TO THE PUBLIC. JOSEPH MCMURRAY'S LINE OF EMIGRANT PACKETS.

SOME unprincipled persons, no doubt connected with some of the Passage Agencies, having industriously circulated a report that Joseph McMurray, the well-known and humane proprietor of an extensive line of Emigrant Packets, had failed, we are induced to publish the following activact forms, body that iterated lish the following extract from a book just issued in Brooklyn, New York, where Mr. McMurray resides, entitled "The wealthy Men and Women of Brooklyn and Williamsburgh." $ 130,000 Joseph McMurray, worth,

Joseph McMurray, worth, $130,000

The history of this gentleman furnishes a brilliant tample to persons of humble means as to what may be accomplished by industry and integrity in business transactions. In 1821 he arrived in New York, poor and friendless, but, by the possession of superior abilities, and a dilicence in the performance of the subordinate duties of a merchant's office in which-lee found employment, he obtained the confidence and respect of all who knew him. After laboring many years, for others, and being thoroughly requisited with merchantile operations, he embarked, with slender means, in the emigrant passeinger business, and soon, by pursuing a course of farmess and liberality to his country men and others on their arrival here from their native land, acquired celebrity and wealth. Emigrants from Europe are sphjected to many impositions and extortions from persons who charter vessels for their passage to this land of promise; but the subject of this sketch stands prought valou from the herd of "land plartes" who persons who charter vessels for their passage to this sand of promise; but the subject of this sketch stands proudly aloof from the herd of "land pirates", who victimize the poor emigrant. Mr. McMurray lass one of the largest shipping establishments in New York, and is the principal agent in this country for the Provincial Bank of Ireland. He has two sons connected with him in business, who, with their father, stand pre-eminent in the commercial world as honorable men.

in the commercial world as honorable men.

Such is the character of Mr. Joseph McMurray among his triends and neighbors, and those who trust their business with him, need not fear that they will be wronged out of one, cent.

The low rates at which passengers have been engaged for several months past, and the great advance in the price of shipping, will try the solerney of a number of Packet Agents, and, therefore, the people ought to be extremely cautious to whom they pay their money.

The Joseph McMiurray and his numerous agents in all scapport towns of Ireland, will extend all the aid in their power doring the present distress in that unhappy country, to forwarding money, provisions, &c., during the prevalence of the famine.

Persons wishing to pay their friend's passages, or remit money to any part of England, Ireland, Scotland, Walles, Canada, Germany, &c., in sums of £1 and upwards, will plea capply to
