Taking a Sweat .- Not many years, ago a now popular surgeon in one of the ships of our Gulf Squadron, entered the navy at Norfolk station. He was a youth then, not much celebrated for his even temperament, and before being admitted, was, of course, subjected to an examination. It so happened at that time, at that station, there were several old and savage sawbones in the service, and who took particular pains to baffle and worry youngestre, to the very verge of alt Christian endurance. N-, fortified himself with a stout smasher of brandy, and entered the pres ence of his judges, as he afterwards told me, with more real terror and dread than if he was about to go into a lion's cage, or a burning maga zine. The professors went into him with grape and connister, hot shot and bomb shells. They put-wounded sailors and marines before his ter rified imagination, in all manner of cuts stabe, fractures, and compound fractures: hauled him over cock-pits full of broken limbs and chattered carcases, yellow fevers, small-pox, and scorvies too tedious to mention. All of which poor Nsayed bled, blistered purged, and physicked himself safely out of. At last the professors got on to sweats had a marine dying by inches with cold chills and fevers: he must be sweated immediate ly. N —, proposed this.

"Well, suppose that would not do!" . Then N. proposed that. Well, suppose that would not do?' Then poor No proposed the other. Well, suppose that would not do?

'Very good. But if that had no effect!' con tinued his tormenters. If that had no effect, said N. in desprir the persperation rolling from his brow, and having exhausted all his remedies, and lost all patience, if that wouldn't sweat him, I would breig him before you to be examined, and if you d.da't sweat him he might die and be-!

GRAMMATICAL QUIBBLE -An English bar rister-once remarked to a judge on the bench, who prided himself in correcting the grammatical blunders of the bar: May it please your honor, I think that action will not lay.

The judge quickly replied: Mr. Barrister, you should have said lie, no Hay; hens lav.'

In the progress of the same case, the judge mide a mistake in point of fact, which being pointed out, he very courteously acknowledged by 'It is so -I set corrected.' The barrister instantly retorted:

Mn. Seturr: - Reading the Knickborker's' article on 'Boot Jacks' and big feet remin is me of addittle occurrence which took place at one of the North River landings, some little time since. The Albany boat had just arrived, and the landing was, as usual, crowded with cabmen, porters, loaf fers, &c. When the passengers commenced landin a porter stepped up to a country looking chap saying—

'Carry your baggage, sir ?' No! rather guess not, was the reply. Shan't I carry your baggage !'-'No! darn ye! -I hain't got any baggage!'

The porter looked at him a minute, then very cooly stooped down, and taking hold of one c his feet, said with an nir of astonishment-Why, massa, that's one of your feet - ain't it Hing me if I didn't think it was a leather trunk ! -- N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

A JUVENILE TANKER TRICK .- In the village of New Bedford, (says the Providence Herald.) the boys were in the habit of playing at bail. A cross-grained old chap, who kept a crockery store, was somewhat annoyed by the juvenile sports, and whenever a ball came in his way would seize upon it, take it into his store, and clap it into the ove without ceremony. A few days since, having made a prize of one of the off-usive articles in question, and adopted his u-ual course, he soon ind he had 'caught a Tartar.' A horrible explosion took place the stove was blown, ky high, plosion took place—the stove was blown, ky high, the store was shattered with the shock—and about swelling, when the pain ceases. forty dollars worth of crockery was dashed in pieces! It is unnecessary to add, that the urchins who had so often been interrupted in their sports by 'soursops' had charged their ball with gunpowder, by way of a practical hint to the old fellow to let them alone in future.

An anecdote is related of an English clothier, who, after long drinking the Bath waters, took it into his heareto try the Bristol hor well. He procured from his physician a letter to a brother Galen; stating his case, &c.; but after he had proceeded on his journey his curiosity induced him to pry into the contents of the letter, when the following words presented themselves to his astonished vision: 'Dear Sir: the bearer is a fat Wiltshire clothier; make the most of him.' It is needless to add that his cure was at once effected and he immediately turned his horse toward home 'a sadder and a wiser man."

PLEASART JURON. - Gibbons was engaged for the owner of a patent right for an improved machine for packing flour, wound up by an argument ad hominem. Now gentlemen of the Jury, I ask you whether a man ought not to recover for so valuable an invention. You Mr. Romich,' addressing an old german miller, are acquainted with the business, and I ask you whether the mawhine is not worth every cent charged for it.' 'No' said the miller, 'it's not worth a copper, I had it in my mill and I wouldn't have it buck for a hundred dollars." Gibbons took a non-suit.

INSENSIBLE PERSPIRATION.

THE preceding figure is given to represent the INMENSIBLE PERSPIRATION. It is the great EVACUATION for the impurities of the body. It will be noticed that a thick cloudy mist issues from all points of the surface, which indicates that the perspiration flows uninterruptedly when we are in health, but ceases when we are sick. Life cannot be sustained without it. It is thrown off from the blood and other juices of the blody and disposes by this means of nearly all the impurities within us. The language of the Scripture is, In the blood is the Life. If it ever becomes impure is may be traced directly to the stoppage of insensible Perspiration. Thus we see all that is necessary when the blood is stagnant or infected, is to open the pores, and it relieves itself from all impurity instantly. Its own heat and vitality are sufficient, without one particle of medicline, except to open the pores upon the surface. Thus we see the foily of taking so many internal remedies. All practitioners, however, direct their efforts to restore the insensible perspiration. The Thompsonum, for instance, steams; the Hydropathist shrouds us in wist blankets; the Homepathist deals out infinetesmals; the lailopathist bleeds and doses us with Phils: pills!! pills!!!

To give some idea of the amount of the Insensible Perspiration, we will state that the learned Dr. Lewenhock ascertained that five-eighths of all we receive into the stomace passed off by this means. In other words, if we cat and drink eight pounds per day, we evacuate five pounds of it, by Insensible Perspiration.

This is none other than the used up particles of the blood, and other juices, giving place to the new and fresh ones. To check this, therefore, is to retain in the system five eights of all the virulent matter that nature demands should leave the body.

It is by stooping the pores that overwhelm mankind with coughs, colds and consumptions. Nime-tenths of the worfd die from disease induced by a stoppage of the Insensible Pers INSENSIBLE PERSPIRATION.

MALLISTER'S ALL HEALING OINTMENT, OR, THE WORLDS' SALVI

M'ALLISTER'S ALL-HEALING OINTMENT,

OR, THE WORLDS SALVE.

It has the power to restore perspiration on the feet, on the head, around old sores, upon the chest, in short, upon every part of the body, whether diseased slightly or severely.

It has power to cause all external sores, scrofulous humors, skin diseases, potentials to discharge their purity matters and then heads them.

It is a remedy that forbids the necessity of somany, and deleterous drugs taken into the stomach.

It preserves and defends the surface from all derangement of its functions. The surface is the outlet of fivelethins of the hile and used up matter within. It is pierced with millions of openings to relieve the intestines. Stop up those pores and Dath knocks at your door, it is rightly termed All healing; for there is scarcely a disease, external or internal, that it will not benefit. It have used it for the last 14 years for all diseases of the chest, consumption, liver, involving the utmost danger and respons bility, and I declare before Heaven and man, that not ha one single case has it failed to benefit, when the patient was within the reach of mortal means.

I have had physicians, learned in the profession, I I have had physicians, learned in the profession, I have had ministers of the Gospel, Judges of the bench, Aldermen and Lawyers, gentlemen of the highest endition, and multitudes of the poor use it in every variety of way, and there has been but one voice—saying McAllister, your Oinfiment is good."

Cows, -Although we have been favored with the luxuries emissing from the cow ever since the flood, we are still very ignorant of her value, and of the proper mode of managing her in sickness and in health. We are taught to believe that it was unnecessary, indeed improren in all cases, to milk a cow before she had her first call; and, if I am not mistaken, this belief prevails universally as .

am not unstaken, this belief prevails universally at the present day.

Our attention was recently called to a favorite—
Durham heifer, whose udder was considerably influed and distended, nearly three months before her time of calving, and gradually increased for two months, until the size was so enormous, and the inflammetion so great, that we were apprehensive matter would form in the udder. To prevent this we ordered her udder to be well bathed, morning, on, and night, with water as warm as it could be applied without scalding. By this mode of treatment, the udder was relaxed, but gradually increased in size, until we were satisfied that she could not be relieved until she was milked. The first effort brought off several pints of thick serous or watery matter; the second day the discharge was a mixture of water and milk, and on the third day we had the pleasure of measuring seventeen pints of milk, and from this time forward until she salved-which was about one month from the Erst time of milking—she yielded from 16 to 18 quarts of fine rich milk every day. The calf found the udder in fine condition for sucking, the teats all soft, and the milk flowed upon the slightest compression of his lips. In this way we preserved the udder of one of the finest cows we ever milked; and feel very confident that if we had left nature to herself, the udder would have been spoiled .--Cor. Tenn. Agriciturist.

THE ORGANIC PART OF SOLLS .- That portion of the common earth usually denominated or-ganic, is found by the agricultural chemist to vary much both as respects quantity and quality, in different soils. In those of a peaty formation or character, it exists in great abundance, and the same remark applies, not unfrequently, with like correctness to lands that have been long cultivated and strengthened by frequent and cepious applications of invigorating manures. Some of the most productive soils that have been chemically examined, have yielded from ten to twenty per cent, of organic matter, and under the most favorable circumstances, it has rarely amounted, in the richest, to more than one quarter, or twenty-five per cent. Some of the most productive wheat fields in Great Britain, have been found to contain no more than nine or ten parts of purely organic matter in the hundred. A distinguished agricultural writer in remarking upon this subject says:
Oars and tye will grow in a soil containing only one and a half per cent; and barley when only two or three parts per cent, ore present. As very old pasture lands, buil in gardens, vegetable (orginic) matter ocrasionally accumulates so as to be injurious, and overload the upper soil.' This contingency, however, is one that need not be dreaded in this country, though it may some-times happen in others where the soil is older, and better manured .- Maine Farmer. HINT'S TO FARMERS .- A farmer should never undertake to cultivate more land than he can do thoroughfy; half-tilled land is growing poorer; well tilled land is constantly improving.

A farmer should never keep more cattle, horses or hogs than he can keep in good order; and an animal in high order on the 1st of December, is already half wintered. A farmer should never depend upon his neighbor for what he cam by care and good manage-ment, produce on his own farm; he should never beg fruit while he can plant trees, or borrow tools when he can make or buy them-a high authority has said the borrower is servant to the lender. No farmer should allow the reproach of a neglected education to lie against himself or family. It knowledge is power,' the commencement should b. early and deeply laid in in the minds of his children. A farmer should never use intoxicating liquors as a drink. . If, while undergoing severe fatigue. and the hard labor of the summer, he would enjoy robust health, let him be temperate in all things. A farmer should never refuse a fair resi We have known a man who had several bundred bushels of wheat to dis-pose of, refuse 8s., because he wanted 8s. fid., and after keeping it six months, was glad to get 6s.

for it. COLD WATER FOR CATTLE. - Farmers are you aware that very cold water in the winter, as well as in the summer, is injurious to your stock? If not we can assure you that it is the fact. It often causes disease, especially of the bowels; and under no circumstances will cattle drink so much of it as is absolutely necessary for their thrift.

Water, if possible, should be obtained from a spring; and be drank as it bubbles out, at a modcrate temperature, or be pumped up fresh from a well, or be taken from holes cut through the ice of a deep stream or clear pond. The water of a swift running stream, where more or less of its surface is exposed to the frosty atmosphere, is usually quite too cool for healthy drink. That also taken from standing troughs preshallow pools, with the ice broken upon it is equally injurious. It is better to have the water, brought from a spring, into the yard or stable and when wanted, turn it into a trough easily accessable to the stock. When they have drank sufficiently, stop the running of the water and turn the troughs dry; then no ice is made to chill the water excessively to the injury of the animals drinking it .- American Ag-

AMARGAMATION OF Soils .- One of the cheapest, and probably most efficient modes of permanently increasing the productive capacity of certaid soils, is that of amalgamation. With this process the scientific culturists of Europe have long been familiar, and few of the more enlightened ever attempt to work even the heavy and tenacious clays, or the light sandy loams, with-out previously ameliorating them by some appliation calculated to alter their texture. This object is usually effected by an admixture perates as an alterant, physically speaking, but it facilitates certain atmospheric effects highly bene-ficial to the crop and soil. GREAT SLAUGHTER OF SHEEF .- Levi J. Hop.

Thirty thousand have been killed at one place in the town of Richmond, and from ten to wenty thousand each in three other places in the ame county. PLOUGHING IN CHCHARDS. - It is best to uso xen in ploughing in orchards, wherever practicade, because they can be made to work so much closer to the trees than horses, without doing harm. But if horses must be used, the whifiletree should be as short as practicable, and we have seen the outside trace chains and the end of the wiffletree covered with pieces of old carpet or bagging, to
