, leaving behind their every thing they possessed. Our prizes are all their artiflery, (nine guns.) all their autonomition and baggage. even the private papers of the commanding General, mulés and pack-saddles without number-so complete was the route that every man fled to the

Gen. Taylor has since made his official despatch es to the Government which substantially confirm all the statements made above, except in the number of Mexicans killed, which he estimates at be, tween 3 and 400. This is not exactly correct. Experience leaches hun that all such efforts would be useless, and common sense dictates the propriety of not engaging in anything which will most likely prove unsuce essful. It is true that he makes a considerable noise, and causes no triding sensation in the mercantile world, but his object in having his name to appear so frequently in the papers of the borough, is the PUBLIC GOOD. He proclaims triths! IMPORTANT TRUTHS!! and unless the citizens refuse to see, they cannot be blind to the fact that it will be to their interest to call at his BIG STORE, 103 FEET IN DEPTH.

He would respectfully announce that this immense Store-house is jammed and crammed with bran splinters for NEW GOODS, which in variety, quality, cleaned and cheapness, cannot be surpassed by any assortment offered in the borough. Pottsville, March 28, 1816. SENTIMENTAL GIFT CARDS, price D pack, just received, and for sale at BANNAN'S Cheap Stationery store. May 2, 18. Farmer's Department.

CULTURE OF CARROTS.—This subject says a correspondent of the CULTIVATOR. is too gener. ally deemed of minor importance to the farmer, and of more trouble than profit; but from eight years experience, the writer of this article is convinced that it is worthy the attention of all cultivators of the soil, as a source of profits and as a means of increasing the health of man and

From 1000 to 2000 bushels of carrots may be raised per acre, on good land-1000 bushels per nere might be as common a yield as 40 bushels of corn. My method of sowing and cultivating this crop is as follows:—First the ground is ploughed very deep—manured the year previous with long manure,—the furrows are harrowed level. Seed is sown by hand. Furrows for the seed are made by the hoe, the edge being reversed twenty in ches apart—the seed drapped, from dishes held in one hand, taking out the seed with the other, and being careful to hold the hand close to the ground to prevent the wind from blowing it away. ered with the hoo-giving only a slight cover-ing, is best, as a shower of rain will bring up the seed without any covering, if the soil is loose and light—the seed is often lost by deep covering; if the soil is loose and light—the seed is often lost by deep covering; brush the ground over with the hoe as soon as the carrots begin to come up; when they get up, plow among the rows with a horse, 'again and again.' When harvested run a strong team and plow as near the outside rows as possible, and d'ep turning the furrows from the rows; the hands follow; after, and pull the carrots out with the hands. All kinds of soil, except wet, will produce good carrots. They may be sowed from the middle of April till the middle of June-probably the first of May is the best time. For a number of years past I have raised from 1000 to 1500 bushels per year. On rich soil, they will frequently grow to the size of five inches in diameter at the crown, and from one to two feet in length. They are profitable for every kind of live stock-more especially for milch cows in the fall, winter and spring. I have known work horses kept throughout winter on carrots and hay, and they enjoyed good health and performed well.

I can give some facts which are definite and to the point, in regard to the importance and profit of carrot raising.

M1. David Bennett, a neighbor of mine, a judicious farmer of some 60 or 70 years of age, naving never learned the value of carrots, thought them, as do many others, beneath the notice of the farmer. Last spring he consented to cultivate six squire rols on condition that I would sow them which I did. The season was dry, yet he harvested over 50 bushels of carrots from the ground, which is over 1,300 bushels peacre. He fed them at the rate of half a hushed per day, divided be-tween a farrow cow of ordinary size, and a farrow heifer, three years old past. He commenced feeding them the first day of December last, and the result is, he has made since that time from the cow and heiter, 130 pounds of good butter, beside having plenty of good milk for two persons through the winter-an increase of more than half the quantity of slops for the pigs, a saving of more than half the usual quantity of hay feed to his cows, and his cows are in better health and better flesh. His butter is of better color and flavor, and of course in better demand in the market. He now agries with me in regard to the importance of this subject to the farming commu-

Again, Mr. Sherwood, of Richland, an enterorising young farmer, at my solicitation, promised to sow one-fourth of an acre. He reported to ne yesterday. He obtained a yield of over 1,700 bushels per acre. I might go on and multiply instances-indeed I have never known an instance where the experi-men has been faithfully tried, that has not resulted m abundant satisfaction. I respectfully request every cultivator of the soil, to sow and cultivate in the best manner, the present season, on a good rich soil, at least a few rods of carrots. Let this be done, and we shall not hear so frequently of a scarcity and high price of Lay and butter.

THOMAS S. MEACHAM...

Richland, N. Y. April 4, 1846. CATERPILLARS.-Those farmers who, are in he habit of raising caterpillars se, will doubtless be gratified to learn, says the Boston Journal, that the dry weather in April has roduced a goodly share of these beautiful insects. They already begin to bask in the sun, and expand by the nutritious aliment of foliage and fruit uds, and if not prematurely molested will in a short time expel every leaf, and take full and quiet ossession of the trees. To judge of the future by be past if may be reasonably calculated, that some of our farmers, and even some who do not belong to any Agricultural Society will raise this season double as many caterpillars as apples ! But those who are so deficient in taste, as to prefer the flavor and appearance of apples, will do well to look to their trees in time. A thimble full of these rascals, which can now be destroyed in an instant, would fill a falf bushel measure a month hence, and require lenfold labor to subdue them. The common sense of every farmer will suggest the best method of extripation. One method we will mention which we never knew to fail, viz :- grasp the intruders with a vigorous hand, and squeeze the whole mass into a shapeless heap. If you do not wish to come into such close contact with the insects, wrap an old newspaper, ofter you have read it carefully, around the nest; and then proceed with the operation. THE MANY HEADED WHEAT, of which we have recently had so many, matvellous accounts in the papers, is indigenous to California. It is said that 6 heads of this wheat, procured by a Major Spering from a native of the Osage tribe of Indians, produced six hundred grains, which were planted by Mr. Alpheus Baker, of Ibbeville, S. C., the production of which was ten thousand stalks. The ground on which the wheat grew was measured by an acurate surveyor—the heads counted, and one head shelled out, and the grain weighed; a calculation was then made, the result of which was, that the wheat produced at the rate of two hundred and thirty bushels to the acre. It was planted about the last of January, and cut on the 20th of June. The land on which it grew is poor and sandy, and was unassisted by manure. This is a 'tall story,' it is true; but we have no special reasons, that we are aware of, for calling in question its credibility. Superior culture is always accorded to new seeds, and hence the wonlerful productiveness of many kinds, particularly those that are exorbitantly 'cracked up.'-Maine

KINDNESS BETTER THAN FORCE.-If you want your horse to work well, you must endeavor to make it happy; happiness increases its strength and energies, and unhappiness diminishes them. When you find it is weak in particular points, do not press and harrass the weakness, but show it indulgence. Do not urge it to do more than it is well able, as the more it is compelled to-day the less it will do to-morrow. When you find your horse begin to slacken his speed, do not recklessly compel him to maintain it, but think how youyour strength. Do not worry your horse by repeated whip strokes; as every blow robs the animal of some of his strength, and continual blows rob it also of the motives to exertion by the violence of the strokes on the skin, and also affect the muscles underneath on which the motions depend. If any person doubts this, a slight blow on his arm or leg will soon convince him of the truth. If you have two horses working together, and one horse is slower or weaker than the other, do not force it to do, as much as the other but rather slacken the speed, if even it is done by keeping the other horse back; and nover uso bearing reins; they are useless to the driver, vexitious to the horse, and are the cause of many falls; but above all, be not too fond of showing them that you are their master and they your slaves; they know it well enough to their so trow and without this trouble.
