At this time you recommended the use of your COM-POUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, which implediately began to scothe, comfort, and allay the violence in my cough, relieved the pain in my side, strengthened and healed my langs, &c. I continued the face of it, but now; thanks to God, and to the effect of your Compound Sycupof Wild Cherry, I am cured and able to pursue my daily labors.

I think it an invaluable medicine in coughs, colds and disease of the lungs, and one that should be known to all afflicted. If pursons would purchase in original and genuine article, as prepared by you, and not tamper with the many apprious and worthless preparations which are attempted to be palmed off on the reputation of yours, it might be the means of saving many valuable lives. WORK FOR THE SEASON. In this season of frost and snow, it may seem to the superficial observer that there are but few duties to perform, but such is not the fact. It is true that rops are all garnered, much of the crop of last year marketed, and the proceeds of the sale disposed of; but still the far-seeing and notable agriculturist has much to attend to in despite of weather and storm. He who desires to prosper. knows that in vigilance and careful watching over his every interest, alone depends the success of his next season's operations. He should know. too, as the times now go, more is to be realized by a wise economy and husbanding of his means than in any other way. It is a custom more honored in the Penasylvania Hall, where he will constantly keep the breach than in, the observance for farmers in casy circumstances to confide to their servants the duty of feeding out grain to the hotses and cattle, Cabinet Ware &c., &c., manufactored of the best and hence it is that often in the spring, when the working bea-its are wanted to fulfil the labors of the road and field that they are in a much lower condition than their owners had a right to expect to find them. And why is this so? Simply bethat his beasts really received the manger food which he had allotted them, and consequently, through neglect much of it had found its way to some neighboring groupery.

It is wise economy to keep a farin book in which should not only be registered at least once week ahead, every operation to be performed on the farm, a note, made each succeeding night what had been done and what omitted-the expenses of the family of every kind should be regularly kept, every sale of produce noted, so that at the end of the year one may know whether he is really making or losing by his opera-

Every possible care should be taken to make nangre and preserve it from the deteriorating influence of exposure to the weather, ne one load well made and thus proteyted is worth two which may have been left to waste its substance under the action of each succeeding rain or dissolving
